REP. MAY RIPS TVA REPORT AS A PUBLIC FRAUD

Profits Claim False, Says Kentuckian.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Andrew J. May [D., Ky.], chairman of the house military affairs committee, today charged that the Tennessee Valley authority had attempted to give the public the false impression that the agency was on a profit making basis.

Representative A. J. May.

In telegrams to newspapers, May protested against the publication of articles based upon a press release handed out by TVA. Facts do not bear out the agency's claims, he asserted, and asked that the other side be presented.

"The TVA power program is supported by a single leg: The federal government has gone into the normally private business or producing and selling electric power solely for the purpose of demonstrating whether rates of private enterprise are fair and reasonable," May said.

Only Justification in Peril.

"To ascertain a comparable rate figure, the TVA claims to have set upon itself the same requirements as would apply to private enterprise engaged in the same business.

"If it can be demonstrated that TVA has arrived at a 'net income' only by avoiding comparable requirements placed on private industry, then the only justification for the TVA power program is destroyed.

"A study of the text of the annual TVA report discloses certain facts not given to the public in the press release concerning the report. These facts once again demonstrate that TVA is fundamentally dishonest in its attitude toward the public and toward congress. Once again the 'yardstick' justification—its only reason for existence—is proved conclusively to be a preconceived misrepresentation and a fraud on the nation's taxpayers, who actually are making up a concealed annual deficit of millions of dollars."

"Sneak Trick" Blocked.

"The text of the report leads me to suspect that TVA was caught recently in the act of attempting to sneak a trick play over congress. Early in December TVA submitted to the budget bureau, and to the house appropriation committee, justifications for a new appropriation in a table showing net income from power operations—of $3,400,299 for the fiscal year 1939. This table, however, made no mention of depreciation charges.

"At the hearings TVA was criticized by committee members for failure to include depreciation in the income and expense account.

"We find, however, in the annual report, that the item of $1,731,000 is included as the depreciation charge for power operations. This amount deducted from the $3,400,000 figure which TVA tried to sell the house appropriations committee as 'net income' leaves a figure as 'net income' very close to that which the annual report now sets forth [the report put the net income at $1,479,000].

Forced to Revise Headlines.

"I rather think that had TVA not been checked on this matter, Sunday's headlines would have said 'TVA makes $3,400,000 profit.'

"My reason for suspecting TVA of 'doctoring' its own figures before the appropriations committee is because they did the same thing two years ago—and got caught at it.

"Then it was dressing the windows for an appropriation for the Gilbertsville dam. Estimates as to size and cost were presented as considerably lower than the estimates of size and cost given under oath in a federal court in Tennessee by one of TVA's engineers."

May asserted one of his colleagues caught the discrepancy and forced the admission that the lower figures presented to congress were, in fact, untrue and that their actual plans called for a larger, more expensive dam.

"How can the public trust a government agency which would attempt such a trick?" May asked. "The

LIMITED PLOWS INTO REAR END OF CRACK FLYER

Thos. E. Tallmadge, Architect, Killed.

WRECK PICTURES.

Turn to the back page for unusual pictures of Illinois Central train wreck taken a few minutes after the accident; also an air view of the wreck by a Tribune photographer.

A widely known Chicago architect —Thomas E. Tallmadge—was killed, and 54 other persons were injured early yesterday in a collision between two passenger trains of the Illinois Central railroad at Arcola, in Douglas county, 156 miles south of Chicago.

Arrow locates scene of wreck.

The accident occurred just before dawn, with the temperature six degrees above zero, when the Panama Limited plowed into the rear of the Louisiane. Nearly 150 passengers were aboard the two flyers, en route to Chicago from New Orleans.

Puts Blame on Flagman.

After a preliminary investigation of the accident, which is to be carried on today by the Douglas county coroner and later by the Interstate and the Illinois commerce commissions, J. L. Downs, the Illinois Central superintendent at Champaign, indicated that much of the blame rested with the Louisiane's flagman.

Champaign railroad officials identified the flagman as A. S. White of Chicago. Downs said the flagman did not set out his warning flare soon enough and far enough back of the last car.

Another cause of the wreck was given both by R. S. Scott, of Champaign, engineer of the Panama Limited, and dispatchers, who were quoted as saying that the Panama Limited's safety control system was out of order.

This system is an electrical device which automatically gives warning whenever the distance between two trains on the same tracks shrinks to less than half a mile. The engineer then has five seconds in which to reduce his speed. If he fails to do so, an automatic control stops his train.

Reports Control Out of Order.

Scott was quoted as saying that he reported the control system out of order at Centralia, but was told to proceed. This version was confirmed by dispatchers who added that Scott was given special instructions, and that the Louisiane was notified that the Panama Limited was following "without train control." The dispatchers are said to have reported that "the accident apparently was caused by failure of the flagman to provide proper protection."

Five all steel Pullman sleepers on the Louisiane were telescoped in the wreck as were the diner and coal tender of the Panama Limited. Most of the passengers in both trains were asleep at the time. The weather was clear. Earlier reports said it was foggy. The Panama Limited was about two miles behind the second section of the Louisiane.

Engineer John Stout of the Louisiane stopped at Arcola to pick up a Chicago passenger. During that brief stop the Panama Limited closed up the normal two mile gap. Engineer Scott of the latter train was not aware of the unscheduled stop of the Louisiane. Nevertheless, as a matter of caution, he had reduced the speed of his train from 70 miles an hour to about 30.

Fireman Leaps from Cab.

Suddenly his fireman, Fred Fulfer of Champaign, shouted: "There's a rear end up there and we're going to hit!" Fulfer jumped from the cab. Scott applied his brakes, but his heavy train skidded into the Louisiane which at that moment was slowly pulling away.

Tallmadge was crushed in the wreckage. He was returning from the south with his sister, Miss Abbey Tall-

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS HOW FINNS MAN FRONT LINE

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE MANNERHEIM LINE, Finland, Jan. 1.—New Year's day proved to be the quietest day on Finland's Mannerheim line since the outbreak of the war.

My day long tour of inspection of these front line positions on the Karelian isthmus failed to reveal any evidence of Russian preparations for another large attack.

The Finnish patrols which last night at many places penetrated to five and eight miles behind the Russian front, cutting telephone lines, discovering the positions of soviet artillery, also reported they found no indications of large troop movements.

I visited the front line trenches near the Vuoksi river where there has been almost daily fighting since Dec. 3 when the Red army was brought to a halt by the first line Finnish defenses.

Heaps of Russian Dead.

A long walk thru the trenches gave many close views of barbed wire entanglements in the no man's land where heaps of Russians lie dead. Many had fallen over the waist high barbed wire nets which repeated Red attacks have failed to break in this sector. Many of these casualties have been lying there for a fortnight but the Russians have made no attempt to remove their dead. A light snowfall is rapidly concealing the bodies of the latest victims, some of whom were shot down yesterday.

I also visited the headquarters of a Finnish artillery regiment which has installed its guns in a formidable little forest fortress. In a large dugout seven feet high I talked with officers who have been opposing the soviet attacks since the invasion began on Nov. 30.

Draw Foe Out of Position.

The Finns forced the Russians back into their territory at this point twice. Then the Finns retired to their present positions. This was done all along the frontier to get out of range of the heavy artillery which the Reds had mounted in their permanent frontier fortifications. It was done also to separate the Russians from their well prepared network of communications behind their own frontier and to lure them into more vulnerable positions.

The colonel commanding this sector said the Finnish infantry patrols which have penetrated the Russian lines almost every night had not lost a single man.

Intercept Enemy Patrols.

"Thus far no soviet patrols have succeeded in entering our lines. Two nights ago one of our patrols, consisting of four men, encountered a Russian patrol of nine men on their way here," the colonel said. "Our men killed all nine. Later another seven appeared and they also were killed.

"Our patrols returned carrying the dead Russians. We made a number of interesting discoveries. The men all were members of the Moscow branch of the communist youth union which, next to the special GPU [secret police] troops, are the élite troops of the soviet's armed forces.

"They had better uniforms than ordinary Red troops and carried gas masks and knapsacks manufactured in Russia after German models. Most astonishing was the fact that they recently had bathed and were wearing new underwear, showing that the division opposite our position recently had been replaced.

Attack in Mass Formation.

"These troops participated in some recent attacks on the isthmus, but repeated the same untrained tactics of their predecessors, advancing in mass formation. Our sector is heavily forested and, as the Russians are not famed for fighting in woods, they like to keep bunched together for protection.

"Prompti, at 12 o'clock last night one of our batteries fired 24 timed shots at the Russians as a New Year's salute," the colonel said. "Because we don't like to waste ammunition, we covered one of their emplacements. They fired 300 shells as a reply and as usual failed to hit anything."

HIT TURKU, MAIN ENTRY POINT OF WAR MATERIALS

Soviet Motor Column Reported Smashed.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 1 (AP).—Many buildings in Turku [Abo], seaport city which has been the terminus of war materials sent to the Finns from their Scandinavian friends, were reported in flames late tonight after a fierce raid by soviet bombers.

The Red planes, striking back for reverses suffered by Russian land armies on the eastern and northern fronts, roared over Turku in midafternoon. Finnish dispatches said many incendiary bombs fell in the heart of the city, starting tremendous fires.

Turku is a city of some 20,000 population in southwestern Finland at the mouth of the Gulf of Finland. It once was the capital and is the terminus of three important rail lines.

The new aerial "blitzkrieg" was unleashed as Finns officially were announcing the smashing of a soviet motorized column and continued pursuit of a shattered Red army division on two snowbound fronts, and while President Kyosti Kallio called upon the world for help in "active resistance at the front."

Far Flung Air Raids.

The high command's communique reported far-flung Russian air raids, apparent reprisals for severe setbacks suffered by the Red army on land, and told of one in which Russian bombs fell on Norwegian territory.

In the Petsamo region fronting on the Arctic ocean, it said, Russian flyers crossed the Finnish-Norwegian boundary and "dropped bombs on the ice of the River Pasvik inside Norwegian territory," but there were no reports of damage or injury to any one. The Norwegian government in Oslo ordered an investigation.

[Dispatches from Kirkenes, Norway, opposite the Petsamo region, said numerous Russian soldiers on that front had been found frozen to death at their posts. Night temperatures of 40 degrees below zero Fahrenheit were reported, restricting activity of both sides. The Finns in that region were said to be assembling an air force including four-motored planes.]

Destroy File of 12 Cars.

The Finns reported their latest success against invading Russian columns in the Salla region, just above the arctic circle, where, they said, "our troops destroyed an enemy column of 12 cars."

About 160 miles to the south, near Suomussalmi, the communique told of further development of the "great victory" reported yesterday, in which the 163d Red army division, some 15,000 strong, was said to have been "definitely cut up and for the most part destroyed."

Pursuit of its routed remnants continued, the Finnish command reported today, and more booty was added to the huge quantities already collected.

[Yesterday's soviet military communique said: "On Jan. 1 nothing important took place at the front. Soviet aviation successfully bombed a number of places. Two enemy planes were brought down."]

Thanks Finland's Friends.

Finland rejoiced over this triumph but mourned new civilian casualties in the Russian air raids and her leaders faced the future with realization of the heavy odds still against the nation in her conflict with a vast neighbor.

President Kallio in a New Year message thanked Finland's friends for aid already given and told of increasing arrivals of foreign volunteers for the Finnish forces. But he continued:

"All this is encouraging for us Finns, but it is obvious that swift solution of the situation calls for active assistance at the front, the only place where ruthless aggressors' schemes can definitely be put to naught."

[Copenhagen dispatches said several thousand Swedish volunteers had gone to Finland under command of former Swedish army officers. Great Britain informed the league of nations she would give Finland all assistance possible to fight the Russians.]

The communique recounted results of yesterday's extensive Russian raids, asserting 17 civilians were killed and many wounded at Jvaskyla, 170

Tries to Steal Car; Owner Is in It; 2 Hurt

Cole Ferry, 39 years old, bought his wife, Ione, a shining chrome and cream sedan for Christmas. Its sleek lines quickly became the talk of Gurnee, a Lake county town where Ferry operates a hardware business.

The Ferrys celebrated New Year's eve in Waukegan. They started home early yesterday. The hardware merchant, a 200 pound 6 footer, settled down in the back seat for a nap while Mrs. Ferry did the driving.

Stops to Greet Friends.

He was sleeping peacefully when they came to the club for employés of the Johns-Manville company at Greenwood avenue and Ash street in Waukegan. Mrs. Ferry stopped a moment to go in and wish some friends a happy new year. She left the motor running so the heater could remain on.

Ferry awoke with a start. The car was hurtling west in Greenwood avenue. There was a strange figure—a man—at the wheel. The man didn't know Ferry was in the back seat, but he soon was aware of it.

The merchant silently pushed aside a robe and, half rising, clutched at the driver. He fastened upon the fellow with a powerful bear hug. The thief, tall, and wiry, drove with one hand while he struck at Ferry with his clenched right fist. They struggled for nearly half a mile. Then a sign loomed in front of the car.

"Dead End—No Thorofare," it said, in big letters.

What Happens at 60 M. P. H.

The car must have been going 60 miles an hour. It crashed into the sign, plunged thru a heavy wire fence, and continued ahead 15 feet to the embankment along the North Shore line right of way.

It dived over the edge of the embankment and fell 15 feet to the rails. Motorists found the wreckage there with the two men inside.

Ferry was taken to the Victory Memorial hospital. He regained consciousness last night 15 hours after the accident. He is suffering from a concussion and serious internal injuries. Also in the hospital is Frank Clamerlik, 26, of 1101 McAlester street, North Chicago, the man who tried to get away with the Ferry sedan. He has a broken leg.

HITLER SENDS PEER'S WOUNDED DAUGHTER HOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Miss Unity Mitford, 25 year old daughter of Lord Redesdale and close friend of Adolf Hitler, has left Germany for England in a special ambulance train arranged by the fuehrer, it was revealed here tonight. Miss Unity is seriously ill from a revolver bullet wound in the head and is being escorted by her mother and her sister Deborah, according to reports published here.

Lord Redesdale waited for his daughter's arrival all day today at an English channel port, but she was not aboard when the boat arrived. The last leg of her journey probably will be by air.

Miss Unity was found wounded in a Munich, Germany, park early in September. She was reported to have been depressed by the outbreak of war between Britain and Germany.

France Curbs Gayety; Dons Confident Air

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 1.—One would have to go back to the last war to see France begin a new year as it did today. The year 1940 was ushered in with less celebration, fanfare and hornblowing and happy predictions for the future than at any time since 1918.

France has regained some of her nerve and the original blackouts gradually have become something more than even semiblackouts. Cafés and restaurants are still open, but few public places or homes reported real gaiety this morning.

Pall Hangs Over Every One.

Over every one hangs a pall, and outside of the natural prediction that England and France will win the war not even the professional fortune tellers who write new year pieces for the newspapers have cared to prophesy how or when. Lacking also are the military and political seers to foretell what course of action may be expected in these spheres.

Inactivity at the front and the fact that the war so far has failed to produce any bombing raids on cities have removed its original terrifying aspects. The resumption of horse racing at various tracks and other sports activities also have had a calming influence. There is no sign of any lack of confidence.

However, repeated announcement by government leaders that the people of France would be called upon for steadily increasing sacrifices as well as visible economic and financial burdens imposed by the war have not been taken without concern.

Encourage Motherhood.

Thru a new family code which went into effect today and other decrees the government endeavors to encourage and protect mortherhood and otherwise equalize the war burdens.

[Under the family code France will make grants and loans for more babies to halt the sharp decline in the birth rate.]

But also effective today was a new code slapping a 5 per cent tax on all salaries, pensions and life annuities in addition to the income tax.

miles northeast of Helsingfors, and three civilians killed and many hurt in Vaasa, on the west coast.

The communique declared the Finns had repulsed heavy artillery-supported Russian attacks on the Karelian isthmus and above Lake Ladoga.

Kallio in his message reviewed Finland's diplomatic negotiations with Russia prior to hostilities and said the nation was "attacked by Russia while the negotiations still had not been concluded.

"Her action in setting up a communist government for a nation she had not yet conquered shows that she had decided to occupy and bolshevize our country because we had not accepted the Russian demands outright."

Revive Imperialism.

The president referred to the communist régime set up at the frontier village of Terijoki which Moscow has recognized as the legal Finnish government and with which she signed a nonaggression pact.

"Old imperialistic Russia, thruout our history a threat to Finland, stands revealed: Without the slightest cause on our part she invaded our country," Kallio said.

"Our comfort in this time of great trial is the spirit of sacrifice and solidarity that lives in our midst. In its distress the Finnish nation has found its true self. And for that, at least, we can feel joy."

After thanking the army and women's organizations helping behind the front, the president closed with the prayer that "God protect this country and this people during the year now beginning and forever."

Awarded Order of Lenin.

MOSCOW, Jan. 1 (AP).—Russia's highest decoration, the Order of Lenin, was awarded today to Gen. B. M. Shaposhnikov, chief of the army general staff, "for successful guidance of the operations of the Red army," but the announcement made no mention of the campaign in Finland.

Tass, the official news agency, in publishing the award, did not specify what operations were meant.

Also rewarded by the supreme soviet were 48 commanders and political workers in various military organizations "for successful accomplishment of tasks assigned by the Red army command in connection with operations of the Red army." Lesser decorations went to 169 workers on construction projects.

In recent months the Red army has been in action in eastern Poland and against the Japanese on the Manchukuo-Outer Mongolia border as well as in Finland.

JOHN L. LEWIS' NAME RESTORED TO TWO SHOWS

The name of John L. Lewis, head of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, was heard once more last night on the stages of two Chicago theaters. The censorship imposed by theater managers when they heard James C. Petrillo didn't like their Lewis skits is officially over.

One of the shows now performing with benefit of the original script is George White's "Scandals" at the Erlanger. The other is "The Man Who Came to Dinner," at the Harris.

Petrillo is president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, an American Federation of Labor affiliate. He has said he doesn't like Lewis and he doesn't like the C. I. O., but he never intended to set himself up as a censor.

Yesterday Petrillo was in Miami, Fla. Word came that he wasn't worrying about the Lewis sketches. So the managers decided they weren't going to worry either.

RUMANIA WARNS IT WILL FIGHT IF INVADED BY REDS

Finns' Defense Stiffens Nation's Attitude.

CONSTANZA, Rumania, Jan. 1 (AP).—Premier George Tatarescu declared today that Rumania would fight to defend Bessarabia and Bukovina, her two provinces which border on soviet Russia.

Provinces [in black] which Rumania will defend.

Addressing sailors of the Rumanian navy in the presence of King Carol, the premier declared that the populations of the two provinces "chose to come to Rumania of their own free will" after the world war and "we will defend them to the last man."

Once Austrian Territory.

It was the first time that Bukovina, Austrian before the world war, had been mentioned by Rumanian leaders in connection with dangers of foreign invasion.

Diplomats speculated as to whether the Rumanian government has reason to believe that Bukovina, as well as Bessarabia, will be the object of Russian desires.

A few months ago it was authoritatively reported that Rumania had moved most of her troops out of Bessarabia—Russian territory before the world war—with the semiofficial explanation that the province was impossible to defend.

If it were invaded, it was indicated, the Rumanians would abandon it and make their real stand on the line of the River Pruth. Russia never has abandoned her claim to Bessarabia.

However, it has been admitted that since seeing the results of Finland's resistance to the Red army, the government has moved some troops back to Bessarabia with officials expressing greater confidence in Rumania's ability to offer effective resistance against Russian pressure.

GERMANS BALK RAID BY PLANES ON NORTH SEA

BERLIN, Jan. 1 (AP).—Germany's high command announced today an attempted aerial attack on Germany's North sea coast was beaten off yesterday afternoon.

Its communique said: "On the western front, no special events. Enemy planes attempted to attack the German North sea coast the afternoon of Dec. 31. It was apprehended in time, however, and repulsed."

French Repulse Raid.

PARIS, Jan. 1 (AP).—The Anglo-French high command's communique tonight said: "A quiet day on the whole. An enemy detachment attempted a raid on one of our posts west of the Vosges mountains, which was repulsed." The morning communique reported last night had been calm.

ANOTHER GERMAN LINER SLIPS THRU NAVAL BLOCKADE

St. Louis in Home Harbor; Abroad 7 Months.

BERLIN, Jan. 1 (AP).—Another ship of the hunted German merchant fleet, the 16,732 ton Hamburg-American liner St. Louis, reached "a home harbor" today after slipping thru the British naval blockade.

The official news agency's announcement of her arrival gave no clew to the course of her wanderings since she slipped out of New York Aug. 27 when war became imminent. However, informed sources said she had been one of the 16 German ships which found haven at Murmansk, Russia's arctic port, soon after the war began.

Abroad for Seven Months.

Many of these, including the great 51,731 ton luxury liner Bremen of the North German Lloyd, already are back home.

The St. Louis had been abroad for seven months. She was the fifth and last of the Hamburg-American's crack North American liners to reach home safely since the war began. The others are the Deutschland, New York, Hamburg, and Hansa, all of more than 21,000 tons. The New York was one of the 16 at Murmansk.

Gradually these ships have been navigating the perilous sea lanes back to Germany, those from the arctic apparently having had better luck than others.

The Columbus, third largest unit of the merchant fleet, was scuttled off the Virginia coast Dec. 19 and her crew brought to New York and the fast Cap Norte was taken to Britain as a prize. A dozen other ships took refuge in South American or African ports and were captured or scuttled by their crews.

Tacoma Becomes Prisoner.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 1 (AP).—The black-clad German freighter Tacoma rolled dismally at anchor in Montevideo harbor tonight, prisoner of Uruguayan neutrality for the rest of the European war.

Her master, Capt. Hans Know, submitted to internment this morning at expiration of a Uruguayan deadline giving him until 8 a. m. to get out.

Thus ended the bold show the Tacoma made yesterday of taking to sea to face British warships which have watched this harbor since the German pocket battleship, Admiral Graf Spee, fled into refuge here at the end of a 14 hour battle on Dec. 13.

The 8,268 ton Tacoma stood by the Graf Spee and took aboard some of her crewmen just before the pocket battleship's commander, Capt. Hans Langsdorff, blew up his floating fortress Dec. 17 rather than accept internment or battle.

Marines Board Ship.

Today, without any such show of defiant violence, the Tacoma's war usefulness was ended—apparently just as effectively as was that of the Graf Spee or the great German liner Columbus, scuttled off the Virginia coast within sight of a British warship Dec. 19.

Fifty Uruguayan marines on the steamer La Valleja went out to the Tacoma this morning and boarded her. She had lain at anchor all night just inside the outer breakwater, whence, with the German battle flag flying, she had steamed yesterday from a point closer to shore.

A Uruguayan naval clerk drew up the certificate of internment and Capt. Know signed it. A lone Uruguayan naval officer was left aboard with the Tacoma's captain and crew of 60. But tonight, alongside, lay the La Valleja and 20 Uruguayan naval seamen, on guard against any attempt the freighter might make to depart. The Tacoma's radio equipment was dismantled and her engines silenced.

Uruguayan authorities gave Capt. Know and his men two days to wind up shipboard affairs. Then they will be interned and sent to live in the interior of Uruguay.

Ship Will Be Docked.

Foreign Minister Alfredo Guani declared the Tacoma would be docked within the next two days, pending a decision on what he characterized as her "ultimate destination."

Uruguayan internment of the Tacoma's crew will follow the example of Argentina, which took like action against 1,039 crewmen of the Graf Spee after they had landed at Buenos Aires. Capt. Langsdorff cheated internment—by shooting himself.

Uruguay charged that the Tacoma, in standing by at Capt. Langsdorff's behest to pick up the crew of the Graf Spee, had functioned as an auxiliary man o'war during an "act of war," namely, the destruction of the Graf Spee. She therefore was subject to the same rules of neutrality which forced the Graf Spee to leave at the expiration of a 72 hour deadline.

Along the Rhine river from Basel to Lake Constance the Swiss have built a fortified line, much of which is visible from the railroad connecting the two points.

DivorcesFall Off inLondon; Blackouts Hide Evidence

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Divorce lawyers operating in London's West End have been hard hit by the blackouts and their $50,000 a year incomes are slumping. It is practically impossible for their private investigators to identify a husband or wife in the dark while seeking evidence of adultery, the main grounds for divorce.

57 More British Airmen Lost in War; Total Now 437

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP). — The royal air force today announced the addition of 57 names to its war casualty list, making a total of 437 members of the air service killed or missing since the conflict started.

NEW DEFENSES READY; SWISS BREATHE EASIER

Line Extends from Basel to Lake Constance.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Jan. 1.—Switzerland, which has hastily thrown up a formidable system of fortifications since the war began, enters the new year calm but prepared.

Paralleling the Rhine river from Basel to Lake Constance, the Swiss army has constructed a "Maginot line" of heavy concrete fortresses, machine gun pillboxes, miles of barbed wire, antitank traps, and trenches. Much of this line of defense can be seen from the Basel-Lake Constance railroad. Some of the forts, which are said to extend two or three stories under ground, are elaborately camouflaged.

Basel Barricades Cut.

With erection of permanent defenses, the Swiss removed some of the temporary barricades that blocked the streets of Basel. These barriers, which were put across all the main thorofares, served a stopgap purpose in the early days of the conflict when the fear of invasion was in every one's mind.

Basel is full of soldiers but they are mostly those 38 years old or older. The younger men are in the fortifications along the Rhine and to the south of the town, where it is reported the real defense will be made if necessary.

Put Faith in Crack Shots.

It is estimated that in a defensive warfare in which mechanized weapons were used, each Swiss soldier could account for six invaders. The Swiss are among the world's best shots. They familiarize themselves with rifles at an early age. Boys 10 to 12 years old, who would be Boy Scouts in America, spend week-ends on the rifle range. Small calibre rifles are used but when the boys begin their military training at the age of 20 they are given service weapons. Every Swiss keeps his rifle, ammunition, and uniform at home and takes his week-end practice seriously. Records are kept of his score, and if it is not up to par he is forced to serve extra time in the army.

Air Defense Improved.

The Swiss had a shortage of anti-aircraft guns at the beginning of the war but have remedied the situation and are now prepared to cope with large scale air raids.

Extensive preparations have been made to protect Bern from invasion. Between Basel and the nation's capital are several lines of defense.

AMERICANS GET MAIL IN BERLIN, BUT 2 MOS. LATE

BERLIN, Jan. 1.—Americans in Berlin received an unexpected thrill today when they discovered letters from the United States among the new year's mail that had been sent between Oct. 19 and Oct. 24. The envelopes had been opened and resealed with stickers bearing the inscription in English, "Opened by the censor."

There were other mysterious notations on the labels such as, "P. C. 66" and "1147." What permitted of definite deduction, however, was the recognition that the letters reached their destination after having been in British custody from eight to nine weeks.

Mail out of New York which eludes British seizure makes fairly good time via Clipper and other neutral routes, being usually only 10 or 12 days in transit. It is opened by the German censors, but promptly released if it does not violate wartime censorship regulations. It is chiefly American mail carried on neutral ships that touch British ports that is seized and held indefinitely.

GERMANY SEEKS TOTAL BLOCKADE OF BRITISH ISLES

Tries to Plug Up Gaps in North and West.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 1.—With the dawn of a new year Germany today let it be known that she will attempt to blockade the British Isles completely from all sides.

Nazi leaders admit they have been unable to cut off Britain's western and northernmost ports. Supplies from America and from the British dominions continue to reach the island kingdom thru its western ports and valuable mineral ores from Sweden still are arriving in Scottish ports.

Worried About Swedish Supplies.

Nazis assert that measures must be taken to put an end to this situation. They are especially worried about the supplies reaching Britain from Sweden. Swedish mines of Jellivare send ores to Germany thru the Baltic sea. But they also send ores over the mountains into Norway. From Narvik these ores travel the northern route to Scotland.

Germany's heavy bombers can reach this northern route, but the distance is so great that they cannot patrol the route as thoroly as is deemed desirable to cut England off from her Scandinavian supplies.

This anxiety about Scandinavian supplies of ore, timber, and foodstuffs going to England is the underlying cause for the recurrent campaign against Scandinavian countries.

Go Easy on Rumania.

Turkey and Rumania also will become the objects of energetic attacks by Germany. For the moment these attacks take the shape of propaganda campaigns. Rumania fares better than Turkey because she is sending raw materials, oil, and foodstuffs to Germany and accepting the reich's long delivery terms for the goods with which the Nazis promise to pay.

In Turkey more energetic action is being taken. Franz von Papen, ambassador to Ankara, recently summoned German bankers and business men located in Turkey and requested them to prepare to liquidate their businesses. The Russian diplomats took similar action. Both Russians and Germans intimate the measures are being taken "because it will not be long until Turkey is involved in the war."

Cling to Peace Hopes.

The perennial optimists who are still clinging to the hope that after one spectacular Germany victory England will be eager to come to terms with Germany are whispering to their friends:

"The cause of peace is not lost. Both the pope and Mussolini are working for it. The pope succeeded in inducing President Roosevelt to send a representative to the Holy See. With an American diplomat accredited to the Vatican it will be easier for those working for peace to keep up contact and take prompt action when they see the slightest hope of making the belligerents realize that a continuation of the war would mean senseless sacrifices for all those directly or indirectly involved."

However, these hopes seem futile to experts on foreign affairs. The average German every few weeks hears a new date for "the ultimate German victory and compromise with England and France."

Predict Peace in April.

When the war started optimists assured their listeners that by Nov. 15 peace would be restored in Europe. Now they set the date as April 15.

Adolf Hitler told his friends that by then the struggle will be decided in Germany's favor. Nevertheless, the men fighting in the trenches and those "fortifying the inner front" with their propaganda campaigns indicate Germany is in for a hard war.

FUR NECKPIECE STOLEN.

Mrs. Gladys Trask, 822 South Wolcott avenue, reported to police yesterday that while she was celebrating New Year's eve in the loop some one stole one of the two silver fox skins making up her neckpiece.

Enjoying the Cold

Bernetta Litzenberger, 6 years old, on the ice at Lincoln park lagoon yesterday.

Near zero weather in Chicago, and subzero temperatures in the suburbs were forecast for today by Forecaster C. A. Donnel of the government weather bureau. The maximum temperature is expected to be about 18 degrees above. The first day of 1940 started out with a temperature of 9 degrees above at midnight, but at 3 a. m. the mercury had dropped to 7 above. At 1 p. m. it was 22 degrees, the maximum for the day.

The clear cold weather brought out approximately 200,000 ice skaters, park and city officials estimated.

Otto K. Jelinek, park district traffic engineer, said sand has been distributed to hazardous curves and inclines in the boulevards in preparation for icy weather. Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said the city is prepared for snow. It has 40 snow plow attachments and within a few weeks 15 new snow plows will be available. The plows are attached to street bureau trucks.

BRITISH WIN TWO VICTORIES IN AIR; LOSE TWO SHIPS

Two German Planes Raid Shetland Islands.

LONDON, Jan. 1 (AP).—Great Britain entered two air victories, against two sea losses in the 1940 war ledger today before the new year was a day old.

Two German war planes raided the Shetland Islands north of Scotland, one of them dropping bombs as it went into a power dive over a British warship, but failing to inflict damage, the air ministry said.

Antiaircraft guns on the warship, unidentified in the ministry's report, directed heavy fire at the raiders and apparently downed one of them.

No Casualties Reported.

There were "no hits on his majesty's ships and no casualties," the communique reported.

In another aerial encounter a second German plane was said to have been shot down over the North sea by a coastal patrol plane.

The air successes were offset by loss of the trawler Barbara Robertson, which survivors said was torpedoed by a German submarine, and the 5,677 ton steamer Box Hill, which sank after hitting a mine. Twenty of the Box Hill's crew were missing. One crewman was lost from the Barbara Robertson.

In addition the British tanker Dandelfino was beached after she was damaged by a mine. Her crew of 41 landed safely.

Twelve survivors of the Box Hill, landed at a British port, said the vessel sank so quickly there was no time to lower lifeboats.

Faces New Sacrifices.

Britain braced herself to meet progressive intensification of the conflict during 1940, expecting widespread changes which will demand sharp adjustment of the nation's social and industrial life.

King George VI. of Britain tonight signed a proclamation providing for registration of approximately 2,000,000 more Britons for military service. The action, taken thru the privy council, means that military registration for service for Britain will involve men from the ages of 19 thru 27. Men of 20, 21, and 22 were affected by previous conscription orders.

Tonight's order will make a total of 3,500,000 men technically under arms.

Mobilize 23 Year Olds First.

Formal call-ups for the various new age groups will be spaced over some months, with the 23 year olds being mobilized first, perhaps on March 1.

The speed with which the new age groups will be called up will be governed by developments. There have been strong indications that British military leaders expect sharply intensified warfare in 1940.

Sir Thomas Phillips, secretary to the Labor ministry, said: "I think it is pretty certain that all new classes will have been called to the colors by the end of 1940."

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, already has warned that "almost unbelievable sacrifices" may be needed to win the war. Faced with increased income and other taxes. Britons were preparing to meet new demands of their greedy war machine.

Forced to Land at Sea.

BERLIN, Jan. 1 (AP).—A German scouting plane was forced to make an emergency landing at sea off the Scottish coast during an air battle with the British today.

Great Britain Baits Sea Trap for Germany's Mining Planes

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 1.—An eight-mile safety zone of sea between Britain's east coast and a 500 mile belt of mines being laid off the coast is expected to become a trap for German mine sowing planes.

This was revealed today by the admiralty when it disclosed new details of the gigantic mining operations, which will place a belt of mines 30 to 40 miles wide from northeast Scotland to the Thames estuary.

Shipping Zone Reduced.

Shipping entering the eastern ports will have to travel the eight mile safety lane, and if German planes want to place their mines effectively they'll have to come to this area. Britain expects to have both fighting planes and antiaircraft guns waiting for them.

At the same time, the admiralty's mining operations mean that all traffic in the North sea proceeding to Britain will be herded into certain channels, thus simplifying the British navy's attempts to control neutral shipping.

Scores of thousands of mines are placed in the new British field and, according to naval sources, are being laid at varying depths to cut down the chances of penetration by U-boats. Experts estimate that 15,000 to 20,000 square miles of sea will be deadly to enemy boats when the last mine is laid. The operations will increase tenfold the area of existing British mine fields, some of which will be absorbed.

Shore Blackout Intense.

To a depth of 12 miles the mined area, and extending as far as Southampton, runs a blackout belt in which lighting restrictions are more rigidly enforced than in any other part of Britain. So-called synthetic starlight—street lighting such as recently was installed in the west end of London—is banned in this area because of the fear that the feeble rays, which scarcely pierce the blackout and are almost invisible to a person on the ground, might guide German raiders to coastal objectives. This blackout zone covers both sides of the big river estuaries, and along the Thames, for instance, extends to the edge of the London boundary.

Report Reds Bar Foreign Newsmen from War Fronts

New York, Jan. 1 [Special].—The Russian government refuses to permit foreign correspondents to go to the Russian side of the soviet-Finnish war fronts, it was learned today thru highly reliable sources. This, it is said, explains the absence of dispatches from those areas. Early in the soviet-Finnish war, Russian newspapers carried dispatches from Russian correspondents with the attacking forces. Now the only information about fighting from the Russian side is contained in soviet high command's daily communiques.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 (AP).—The American Red Cross announced today that heavy expenditures for Finnish assistance during the last 10 days had brought the total cost of its war relief operations to $858,881. A total of $138,746 has been spent for Finnish relief, Chairman Norman H. Davis reported; $307,432 for Polish relief, $25,000 for Great Britain, and $12,755 for France, among other expenditures.

Britain Stops Importation of Cigarets from America

LONDON, Jan. 1.—Cuban cigars and American cigarets are the chief products hit by a board of trade order which prohibits the importation of manufactured tobacco and snuff from foreign countries except under special license. No licenses will be issued until further notice. The ban was imposed because of unfavorable rates of exchange.

$250,000 IS GIVEN CHRISTIAN NEEDY BY JEWISH GROUP

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—The United Jewish Appeal for Refugees and Overseas Needs announced today that it had allocated $250,000 to Christian refugees.

The organization said $125,000 of the sum will be transmitted to Pope Pius XII. by Bishop Bernard J. Sheil of Chicago for the aid of Catholic refugees and as a memorial to the late Pope Pius XI. The other $125,000 will be turned over to Dr. George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, for use by Protestant refugee agencies.

In a letter to Bishop Sheil, Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver and Rabbi Jonah B. Wise said Jews "will always remember Pope Pius XI.'s unflagging efforts to vindicate the divine doctrine of the brotherhood of man."

They wrote Dr. Buttrick that the sum for Protestants constituted "an acknowledgment on our part of the sympathy and support of the leaders of the Protestant churches for victims of persecution."

Bishop Sheil wrote in acceptance that in honoring Pope Pius XI., Jews paid tribute to a man who "denounced racial intolerance as contrary to the laws of God and to the dictates of right reason." Dr. Buttrick wrote "the one sufficient answer to intolerance is good will. Your gift is a clear token of good will."

MILWAUKEEAN BACK IN U. S. AFTER TERM AS GERMAN PRISONER

Boston, Mass., Jan. 1 (AP).—Erwin Ernst, 30 years old, a Milwaukee salesman, returned to America on the freighter Black Gull yesterday after spending three months in a German concentration camp.

German born, Ernst became an American citizen in 1930, and visited his fatherland last January. His internment came after a Heidelberg tavern quarrel before war was declared.

Ernst said he had argued that Germany's policy inevitably would lead to war, and that as a result of his words with some strangers, the gestapo took him without trial to a camp at Mannheim, where he said he was well treated altho the food was poor.

ARMY PREDICTS GREATER OUTLAY FOR EQUIPMENT

450 Millions Spent During Last Fiscal Year.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—The war department spent more money for equipment in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, than the nation spent in the prosecution of the war with Spain in 1898, Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, declared today in his annual report.

In the fiscal year, which stands out as the army's most active in peace time history, the department spent approximately 450 million dollars on all forms of equipment.

"That the future may hold prospects of even greater activity in this office may best be illustrated by the fact that funds appropriated for the ensuing fiscal year, 1940, permit expenditures—for fighting equipment alone—in the sum of $373,267,832," Johnson said.

Special Attention to Planes.

"Concrete evidence of the increased activity is readily discernible in items actually procured. But the progress now made in our planning, in our educational orders and in the closer knitting into a pattern of our industrial mobilization plans, while less patent, may prove equally epochal in scope."

In current procurement special attention was given to aircraft, the assistant secretary said. In the fiscal year in which congress authorized increase of the air strength to 6,000 fighting planes, 736 planes with a total value of approximately 39 millions were delivered to the air corps. In the same period, orders for 1,047 new planes, valued at approximately 66 million dollars, were placed.

The total expenditures in the 1939 fiscal year for planes, according to the report, was $92,232,231—$47,539,919 for airplanes and spares, $32,908,849 for engines and spares and $11,783,463 for other government furnished equipment.

Antiaircraft Guns Ordered.

While air corps requirements have dominated the war department procurement field, extensive purchases also have been made to meet the needs of other arms and services. Production orders have been placed for a 400 per cent increase in the number of sound locators for antiaircraft fire control; a 210 per cent increase in three inch antiaircraft guns and carriages; a 140 per cent increase in antiaircraft machine guns; a 153 per cent increase in semiautomatic rifles; a 130 per cent increase in directors for antiaircraft fire control, and a 15 per cent increase in trench mortars and scout cars.

For the first time contracts have been placed for quantity purchases of antitank guns and 37 millimeter antiaircraft mounts. Orders have been placed with industry for assorted types of ammunition, at a cost aggregating approximately $12,000,000. More than $4,000,000 was used to buy war reserve machinery. Springfield armory was tooled up, at a cost of $1,800,000, for increased production.

Johnson cited the securing of funds for educational orders with industrial firms to enable them to produce approximately 55 critical items in time of war as one of his major achievements in office.

T. E. TALLMADGE, ARCHITECT, DIES IN TRAIN WRECK

Widely Known as Teacher and Historian.

Thomas Eddy Tallmadge, who was killed yesterday in the Illinois Central railroad wreck at Arcola, Ill., was one of America's most widely known architects. He was 63 years old.

T. E. Tallmadge.

Mr. Tallmadge was nurtured in the Louis H. Sullivan architectural tradition. He was considered one of the greatest teachers and historians of architecture.

His major interest in design was Gothic, and with his former partner, Vernon Watson, he became widely known for his construction of churches. The First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston and the First Congregational church of Evanston were designed by him. Others include the First Presbyterian church on the south side and the Grace Lutheran church in River Forest, one of his last undertakings.

Author of Several Books.

His "The Story of Architecture in America," first published in 1927, is considered one of the best studies of the subject. In 1935 he published "The Story of English Architecture," and he had been working recently on "The History of Chicago Architecture in Chicago" in his studio at 19 East Pearson street.

Mr. Tallmadge was a member of the advisory committee of architects that supervised restoration of Williamsburg, Va. For many years he lectured on architectural history at the Art institute. During the summers he supervised the Art institute's summer school of painting which used his 100 acre tract at Saugatuck, Mich.

Studied Under D. H. Burnham.

Mr. Tallmadge was born in Washington, D. C. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1898, and after seven years tutelage under the late D. H. Burnham, he and Watson formed the architectural firm bearing their names. The firm was dissolved several years ago. Mr. Tallmadge recently became associated with William Alderman.

During the world war he was architect in chief of the Victory Loan decorations here. He designed the Colonial Village at A Century of Progress, 1934, and was one of the architects for the federal north side housing project in 1935.

Mr. Tallmadge was a member of the art commission of Evanston, where he lived in the Homestead hotel with his sister, Miss Abbey Tallmadge. He never married.

madge, with whom he lived in the Homestead hotel, Evanston. Miss Tallmadge was pinned in the wreckage. She and most of the injured were brought to Chicago during the afternoon.

A vivid description of the wreck was related by H. P. Walker of Jackson, Miss., who occupied a berth across the aisle from Tallmadge.

"I happened to be awake when the crash occurred," he said. "The train had just started moving. Debris came piling all around me, and pinned me down."

"The man across from me groaned for about three minutes. I judge it was two hours, at least, before they were able to cut him out of the metal.

Lights Go Out; Steam Hisses.

"All the lights in the car were out. It was bitterly cold. Water pipes apparently were broken, for the sound of hissing steam went all thru the car. It was fully half an hour before any one brought a light.

"From where I lay I could see the outline of a woman's head which had been knocked into such a position that it rested in a triangle of metal, trapped there. She screamed. I had a terrible feeling of frustration in not being able to help her."

On the Louisiane's two day coaches, near the engine and packed with a holiday crowd, passengers were thrown from their seats. Two of these, Dr. E. H. Webster, a student at Harvard university medical school, and Miss Eleanor Reidell, a medical student at the University of Illinois, both of whom had boarded the train at Mattoon, went into immediate action. They hurried to the telescoped sleeping cars and began administering first aid. Fifteen minutes later ambulances, doctors, and nurses were on the scene.

114 Passengers Shaken Up.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 1 [Special].— One hundred fourteen passengers were shaken up, and a few bruised tonight when a Rock Island railroad passenger train bound for Chicago sideswiped a freight train near Chillicothe, 20 miles north of here.

The locomotive, mail car and one coach of the passenger train were derailed. The locomotive was badly damaged. Three freight cars of the freight train were overturned and wrecked and the caboose damaged. The passenge- locomotive was badly damaged.

The freight, which was southbound, had switched to a siding to permit the passenger train, north bound, to pass.

MILLION DOLLAR SUBWAY STEAL GOING TO TRIAL

Airing of New York Nickel Racket Begins Today.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 1.—Details of the New York municipal subway nickel steals—a million dollar racket exposed and still being investigated by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey—will be aired in the first of the theft trials which opens tomorrow in General Sessions court.

The first defendant in the list of 36 indicted is Edward J. Rigney, former subway turnstile maintenance man. He is accused of looting the turnstiles of $25,000 thru a method of making them register fewer fares than actually were paid and then pocketing the unregistered nickels. He lived like a man of means on a salary of $30 a week, Dewey's investigators asserted.

He will be prosecuted by Sol Gelb, one of Dewey's assistant district attorneys.

Further Inquiry Hinted.

Rigney and the 35 others—28 of whom have confessed to the wholesale short-changing—are former employés of the independent subway, which is operated by the board of transportation, a city body.

A hint that the inquiry may go deeper than the ring of nickel thieves was given by Dewey's office last week in a letter from Paul E. Lockwood, Dewey's executive assistant, to John H. Delaney, chairman of the board of transportation.

"The investigation by this office," Lockwood wrote, "and the presentation of evidence to the grand jury will continue until full and final responsibility is placed for the inadequacies of railroad management and the failure to protect the city with the elemental precautions against employé peculations known to all experienced rapid transit operators.

Rigney Faces 2 Counts.

"The investigation before the grand jury also is endeavoring to determine whether this failure to protect the public was due to official incompetence or neglect or some other cause."

There are two counts in the indictment against Rigney. One charges him with grand larceny in the theft of the nickels from the turnstiles from 1934 to 1937. The other count accuses him of forgery by aiding station agents who were in on the steal in making false reports.

At the time of Rigney's arrest, Dewey's men found $2,700 in bills of $100, $20, $10, and $5 denomination hidden in three tin cartons on a pantry shelf in his home.

Rigney had made bank deposits running into the thousands, according to Dewey's office. He had a $4,000 summer bungalow on Long Island, and a $1,000 automobile. Sometimes he made bets as high as $70 a day on the horse races.

$60 Found in a Shoe.

Rigney got his job in August, 1932, and was dismissed in June, 1937. He was detected turning back a turnstile recorder and when he was searched $60 was found in one of his shoes.

In his letter to Delaney, Lockwood asserted that another of the board of transportation's employés, a station agent, found stealing from the city subway quite simple.

"He resigned from your employ to devote his full time to stealing the city's money," Lockwood wrote. "His only implement was a 10 cent piece with which he was able to open the turnstile fare registers, manipulate them to his satisfaction and then pocket the proceeds thru the connivance of a number of station agents."

3-ENGINE DIESEL TRAIN WITH 600 ON IT SETS RECORD

The Santa Fe railroad's crack streamlined passenger train, the Chicagoan, arrived at the Dearborn street station at 10:10 o'clock last night pulled by three Diesel-electric locomotives having a total of 5,400 horse power—the largest total of Diesel power ever to enter that station.

The train consisted of 15 stainless steel coaches which brought in approximately 600 passengers—a record number of passengers for a de luxe coach train. Many aboard were persons who had spent the Christmas holidays in Kansas City and in the southwest. A considerable number were students returning to schools in the east.

Santa Fe officials said there is always a heavy Jan. 1 business from Kansas City, but this year many took the day train in preference to a night run. The Chicagoan normally consists of five stainless steel cars pulled by one 1,800 horse power Diesel-electric locomotive. It left Kansas City at 2 p. m. and was due to arrive here at 9:30 p. m. making the 451 miles at an average speed of 60 miles an hour. The 40 minute delay in its arrival was caused by an electrical failure at an automatic control tower outside Chicago.

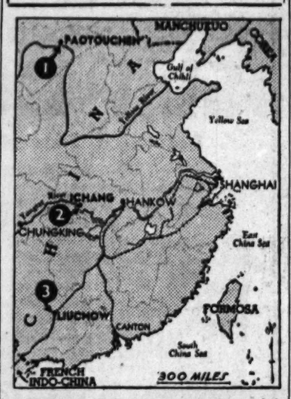
Battle in China



1. Savage battle reported in which Japanese say they killed 3,000. 2. Air raids cause 200 Chinese casualties. 3. Japanese report shooting down 21 Chinese planes and bombing Haiphong-Kunming railroad.

JAPS SHOOT DOWN 21 PLANES OF FOE IN BIG AIR BATTLE

Bomb French Railroad in South China.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 1 (AP).—The Japanese navy reported today its planes had shot down 21 Chinese aircraft in a big-scale battle in South China and bombed the Haiphong-Kunming railroad near the border of French Indo-China.

The railroad, built, owned, and operated by the French, is one of China's lifelines for the import of materials.

[Damage to the line was reported slight, but Chinese were said in Hongkong to consider the bombing significant, since it followed a Japanese request to discontinue transporting Chinese supplies.]

Japs Lose One Plane.

The Japanese said that in the battle over Liuchow, in central Kwangsi province, they lost only one plane while bringing down the 21 Chinese.

Reports from the Chinese provisional capital, Chungking, said Japanese air raids had caused more than 200 Chinese casualties Saturday at Ichang, 175 miles west of the central China city of Hankow.

Meanwhile, from the northwest China frontier town of Paotouchen in Suiyuan came details of a savage battle of 10 days ago in which Chinese got inside the walls in a daring effort to retake the place.

Enticed Into Trap.

The Japanese said they enticed 10,000 Chinese into a trap and slew 3,000, mostly north of Paotouchen, with the aid of bombing planes.

The Japanese reported their own dead were 10 officers and 200 men, but Chinese sources said 10 times that many Japanese were killed.

G. O. P. ASPIRANTS ALL SET TO OPEN 1940 CAMPAIGN

State Candidates to Take Stump in Two Weeks.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Some of the Republican candidates for state offices in the April 9 primaries got ready yesterday to start their 1940 campaigning within the next two weeks. Plans concerning tie-ups and possible full slates have not yet matured. Feb. 3, the first day for filing nominating petitions, is a month away, and political groups say there is plenty of time for possible alliances to develop. Leading candidates so far are on individual paths.

Richard J. Lyons, candidate for the governorship nomination, announced yesterday he will start his speaking tour Jan. 15. His group is arranging an itinerary that will cover every county in the state. Lyons will travel in a trailer equipped with amplifiers and its own electric generator outfit.

Plans Intensive Campaign.

"I shall make this one of the most intensive campaigns Illinois has ever seen," said Lyons.

Otis F. Glenn, candidate for the senatorship nomination, who opened headquarters in The Pookery three weeks ago, said he plans to make two speeches in Belleville Jan. 9, his first important speaking engagement in 1940.

C. Wayland Brooks, candidate for senator, and Glenn have been invited to speak Jan. 15 at an open forum of the 43d Ward Republicans which is being arranged by James B. Waller, ward committeeman.

Green to Open Headquarters.

Dwight H. Green, running for governor is expected to open headquarters in the La Salle hotel on his 43d birthday, Jan. 9.

In Springfield, State Senator Earl B. Searcy, governorship candidate, announced yesterday that on Jan. 15 he plans to start a speaking tour of the counties in southern Illinois. After this he is to concentrate in territory north of Springfield. He plans to appear in every congressional and senatorial district and to campaign on a slogan, "Have less and cheaper government."

John William Chapman, a former alderman, sent out announcements yesterday of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state auditor.

SEEK TO AROUSE PUBLIC AGAINST SOARING DEFICIT

Experts Ask: Can Budget Ever Be Balanced?

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Attacking President Roosevelt's government spending theory as fallacious and provocative of eventual national disaster, the National Economy league today raised the question: "Can the federal budget ever be balanced?" The league poses this question on the eve of the submission to congress of Mr. Roosevelt's budget message in which the President for the eighth time will forecast a deficit.

The budget must be balanced by a radical reduction of expenditures, says the league, which does not think, however, that such retrenchment will be achieved until the people become aroused to the danger and decree an end to deficit spending.

Fail to Bring Recovery.

After setting forth what he conceives to be the fallacy of the Roosevelt theory of government "spending for investment," John C. Gebhart, director of the league, concluded a study of New Deal fiscal policies thus:

"We have paid dearly for our 10 years of accumulated debt. Beguiling theories of spending for investment do not reduce by one dollar our vast public debt nor by one penny the interest on the debt.

"In spite of their great cost, our 10 deficits have not produced sound recovery, even tho they may have to some extent cushioned the effect of a serious business depression. While the government has been spending billions to relieve the unemployed, its fiscal policies have discouraged private investment ,the only sure cure for unemployment.

People Must Reverse Trend.

"We have drifted into a state of chronic deficits. The spending tide must be reversed, but this can come only when the people are thoroly aroused to demand that deficit spending must cease. For this we need a simple, honest, and understandable statement of federal finances."

Commenting on the needs of an undeceptive statement of federal finances, Ernest Angell, chairman of the league, said:

"The SEC requires issuers of securities for public subscription to make a full disclosure of all material facts, and where financial data are used, to present them on principles of sound accounting. The federal budget and the balance sheet of federal investments, as they are now set up, fail clearly to meet the standards of honest disclosure set by the federal government's own agency. Certainly no corporate borrower of funds from the public could get by on such shaky data as the federal government puts forth."

Effected Thru Banks.

Most of our deficits have been financed thru an expansion of bank credit, Mr. Gebhart points out.

"When the government," he says, "borrows from a bank, it gives the bank its bonds and at the same time takes credit on the bank's books for deposits. As the money is spent it finds its way back into the banks in increased bank deposits. Deficit financing, therefore, has greatly increased bank deposits and bank credit.

"The funds have been spent chiefly for what the economists call consumer goods, and after the goods have been used the money lies idle in the banks because there is slight demand now for bank loans. In common parlance, the net effect of deficit financing is to put money into circulation. But money thus artificially put into circulation has not stimulated our basic industries and has not greatly reduced unemployment.

Debt Getting Out of Hand.

"The need for revenues becomes appalling if we add to the cost of current expenditure some provision for debt retirement. Advocates of deficit financing are little concerned about debt retirement. But prudence and caution call for a long range program for debt retirement.

"In time, the public debt may become unmanageable. When private investment opens up, interest rates will increase and the federal government will have to compete with private investors in the money market. The interest charge on the public debt now exceeds 1 billion dollars. It soon will reach 1½ billion dollars, both because of further possible increases in the debt, as well as in interest rates. The cumulative effect of deficits has imposed a terrific burden on this and successive generations."

The theory that we need have no concern over deficits is based on the incorrect premise that most of the money spent has gone for capital investments, Mr. Gebhart says.

A classification of federal expenditures, made by the President in his budget message of January, 1939, indicates that 58 per cent of the debt increase in nine years was due to recoverable loans and durable improvements.

Only Two Actual Investments.

In analyzing these classifications, the league's study points out: "The only real investments resulting from federal spending are: [a] capital assets ultimately recoverable in cash by the treasury, and [b] capital outlays for additions to the federal government's physical plant.

"Federal spending in nine years has resulted in recoverable assets of 2 billion 946 million dollars. The break-down of the item 'direct federal public works' is incomplete, but it is safe to say that less than 2 billion has gone for public buildings, military and naval equipment and other physical assets of the federal government. The balance—about 9 billion dollars—has been spent for projects which have benefitted states and localities, but in no sense do these represent assets of the federal government.

"But even the 9 billion dollars which have gone for state and local improvements—roads, buildings, parks, etc.—do not represent clear gain. Heavy charges for depreciation and maintenance have to be borne by the state and local governments."

It was learned that many smaller companies will follow suit on the same day or shortly thereafter. Among them are the Wanzer Dairy company and the International Dairy company.

Two Quarts Offered for 22c.

The two-quart container will be offered for 22 cents, or 11 cents a quart, compared with the present price of 13 cents a quart on home delivery routes. Thus the saving will amount to 2 cents on each quart.

Milk in the four-quart container will be priced at 38 cents, or 9½ cents a quart, as compared with 13 cents when purchased in single quart containers. This represents a saving of 3½ cents a quart.

This departure in home milk delivery will not affect the price paid to farmers for milk, which is fixed by the federal milk marketing order. Farmers got approximately 4.1 cents per quart in December. The change to larger bottles is intended to increase the use of milk, and thus make it possible for route salesmen to preserve their jobs, dairy officials explained.

No Store Distribution.

C. L. Dressel, president of Borden-Wieland, said milk in the larger containers cannot be distributed thru stores at any measurable saving to customers. Under current costs of distribution the present store price of 10½ cents a quart still gives a margin of economy for customers who prefer to purchase thru stores.

Chicago distribution of the new containers on Friday will be in the following sections:

West—Edison Park, Norwood Park, Dunning, Galewood, and Mont Clare. This section is bounded by Central avenue on the east, North avenue on the south, and the city limits on the north and west.

South—Beverly Hills and Morgan Park, bounded by 87th street on the north, Vincennes avenue on the east, and the city limits on the south and west.

North—West Rogers Park, bounded by Howard street on the north, Western avenue on the east, Peterson avenue on the south, and the canal on the west.

Tried in Suburbs First.

After experiments started in November, 1938, in Niles Center, Borden-Wieland extended the use of the larger containers to all suburbs permitting this form of sale. The Bowman company has been experimening in the suburbs for several months and a consumer demand beyond expectation was reported by Dr. D. B. Peck, president of the concern.

Further extension of the service depends upon the public response. City-wide coverage is now only a possibility, according to Bowman officials.

Dresel said the Borden-Wieland company looks forward to the time when it may offer consumers their choice of either glass or paper milk containers.

"When and if the paper container receives the approval of the Chicago city council," he said, "we will be able to give consumers here the same choice suburban store consumers have had for the last year."

In addition to fluid whole milk, three other milk products—Vitamin D, Sofkurd, and buttermilk—will be offered in two quart containers by Borden-Wieland at a saving of 4 cents a bottle.

Map locates three areas (in black) in which sale of milk in larger containers will be started Friday.

Prompts Fire Inquiry

James Glenn Rogers, 8 years old, and Billie Don Rogers at Fort Towson, Okla.

Fort Towson, Okla., Jan. 1 (AP).—A coroner's jury found today that Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rogers and their 4-year-old son, Dean, died of an "unknown cause" as the ashes of the farm home from which their bodies were taken were vainly searched.

The jurors heard 8-year-old James Glenn Rogers retell his story that two strangers shot his parents last night, then set fire to their three-room house. As the two men spread coal oil about the house and ignited it with matches, the lad said, he picked up his year-old brother, Billie Don, and ran for help. With the baby in his arms, James arrived in Fort Towson, a mile from his home, and spread word of the tragedy.

MAKERS OF 1940 CALENDARS SPLIT ON THANKSGIVING

New York, Jan. 1 (AP).—That running debate President Roosevelt set off by moving Thanksgiving from the last to the penultimate Thursday in November goes right on into 1940.

Altho the President already has marked Nov. 21 for this year's Thanksgiving, there is no unanimity among the calendar makers on the subject that split the nation's turkey-eaters by a week in 1939.

Examination of the calendars that have arrived from the butchers and the bakers shows that some come out steadfastly in the "last Thursday" tradition, others unequivocally red-letter or circle Nov. 21, and some waveringly mark both Nov. 21 and 28. The farmer's almanac just says "Nov. 21?"

GARNER AMONG FIRST OF OFFICIALDOM TO RETURN FOR SESSION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 [Special].—In the vanguard of the army of congressmen returning to the capital for the opening of the session on Wednesday was Vice President John N. Garner, who recently announced himself available as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. Mr. Garner parried all attempts to engage him in a political discussion.

Official Washington is interested in the reception which President Roosevelt will give his second in command when the two meet at the White House, probably tomorrow or Wednesday morning. Garner's announcement of his candidacy has been taken as a blow at the third term movement sponsored by radical Democrats. The two veteran politicians are expected to carry off the meeting in a jocose fashion.

The Vice President is expected to maintain for some time his policy of not talking for publication. But as usual he will be busy in senate cloakroom discussions, working quietly with the regular Democrats who are opposed to the President's New Deal.

FIREMAN SAVES OWN CHILDREN IN BLAZE IN HOME

Fireman John T. Botheroyd and his wife, Alvina, left their home at 2743 North Rutherford avenue yesterday to have coffee and cake with relatives living next door. Their daughter, Alvina, 19 years old, stayed with Jerry, 6, and Kathleen, 2½.

A short circuit in the wiring of the lights set fire to the Christmas tree. The front room was ablaze in an instant. Alvina ran to summon her father. He rescued the two young children. Members of Botheroyd's own station—engine company 68 of the 24th battalion—then put out the fire under the direction of Botheroyd's boss, Chief John Redmond.

The damage was $1,500. The others of the Botheroyds' eight children were not at home at the time.

LET FREEDOM RING!

IN NO OTHER LAND does the magic word HOME mean so much as it does in America today.

For our homes are not only the symbols of our liberty but our standards of achievement for all the rest of the world.

In our homes we enjoy freedom of speech and opinion. Freedom of the press and freedom of speech by radio make it possible for every man, woman and child to be informed of the affairs of the world.

There is another freedom we enjoy in our homes that is the envy of the rest of the world—freedom from drudgery, drafts and contamination. And for this freedom we can give thanks largely to the Heating and Plumbing Contractors of America.

Heating and Plumbing are the twin guardians of our family welfare. Heating safeguards our homes against cold, dampness and discomfort upon which sickness thrives. Plumbing supplies the fresh, pure water so essential to well-being and carries away waste so dangerous to good health.

Both Heating and Plumbing are too essential to the welfare of your family and to the uninterrupted enjoyment of your home to be entrusted to any but the skilled hands of a Heating and Plumbing Contractor.

HORNER PLEDGES MUSEUM AID AT SPECIAL SESSION

Agrees to Place Tax Levy Restoration on Agenda.

Gov. Horner will ask the legislature at its forthcoming special session to rescue Chicago museums from the financial plight caused by invalidation of the tax levy for their support, it was learned yesterday.

Col. A. A. Sprague, who heads a movement to aid the museums, said Alexander Wilson, administrative assistant to the governor, had advised him Gov. Horner would do so.

"We now have assurance that the governor will request the legislature to cure the verbiage which, the Illinois Supreme court said, made the museum tax levy part of the Chicago park district pegged levy," Col. Sprague said. "Mr. Wilson has the amendments necessary to correct the law."

Increase Made Ineffective.

The tax levy was increased from 1½ to 3 cents per $100 assessed property valuation last August. Recently the Supreme court ruled that the levy law, which has been on the statute books since 1893, was improperly worded.

Approximately $600,000 a year to be raised from the tax would be divided among the Field museum, Art institute, Shedd aquarium, Museum of Science and Industry, Chicago Historical society, and the Academy of Sciences. The latter three institutions did not share in tax funds under the former rate.

Hardest hit by the court ruling was the Shedd aquarium, which stands to lose 80 per cent of its total annual income if the legal barrier is not overcome. With large private endowments, the Field museum would remain open but many activities would have to be curtailed, Clifford C. Gregg, director, said in a letter to members yesterday.

"Expeditions to bring back to Chicago new treasures and to discover additional knowledge for dissemination thru the world would be sharply cut down or entirely eliminated," Mr. Gregg said.

Only 7 Per Cent Pay Admission.

Only 7 per cent of the Field museum visitors during 1939 paid for admission; 1,300,000 entered without charge, he reported.

The special session primarily will be for the purpose of passing again a bill to increase the maximum amount of old age assistance from $30 to $40 a month.

Such a bill was passed in Springfield in June, but Gov. Horner vetoed it when he was mistakenly informed by United States Senator James M. Slattery that the federal government would not share the additional costs.

The governor has said he would include oil regulation in the business of the session if he could be assured that a "square" bill would be passed. A production tax on the booming Illinois wells is being considered to raise money for the proposed higher old age payments.

Oil Tax Opposition Rises.

State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, who as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor has recently visited many parts of the state, said yesterday that oil regulation would not have a clear course in the legislature.

"Many legislators feel it would be wise to observe another year's developments in the new oil fields before passing more laws," he said.

Political danger for the Democratic administration in the special session was seen by Senator Searcy.

"Some members have told me that the legislature ought to inquire into Horner's ability to serve as governor during his illness," Searcy said. "Others are talking about investigating the Manteno state hospital epidemic, which cost 53 lives, and the compulsion on state employés to give up 2 per cent of their earnings to the Democratic campaign fund."

The date for the special session has not been announced.

Misses Handshake

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 [Special].—As usual chipper John W. Hunefield, housepainter in his seventies, arrived at the White House early this morning for his New Year's handshake—despite the fact that President Roosevelt discontinued the public receptions in 1934. For years Hunefield had been first in the line that always formed New Year's day. Hunefield today satisfied himself with shaking hands with the guard on duty.

CONTROL BOARD DEMANDS FEWER LIQUOR DEALERS

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 1 (AP).—Limitation of the number of liquor licenses in Illinois was advocated today in the annual report of the state liquor control commission.

The report said that 24,688 licenses were issued in 1939—a decrease of 553 from 1938. The peak year since formation of the liquor commission in 1934 was 1935 when 27,987 licenses were issued.

The report interpreted the decline in licenses to indicate that the number of places that can properly and profitably operate in this state has been reached.

"We feel there is need of legislation to limit and eventually reduce the number of licenses that may be issued," the report said. "Such limitation will enable licensees to operate at a profit and will reduce the temptation to violate the act in order to stay in business."

License receipts for 1939 were $1,378,563. Expenses of the commission for the year were $189,931—$22,568 under its appropriation. The commission conducted 190 hearings on license applications during the year.

REP. MAY ASSAILS TVA REPORT AS FRAUD ON PUBLIC

Claim of Profits Is False, Says Kentuckian.

Tennessee Valley authority is no longer worthy of trust and good faith.

"As a matter of common fairness to the taxpaying public, some explanation is due in view of the impression created by the annual report that TVA at last is out of the red and beginning to pay its way. The report is a glowing success story designed to induce public and congressional approval of more extravagant expenditures at a time when economy should be the watchword of every congressman."

May said TVA has spent, under congressional appropriation, and has received properties from the war department, a total of $253,700,000. Of this amount $96,000,000 is for power facilities.

"Free Ride" on Tax Payers.

"On this $96,000,000 income producing investment of the federal government, TVA gets a free ride at the expense of the federal tax payers who donate the money free of interest," said May.

He closed by stating that the people of Kentucky will suffer the same fate as those of nearby states—namely Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi—where, he said, TVA went to the state legislatures with a powerful lobby, made the ever tempting bribe of cheap yardstick power rates and induced them to exempt this federal agency from state regulation or control.

REPUBLICANS SLASH CAMPAIGN DEBTS BY $500,000 IN 6 WEEKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1—Chairman John Hamilton of the Republican national committee announced today that approximately $500,000 has been raised in the last six weeks to reduce the debt of the committee. He said this action marked the firm and enthusiastic determination of the Republican party to elect its presidential nominee next November.

The national committee had a debt of $655,213 left over from the 1936 campaign. In the middle of November, a compaign was started to retire this debt and its successful completion leaves the committee's debt only about $150,000. This is expected to be elliminated entirely in the next few weeks, Hamilton said.

"This result is due to the concentrated effort on the part of loyal men and women who believe in the payment of debts and the perpetuation of the two-party system," Hamilton said.

CHICAGO TO BID FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY MEETING

Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said yesterday that efforts are being made to bring the Republican national convention to Chicago this year. He added, however, that the cash necessary to attract both the Republican and Democratic conventions is probably more than Chicago business men are ready to contribute. The Republicans are not expected to require such a high bid as the Democrats, Mayer said.

The Democratic national committee will meet in Washington Feb. 5 to select a convention city. The Republicans are expected to meet after the Democrats have chosen their city and set a convention date. The conventions are usually in June, but there has been some talk of holding them later in order to shorten the campaign.

Mayer said formal invitations to both parties to hold their conventions in Chicago were extended last fall. Informal discussions with committee members of both parties indicated that bids totaling at least $400,000 will have to be made by a city to get both conventions, Mayer said.

FIRE DESTROYS HOBOKEN BLOCK, MAYOR'S HOME

Hoboken, N. J., Jan. 1 (AP).—Three persons were injured slightly today in a fire which swept thru a city block, destroying the home of Mayor Bernard N. McFeely, four other houses, a cabinet factory, a paper plate plant, and two office buildings. Fire officials estimated damage might amount to $500,000.

Hoboken's entire fire fighting force of nine companies, plus five companies from Jersey City, fought the flames in icy cold weather for three hours before the fire was under control.

DEALERS IN IDEALS

By CALEB

QUOTATION from leaders of a great establishment's past, for the benefit and inspiration of those still engaged in maintaining its greatness, is always a renewer of enthusiasm and a rebuilder of incentive. Just such a spur to the spirit of accomplishment recently crossed the writer's vision, in words written by a man then seventy-two years young . . . words that, while of 1922 vintage, are yet filled with 1940 invigoration:

"I look upon commercial business as the most fascinating game in the world. It has its high ideals. It is as great a thing to develop merchandise of character and beauty as to paint a fine picture, carve a beautiful statue or write a good book. To some manufacturers, a carpet is just a carpet, a piece of gingham is only a piece of gingham. But with the desire to make the best, a carpet or a piece of gingham can become a work of art." He then continues—

"Our mills are much like other mills. They have much the same machinery and work with the same raw materials. But they are different in the spirit and ideals of the employes, and the conceptions of artists who make the products artistic and beautiful. It is this application of art to industry that gives the merchant of high ideals his enthusiasm for his merchandise. I can say for myself that I take pride in every article we make or sell. I experience the thrill of an artist in putting quality and beauty into our commodities. A dress fabric or a pattern in tapestry seems in a way like my child."

These earnest and inspiring statements emanated from an earnest and inspiring personality—John G. Shedd—whose impress upon his time and upon posterity is ineradicable. His first care, as head of Marshall Field and Company from 1906 to 1923, was for the ideals that are to realities, in merchandising, what the blueprint is to the builder, the model to the sculptor, the poet's theme to his final expression of it in words.

Shorn of their ideals, businesses and individuals alike lose direction, dynamics and destination. Ideals foster vision, initiate action, motivate innovation, preserve perspective and to think or speak of them otherwise is to handicap oneself with fallacy. As dealers in merchandise, we know that we must also—properly to serve our customers, and rightly to deserve their approval—deal daily in ideals.

EVEN FOG—REAL FOG—CAN'T LICK FLIVVER FLYERS

12 Are Down, but Shucks, What of It?

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Orlando, Fla., Jan. 1.—One dozen flivver plane pilots—part of the many still straggling in here by the twenties and thirties—found New Year's morning too foggy for accurate navigation. Six of them landed on highways within 15 or 20 miles of Orlando, rendezvous for the three wings of the 1940 light plane cavalcade. The remainder picked hard pasture lands in the midst of the swamp region surrounding this town and put their ships down safely.

The entire group was rounded up and rescued, planes as well as pilots and passengers, by a hard working crew of field inspectors of the civil aeronautics authority. Several of the little planes had been landed in fields so small that their owners were not allowed to fly them out. This was done by test pilots from some of the flivver plane factories.

It's Real Fog—Not Mental Fog.

The fog was meteorological and not mental. The whole central section of Florida was closed in by a thick blanket of mist and rain that gave Orlando ceilings of less than 700 feet and visibility of less than a mile for the entire morning. It was this fog, not the results of New Year's eve celebrations, that caused the difficulty.

About 10 o'clock this morning a telephone call from Fort Christmas, Fla., 20 miles southeast of Orlando, conveyed the information that eight flivver pilots were milling around the town, obviously lost. Inspector Dick Fender of Chicago, who had accompanied planes of the central wing [middle western states] took off in his Fairchild, rounded up the vagrant planes like a cowboy herding cattle, and led them in.

Clouds Finally Abate.

At noon the clouds blew away and about 250 little planes that have been struggling down the Atlantic coast for five days began to arrive. At dusk tonight they still were coming, and the actual count of the flivver ships of all vintages staked out here was 412. The cruise director forecast that more than 600 will be here by tomorrow, when the latest and most distant ships are expected to have landed.

Slower or more cautious pilots who refused to push out into the tough weather were reported down at Savannah and Valdosta, Ga., and Tallahassee and Jacksonville, Fla.

"They could have made it faster by driving, but they'd not have had half the fun," was the way Robert Peck, National Airlines pilot operating between Orlando and Jacksonville, summed it up tonight.

When all the planes of all three wings—eastern, central, and southern—have reached Orlando the cavalcade will be ready for the next phase, which is the journey to Miami for the air races to be held next Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE, PH. D.

II.

Below are questions for a man to ask himself and answer about his wife. Each question has a maximum score—indicate din brackets. However, any number of points less than the maximum may be noted:

DEMERITS.	MERITS.
1. Often late for appointments. [30 points.]	1. Personally puts children to bed. [30 points.]
2. Is a back seat driver. [6 points.]	2. A good hostess—even to unexpected guests. Makes them feel welcome. [6 points.]
3. Talks glowingly about her former sweethearts or her ex-husbands. [30 points.]	3. Can carry on an interesting conversation. [6 points.]
4. Flirts with other men at parties or in restaurants. [6 points.]	4. Religious—has high ideals and takes active part in church work. [60 points.]
5. Puts her cold feet on husband at night to warm them. [6 points.]	5. Regularly sends the children to Sunday school. [30 points.]
6. Wears soiled or ragged dresses and aprons around the house. [6 points.]	6. Asks husband's opinions regarding important purchases or decisions. [6 points.]

9. Fails to wash dishes regularly—clutters up the sink. [6 points.]	9. Writes often and lovingly while away from husband. [6 points.]
Total demerits.....	Total merits.....

Now subtract total demerits from total merits and interpret score as follows: 0 to 27, very poor [failure]; 28 to 43, poor; 44 to 61, average; 62 to 80, superior; 81 and up, very superior.

[Watch for another test tomorrow.]

SIX AIR TOURISTS OFF ON 8,000 MILE TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

A party of six vacationists took off from the Lockport airport yesterday on the first leg of a flight to South America. The pilot and organizer of the tour is James W. Allen, United Air Lines pilot, who is taking two months' leave for the 8,000 mile journey.

One of the passengers is Mrs. S. R. Allen, the pilot's mother. The Allens live at 5314 Blackstone avenue. The other four passengers, chosen on a share expense basis, are Seward Bowers, an attorney of Benton Harbor, Mich.; Miss June Sprau, Lake Forest; Miss Fritz Zylstra, 5308 Kenwood avenue, and Mrs. Doris Wallace, 1008 North Rush street.

Allen said they expected to reach Brownsville, Tex., last night. Then they will fly over Mexico, Central America, and South American countries until they reach Rio de Janeiro, where the party will break up. Allen plans to sell the plane, a single engine Ryan five place cabin model, in South America and return by ship.

CABBIE ROBBED OF $4.

A gunman last night took $4 from William W. Bass, 6103 South Sangamon street, after hiring Bass' cab in front of the Chicago Stadium.

America's Largest Liner Soon Will Be Completed

Newport News, Va., Jan. 1 [Special].—The America, largest liner ever built in the United States, is nearing completion at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company here. The liner is 723 feet long and will carry 1,219 passengers. When delivered, the America will be the only liner owned by the United States lines. Permission was granted yesterday by the Maritime commission in Washington for sale of eight of the lines' ships to Norway for operation in the trans-Atlantic service which is barred to American owned ships in wartime because of the neutrality act.

CITY LOOKS BACK, THRU HEADACHE, ON A BIG EVENING

Night Spots Have Biggest Crowds in Years.

Chicago rested yesterday after giving the New Year one of the most uproarious welcomes in recent years. Church services and family gatherings replace the tippling and horn tooting of Sunday night and early New Year's morning.

Officials of some hotels and night clubs pronounced business the best in five years; others said they would have to go back to 1929 to find records of a comparable celebration.

Liquor consumption was heavy but revelers were orderly, hotel managers said. One large loop hotel reported an average of $2 per person was spent for drinks in addition to the flat $7.50 charge, making the average evening cost about $10. Another large hotel reported receipts were up 28 per cent over last year, while 18 per cent more liquor was drunk.

First Events of Year.

A host of firsts were reported—from the first babies and first twins to the first fire and first robbery. Even the first lovers' quarrel was recorded.

St. Bernard's hospital reported the birth of the first twins, a boy and a girl to Mrs. Mary Mackowski, 5024 South Paulina street, at 6:20 and 7:35 a. m.

The fire department's first blaze of 1940 was a large bonfire in a vacant lot in the 3500 block of Pierce avenue. Chief Frank Roach of the 24th battalion said the alarm came in at 12:01 a. m. The first call for a fire department inhalator squad was at 4:58 a. m. when Lieut. Howard Martin's rescue squad No. 7 went to the home of Ben Schliefke, 52, of 1330 South Avers avenue. Schliefke, a furrier, died of a heart ailment despite the squad's efforts.

The first holdup victim was Alton Hammond, 6407 Greenwood avenue, cashier in the elevated lines station at 31st street near Wabash avenue. At 1:50 a. m. a colored man thrust a gun thru the ticket window and forced Hammond to surrender $4.45.

First Slaying of 1940.

The first gunshot death and slaying was that of William Roberts, 31, colored, of 4243 Calumet avenue, who was wounded fatally at 2:20 a. m. in a gun fight with another Negro in the 4700 block of South Park way.

A large mongrel dog either rabid or excited by a noise of a group of celebrants at Montrose avenue and Clark street about five minutes after midnight, ran amok and bit three men before Town Hall police killed it. The men bitten are William Seehauer, 34, of 4336 Sheridan road, a window trimmer; Charles Parker, 36, of 4404 Broadway, a waiter, and Sam Tunick, 38, of 4400 Broadway, a clerk.

The first lovers' quarrel to come to police attention was soon mended. Walter Nikolajczyki, 21, of 1418 North Campbell avenue, escorted Miss Helen Komar, 19, to her home at 3215 Le-Moyne avenue after seeing in the new year. According to West North avenue police an argument developed, and Nikolajczyki smashed a pane of glass in the front door. He cut his right arm. Miss Komar took him to Walther Memorial hospital.

FIRE WRECKS TAVERN.

Fire swept the interior of the Blue Goose tavern at 10 South Pulaski road early yesterday, an hour after it had been closed by the owner, Thomas Williams, 5650 Washington boulevard. The blaze was believed to have been started by a smoldering cigaret. Damage was estimated at $3,500.

MUMMERS GREET '40 WITH PARADE IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 1 (AP).—Philadelphia's mad-cap mummers pranced the new year in today thfu the heart of town on wind-swept streets covered with last night's confetti and jammed with nearly 1,000,000 spectators.

Shoulder to shoulder along Broad street and around towering city hall the crowd huddled in 18 degree cold, some waiting since dawn for the start of the parade at 8:30 a. m.

Twenty-six gaudily costumed clubs—15,000 marchers—started moving then to the Mummers' favorite marching tune, "Oh, dem golden slippers."

Judges settled down for a long look. The parade took four hours to pass their stand, then two or three more hours to pass thru the last of the cheering ranks along the curbs. The clubs vie for prizes totaling $22,500.

HIRER OF GOONS SOUGHT IN LABOR TERROR SLAYING

Higherup in Garage Man's Murder Traced.

Murder Facts

THE HUNT—This is the fifth day since Marinus Hvid, garage owner, was fatally beaten by goons in a labor dispute. His slayers have not been caught.

THE VICTIM—Hvid, who came to America from Denmark in 1908, had been in the garage business 17 years. He was married and had four children.

THE RECORD—Hvid's death was the 32d labor murder in Chicago in the last nine years. In only one case were there convictions.

Undercover investigators for State's Attorney Courtney and the police department were concentrating yesterday on a search for the man who hired the goons who beat Marinus Hvid to death with a baseball bat. Hvid, owner of a garage at 3514 North Halsted street, was attacked early on Thursday and died Saturday morning.

Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford spent New Year's day in the Criminal court building directing the hunt. Detectives and police officials were concentrating on the task of capturing the actual murderers, two men believed to be regularly hired as labor sluggers, Crawford said.

Examines Union Records.

Crawford was giving considerable study to papers seized in the offices of the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers' union, local 727, and in the offices of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago.

The union called a strike against Hvid's garage last March and since then has spent more than $4,000 in picketing it. The strike occurred soon after Hvid dropped his membership in the Affiliated Garages, an owners' association. Prosecutor Crawford said he was seeking proof that the two organizations worked together to the detriment of union members, garage owners, and the public generally.

Emil Mermall, once owner of a small garage, is the titular head of the owners' association. Prosecutor Crawford said he is endeavoring to find out if there is some one higher whose political influence has shielded the organization in labor terror investigations.

Union Fights for $48 a Year.

Edward Reilly is president of the union. Edward Gale, its secretary, had charge of the strike against Hvid's garage – a strike which involved the "organizing" of two employés who, normally, would have paid $24 each per year into the union. The treasurer of the union, William J. Kerrigan, was reported to be in a hospital recuperating from a recent operation.

Prosecutor Crawford, who said State's Attorney Courtney would seek grand jury action today, ordered all officials of the union and all executive board members of the garage owners' association to be in his office this morning.

"The union paid out the $4,000 to picket Hvid's garage," Crawford stated. "I am having a check made of the books to see if the garage owners' association reimbursed the union or its officials for this payment.

Questions Labor's Interest.

"Certainly it was not a legitimate labor activity to spend $4,000 in an effort to unionize two men who together would pay only $48 a year dues to the union.

"On the other hand, the garage owners' association fees call for payment of 6 cents per car space per month by each member, or $6 a month from Hvid, whose garage had space for 100 cars.

"I have obtained copies of two contracts printed by the Auto Livery, Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers, and Garage Helpers' union which will require an explanation. Both are printed and blank spaces are to be filled in.

Study Pay Scale Variations.

"One appears to be a contract the union was prepared to enter into with garage owners who were members of Mermall's organization. This was for the year 1938 and contains the following scale: Floormen, $20.50 per week; combination men, $25 per week; washers, $27.50 per week.

"The other was for 1937 and applied to garage owners not affiliated with Mermall's organization. It called for the following scale: Floormen, $30 per week; combination men, $35 per week; washers, $40 per week.

"The question is: Does the union discriminate in favor of members of Mermall's organization?"

Police arrested four men hired by the unions to picket the garage, but all were freed on bail after technical charges were made against them. They are to appear tomorrow in the Felony court.

HOUSING PROJECT TENANTS MUST KEEP UP HOMES

Tenants of the new near north side public housing project must keep up their houses and care for their own lawns and gardens. This was announced yesterday by Miss Elizabeth Wood, executive secretary of the Chicago Housing authority.

The 55 acre project at Larrabee, Division, and Sedgwick streets will contain 870 four and one-half room houses and 372 five and one-half room houses. It is to cost $10,002,271 and will be completed in 1942.

Miss Wood said project tenants will maintain 670,000 square feet of the property and that the CHA will care for 53,000 square feet. This, she said, will reduce the overhead and develop a sense of responsibility in the tenant. Tenants will also supply their own refrigerators and heat. The average rental is to be $12 a month, exclusive of utility costs.

PRINTER SERIOUSLY BURNED.

Harry Hickman, 52 years old, a printer, was taken early today to the County hospital for treatment of serious burns about the head and arms suffered in a fire, presumably caused by a cigaret, in his apartment at 4537 Drexel boulevard.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO OPEN BUILDING COST QUIZ TODAY

A broad inquiry into cost-raising restraints in the Chicago building industry will start today before a federal grand jury. Between 400 and 500 witnesses are to be heard in the next five months, making it the most extensive grand jury proceeding ever held in this city. Similar investigations are being made in nine other cities.

Leo F. Tierney, special assistant to the attorney general and head of a staff of 40 attorneys and technical experts, yesterday said that the initial inquiry into the tile industry will require several weeks. He would not reveal the names of prospective witnesses. Suppressed subpenas have been issued for 25 individuals and 50 corporations. Attorneys for Local 67 of the Ceramic, Mosiac, and Encaustic Tile Layers' union were unsuccessful in an attempt to quash the subpena issued for the union's records.

A special grand jury, to be impaneled tomorrow, will continue the investigation of gamblers' incomes and handle routine matters.

St. Louis Insurance Man Found Killed in His Home

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 1 (AP).—Lynton T. Block, 65 years old, wealthy insurance broker, was found shot to death today in the basement of his large country home west of the city. Dr. Borden S. Veeder, acting as spokesman for the family, said Block told his wife he was going outside to shoot some rabbits. A few moments later two shots were heard. A 12 gauge shotgun lay near his body. Dr. Veeder said the family believed death was accidental. An inquest will be held tomorrow. Block was president of the Utilities Insurance company.

Police Teletype Carries 45,355 Messages in Year

The police teletype system carried 45,355 messages to district stations during 1939. They concerned persons wanted, missing from home, or in custody; crime reports, and various police orders. The last message of the year described two bandits who held up a south side "L" station.

TAX COLLECTOR KILLS CLERK IN TOWN MEETING

Had Intended Shooting 3 Councilmen, Too.

Kenilworth, N. J., Jan. 1 [Special].—John E. Butler, tax collector and town treasurer, shot and killed August Stahl, town clerk, this morning a few minutes before the newly elected council was to meet for organization.

The shooting was attributed to an old grudge. A note found in Butler's office indicated that he also had planned to kill three members of the council, but was disarmed before he succeeded in doing more than wounding a policeman.

Stahl, 49 years old and the father of three children, was in his office awaiting adjournment of a council caucus when Butler, who is 72, rushed in carrying a copy of a council resolution which took from him the power to appoint assistants for periods of rush business.

Policeman Is Wounded.

Shouting "You're first," he stepped to the side of Stahl and fired one shot which killed him. Patrolman Andrew Ruscansky ran to the scene from a nearby office and was struck in the abdomen by a bullet. William Zimmerman, newspaper photographer on hand to make pictures of the inauguration of Mayor Max Bergin and the council, attempted to take a picture of the killer and a shot was fired at him as he aimed his camera.

Mayor Bergin and Councilman Allen Knudsen disarmed Butler after he ran to his office and obtained a second revolver.

Butler, a widower and the father of a son and daughter, is a British army veteran. He has been tax collector for 18 years and quarreled violently with Stahl 11 years ago when Stahl was mayor.

Felt He's Persecuted.

Police Chief George D. Conklin said Butler believed Stahl was attempting to persecute him and that his anger was raised to the killing point when he was shorn of appointive power by the council. Conklin said he saw Butler drink a quantity of whisky just before the shooting.

The list marked for killing and found in Butler's office contained the names of Councilmen Fred Pitten, John Graf, and Vincent Conzerso. Pitten and Graf had not arrived in the town hall when the shooting took place. Conzerso's wrist watch crystal was broken by one of Butler's shots.

Butler was arraigned late today on a charge of murder and held without bail.

FIND STORE MAP IN HATBAND OF BANDIT SUSPECT

Police said last night that it would be some time before Reuben Schwartz, 27 years old, gets a chance to use the little map he carried in his hatband. The map showed the layout of a department store at 26th street and Spaulding avenue. The location of the cashier's cage was noted as well as the distances from it to the exits.

Schwartz is in a cell at the detective bureau, charged with the robbery of another department store at 4700 South Ashland avenue last Nov. 15. It is owned by the same company. Four bandits escaped with $8,500 after a daring morning raid. The store detective, Charles F. Regan, who engaged in a gun battle with the robbers, has identified Schwartz as one of the gang.

Sergt. Timothy O'Connell, who made the arrest and found the map, said Schwartz set up a Christmas tree stand near the 26th street store a week before Christmas. Police charge he did so to familiarize himself with the layout of the store and the neighborhood. Schwartz gave his address as 2044 Kendall street. He was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell for larceny in 1933.

Hold Gunshot Victim Who Refuses to Explain Wound

Roy More, 24 years old, colored, of 3541 Cottage Grove avenue, was held by police last night when he refused to give a satisfactory explanation of how he was shot in the right elbow. More was arrested in the home of a friend at 506 Browning avenue. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital.

WHEN A COLD STRIKES

You May Be Mighty Glad You Have It Handy

When a cold strikes, and you want something to relieve the misery—the choice you make is mighty important. You shouldn't buy blindly. You don't want unknown, untried medications.

JUST CONSIDER THESE FACTS

Vicks VapoRub is more than just first in popular choice . . . It is more widely used than all other medications of its kind put together.

What's more, this growing preference for VapoRub keeps on year after year. Millions of the mothers who use it today, learned about it first from their mothers who even in those days considered VapoRub a family standby.

There must be a reason. No medication can keep on holding the esteem and loyalty of many millions—millions who naturally expect results—unless they are satisfied with the results they get.

You ought to be ready to act right away, when a cold strikes. So get a jar of Vicks VapoRub today. Have it on hand. You never can tell when you'll be mighty glad you have it.

A NEW YEAR DAWNS!

Don't let it be ruined by neglected gonorrhea or syphilis, but start today to get proper treatment from your family doctor or this clinic!

WITH high hopes you welcome another year, counting on it to bring you greater happiness and prosperity than you ever enjoyed before.

But you stand little chance of realizing those hopes if handicapped by neglected gonorrhea or syphilis. For either of these diseases makes it practically impossible for anyone to be happy and prosper!

Neglected gonorrhea, for instance, may lead to a sight-destroying eye infection that will rob you of your livelihood and make you an object of charity. Or it may result in crippling arthritis, stricture, sterility, or serious prostate, bladder, kidney and other troubles!

Neglected syphilis is still more dangerous, for this infection may incapacitate you in any one of a number of ways. It may be the cause of heart failure, blindness, deafness, apoplexy, paralysis, locomotor ataxia or even insanity!

In addition, both diseases are enormous obstacles to successful motherhood. Gonorrhea in a woman may cause her baby to be blinded at the time of its birth. And the expectant mother with syphilis who is not properly treated during pregnancy is likely to bear a dead, deformed or feeble-minded infant!

Obtain tests of cure!

Therefore, if you know or suspect that you have gonorrhea or syphilis, start in today to get proper medical attention, followed by dependable tests of cure. It is extremely important not to stop treatment until careful laboratory and other tests indicate that you are cured!

If you have no family physician to consult, the Public Health Institute stands ready to treat you at fees that are remarkably low. Having concentrated on gonorrhea and syphilis for a fifth of a century, it offers you the same high grade of treatment you would expect to receive if you went to a leading specialist!

Since its inception in 1920, the Public Health Institute has given more than five million examinations and treatments for gonorrhea and syphilis. This is your assurance of getting venereal disease attention of the most experienced type!

Lack of money no bar!

Because the Public Health Institute was organized by public-spirited citizens as a corporation "NOT-FOR-PROFIT" under the laws of the State of Illinois, it is able to provide specialized venereal disease treatment at charges to fit the very smallest incomes. The cost of a physical examination for gonorrhea and syphilis, including blood tests, urinalysis and gonorrheal smears, is amazingly moderate, while individual treatments are available at fees so low that any employed person can readily pay them.

Nor does the Public Health Institute stop there in its efforts to make dependable venereal disease treatment available to the entire community. Even persons who are temporarily short of money can make arrangements to be cared for!

CIVIL SERVANTS WARNED: AVOID 1940 CAMPAIGNS

Reminded of Penalties for Political Activity.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Approximately one million federal employés were warned today by the federal civil service commission that they face heavy fines and imprisonment if they engage in the 1940 political campaigns.

Sen. Carl A. Hatch.

Thousands of large posters, with the headline: Warning! were distributed by the commission to be posted conspicuously in post-offices and other federal establishments thruout the nation. They contained detailed information concerning the prohibitions of the Hatch act and of the civil service rules in regard to the political activities of government employés.

The provisions of the law are stringent, these workers were advised. The only legal political freedom left to them is the right to vote as they choose and to express their opinions on all political subjects. Civil service rules provide that such opinions must be expressed privately.

Congressmen Exempted.

The Hatch act does not specifically state that political opinions by federal employés must be expressed in private, but Senator Carl A. Hatch [D., N. Mex.], explained that speaking at a Jackson day dinner, for example, would be, in his opinion, a violation of the law.

Attendance at a Jackson day dinner is not against the law, Senator Hatch said, nor is the payment of from $25 to $100 a plate for the privilege of consuming a meal which could be obtained for $1.25 at most restaurants.

The law does not prohibit the solicitation of money from federal employés nor the acceptance of it from them for political purposes, he declared. No official or candidate, however, may solicit contributions from federal workers.

Among the forms of political activity listed by the commission as prohibited to government workers were:

Serving as officer of a political club, as member or officer of any of its committees, addressing such a club or being active in organizing it.

Serving in connection with preparing for, organizing, or conducting a political meeting or rally, addressing such a meeting, or taking any other active part except as a spectator.

Can't Talk Politics on Duty.

Engaging in political discussions or conferences while on duty, or canvassing a district or soliciting political support for any party, faction, candidate, or measure.

Acting as recorder, checker, watcher, or challenger of any party or faction.

Assisting in counting the vote, or engaging in any other activity at the polls except marking and depositing the employé's own ballot.

Serving in any position of election officer.

Becoming a candidate for nomination or election to or holding office, federal, state or local.

GALESBURG, ILL., IS WITHOUT AUTO DEATH IN YEAR

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 1 [Special].—Galesburg, a city of 29,000 population, did not have a traffic fatality last year. In Knox county, outside of Galesburg, there were 12 deaths as a result of automobile accidents.

A continued intensive campaign for safer driving is credited for Galesburg's record. Police have concentrated on enforcing traffic laws, and have made more arrests for speeding and reckless driving in the late night and early morning hours than ever before.

Since schoolboy patrols went on duty this year at all of the city schools, no pupil has been struck by a car. Safety leaders believe the patrols, augmented by educational measures in classrooms, have been largely responsible for prevention of this type of accident.

Dubuque Safe, Too.

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 1 [Special].—Dubuque was the largest city in the nation without a traffic death in 1939 and therefore is expected to head the National Safety council's honor roll as the safest city in the nation.

CHRISTMAS TREE BURNS.

A Christmas tree fire, apparently caused by defective wiring, brought firemen to the home of William McKenna at 5431 Lawndale avenue yesterday. The blaze was extinguished with hand pumps and damage was slight.

LINCOLN PARK'S NEW DRIVES OPEN IN MAY OR JUNE

George T. Donoghue, park district general superintendent, held out a ray of hope yesterday for motorists who for more than a year have been forced to drive thru the labyrinth necessitated by the Lake Shore drive improvement at North avenue, in Lincoln park. Donoghue said work will be completed in May or June.

Geo. T. Donoghue.

The project, costing $1,250,000, is being constructed by the Works Project administration under park district sponsorship. The improvements which include a new grade separation 100 feet wide at North avenue, will facilitate traffic between La Salle, Dearborn and State streets, and the Lake Shore and Beach drives and will eliminate jogs and bottlenecks in the present Lake Shore drive just north of North avenue.

After the switch to the new system has been made, present roadways will be removed and the area they occupy will be converted into playing fields like those that existed before.

Alongside the North avenue drive project is the $1,200,000 beach improvement extending from North avenue to Dickens avenue. The new beachhouse at North avenue will be ready for use when the 1940 bathing season opens, Donoghue said.

CITY AND TRANSIT LINES TO REOPEN FRANCHISE TALKS

Negotiations for a unified traction franchise will be resumed tomorrow when the seven man board appointed Dec. 18 by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to represent the transit lines will meet with the city council committee on local transportation. The two groups will seek an agreement on the terms of a franchise whereby the elevated and surface lines would be merged into a single system.

The new members are Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank, and Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, both receivers for the surface lines; M. H. MacLean, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, member of the surface lines' reorganization committee; and Sidney L. Castle, chairman of the elevated lines' bondholders committee.

The three members remaining on the enlarged board are: Walter A. Shaw, the court's traction adviser; Guy A. Richardson, president of the surface lines; and Col. A. A. Sprague, trustee for the elevated lines.

1940 AUTO TOLL: 7 LIVES FIRST DAY, 15 FOR WEEK-END

New Year Massacre Below 21 Deaths of 1939.

Seven persons lost their lives on the first day of the new year as a result of automobile accidents in Chicago and Cook county. Their deaths sent the toll of the motor massacre to 15 for the New Year's week-end—the period from midnight Friday to fast midnight.

Last year the toll for New Year's day alone was nine lives. Twenty-one lost their lives during the week-end period.

Dimitri Dallidowich, 48 years old, 1834 North 24th avenue, Melrose Park, a teamster, was injured fatally by an automobile last night at North avenue and 25th street in the suburb. He died as he was being taken to the Westlake hospital. The driver of the car was Dr. Stephen J. Wojcik, 2630 North Mozart street, Chicago.

Edward E. Davis, 31 years old, father of seven children, was the first victim of the year. He was killed early yesterday when his car struck a safety island at North and Lawndale avenues. Davis, a toolmaker, lived at 2114 Roosevelt road.

Killed by Hit and Run Car.

Thomas W. Richards, 74 years old, 36 South Ashland avenue, a doorman, was injured fatally when he was struck by the car of a hit and run driver at Ogden and Ashland avenues. Witnesses said the car sped away after the accident.

Mrs. Jendriska Rek, 70 years old, died in the Berwyn hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 27 when she was struck by the car of Henry W. Angsten Jr., 15 years old, 1001 Woodbine avenue, Oak Park. The accident occurred at 31st avenue and 52d court in Cicero. Mrs. Rek lived at 3114 South 53d court, Cicero.

Mrs. Mary Dickens, 79 years old, colored, 6232 South Elizabeth street, died in the county hospital of injuries suffered last Tuesday when she was struck by a car at 53d and State streets. Julius Foreman, colored, of 5260 Federal street, was the driver.

Dies of New Year's Eve Injury.

Charles Conley, 67 years old, died yesterday in the Lutheran Memorial hospital of injuries suffered New Year's eve when he was struck by a car at Augusta boulevard and St. Louis avenue. Arnold Brooks of 2110 North Kedzie avenue was the driver. Conley, a railroad switchman, lived at 1028 North St. Louis avenue.

Frank Kowalski, 59 years old, 1910 West Superior street, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a car at Chicago and Winchester avenues. Joseph Simmons of 2024 Huron street was the driver.

Prof. Willard Munzer, 37 years old, of the sociology department of De Paul university, and his sister, Miss Frances Munzer, 29, both of 1454 Norwood avenue) were injured yesterday in a collision between their car and another one at 49th street and the Outer drive. Prof. Munzer was injured about the head. His sister suffered a nose fracture, and is in the Chicago Memorial hospital. The other driver, Eina Johnson, 43, of 7123 St. Lawrence avenue, a cook, suffered rib fractures, and is in the Mercy hospital.

Arthur V. Coale, a landscape engineer at the Thornton CCC camp, and his wife, Lucille, were injured early today when they drove their car into a standing Indiana Harbor Belt switch engine at 140th street and Indiana avenue, Riverdale. Coale suffered a leg fracture, and his wife received minor cuts. They were taken to the Ingalls Memorial hospital. The Coales live at 1916 Euclid avenue, Chicago Heights.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, six persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county. Of these, five were killed in Chicago, where 55 were injured in the same period.

Quarrels with Customer, Dies of Heart Attack

Michell Gatrelis, 54 years old, the 400 pound owner of a restaurant at 1714 Belmont avenue, engaged in a heated argument last night with a customer who used profanity in the place. Gatrelis finally ordered him out. A few minutes later the restaurant man complained to his wife, Blanche, that he felt ill. By the time he could be taken to Martha Washington hospital, he was dead, supposedly of a heart attack induced by the quarrel.

Now, IT'S INSURANCE!

TWO MIGHTY FORCES, representing two conflicting theories of human relations, are at grips today in Europe—and in the United States.

The combatants abroad use bombs and bayonets. In the home sector, they struggle for the approval of the American people at the polls, as it should be in a democracy.

One group fights for the traditional American way of free enterprise—with its balance sheet of trial and error, mistakes offset by brilliant contributions to progress. The other fights for the belief that the energies of the individual can best be controlled by political agencies, for the greatest good of the greatest number.

Both are sincere. But the case for political control makes us the victims of a wide-spread popular delusion. As a noted sociologist expressed it: "The greatest fallacy in human logic is to attribute to present social or economic systems those problems which arise from the nature of man himself."

In their eagerness to promote the cause of national economic planning, its proponents through investigations discover and emphasize "those problems which arise from the nature of man himself." Thus unusual and infrequent episodes appear as major defects seeming to condemn the free enterprise system. Control by Federal boards and bureaus is then proposed.

This has been our recent course in relation to commercial and investment banking, power and light, manufacturing, labor relations, oil, coal, communications—investigations first; then political control in the name of reform.

Assistant Secretary of State Berle, in a statement before the Temporary National Economic Committee, puts the momentous issue:

"Briefly, the Government will have to enter into the direct financing of activities now supposed to be private; and a continuance of that direct financing must be inevitably that the government ultimately will control and own those activities. . . . The country will probably be deciding in the next few years whether the Government ought not to own, directly or indirectly, part of the national plant such as railroads, electric power, and mineral resources; and the Temporary National Economic Committee may give us a final answer."

Insurance next to banking holds the largest pool of our savings. Bankers as "money changers" were subjected early to investigation; 42 Federal lending agencies resulted.

Today another Federal investigation is publicizing the problems of insurance "which arise from the nature of man himself," insignificant though they are when compared to the amazing contribution of insurance to human welfare.

The hub of the Socialistic wheel is control of the people's savings, the power to allocate funds held in trust by banks and insurance companies. As leaders of the movement here and abroad have said, this is the first and most important step, because such control carries with it power over all commercial and industrial activities.

If the people accept the fallacy that there is cause for condemning the institution of insurance, the camel's nose will slip under the tent.

The nose will represent a little competition—compulsory burial insurance and Federal Annuities; a degree of Federal control; a small part in the determination of how insurance investments shall be made; a hand in the administration of the business operation. Just steps. But the first steps along this road, as all history and recent events abroad and at home make clear, are never retraced, but call for further steps.

To assist policyholders and beneficiaries in appraising and interpreting more intelligently the developments now shaping in the field of public policy, Nation's Business—in the January number, out today—covers the insurance situation in a 32-page supplement. If you are not a subscriber, write for a reprint of this supplement, "The Case for Insurance," enclosing ten cents to pay for printing and handling.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

THE BRIDGES AFFAIR.

James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school, informs Secretary of Labor Perkins that the evidence does not permit a finding that Harry Bridges, alien C. I. O. Pacific coast agitator, is affiliated with the communists. Mr. Landis was appointed special labor department examiner to investigate the status of the Australian born dictator of Pacific coast shipping and advise the secretary if he were subject to deportation because of his political ideas and activities. Mr. Landis heard a great many witnesses, some of whom said that Bridges was connected with the communist party, and examined Bridges himself at length. Bridges denied that he was a communist.

Active membership in the communist party is a matter of paying dues and being registered. Many of its sympathizers, followers, and supporters are not in this sense members of the party. They may shade off from the true Red to light pink. It might be difficult to determine legally that a person not a party member, was a communist unless he was willing to admit it. The party itself has revised its constitution to obtain legal immunity and it pretends that no one advocating violent overthrow of government is eligible to membership.

Mr. Landis commented on Bridges' views and said that they were energetically radical, but that proof failed to establish that the methods he seeks to employ are hostile to democratic and constitutional government. For almost any other country in the world the case of Bridges would have been a very simple one. He has dominated a turbulent labor scene on the west coast, whose purpose was political, not economic, and has done about as much damage to American shipping as could be done by a blockade by a hostile fleet. Under his direction boats have been tied up to the docks, food shortage has been caused, and great property loss occasioned.

An alien would not have been permitted to create such disorder in another country. The foreigner would have been sent away as an undesirable alien. An alien resides in these other countries by the tolerance of the government, and if for grave or even trivial reasons his behavior is found objectionable, out he goes. Bridges has been in this country over a period of years, but that has not changed his status and he is not a citizen. American hospitality is stretched a long way when it must protect an alien who undertakes to conduct a civil war against America.

Mme. Perkins has sheltered Bridges and stopped the attempts of the immigration officials on the west coast to deport him. It will be the general opinion that Mr. Landis was selected as the department's examiner because he was a man who could make a plausible finding upon which Mrs. Perkins could carry out her determination to give governmental encouragement to a man who has acted in compliance with the most destructive communist principles and practices, with or without membership in that party.

The administration has of late professed to be shocked by the brutalities of the Stalinites in Europe. It shows no signs of being shocked by the activities of the communists in the United States. It pretends to be anticommunist in the conflict abroad, but it is still procommunist in America. Not only the sympathies but the ideas of the New Dealers run in the same groove with those of the Reds. That's why Harry Bridges is able to remain in this country and make war on it.

MORE DEATHS ON OUR STREETS.

In the last 12 months there were fewer automobile fatalities throughout the United States than in 1938. But the number in Chicago rose.

Those who thought that the introduction of drivers' licenses in this state would be reflected promptly in the saving of life were wrong. We have the licenses but we also have more automobile killings.

There was a rather sharp drop in automobile killings in 1938 in Chicago and this was attributed in part to the mechanical inspection of cars. The record for 1939 shows that confidence in this means of reducing accidents was none too well founded. It may have helped a little, but it isn't going to solve the problem.

The massacre continues at an appalling rate and, as the limitations of each of the proposed remedies become apparent, it grows increasingly clear that the only way to effect a substantial reduction in the toll is to build a system of accidentproof streets to carry the bulk of the traffic thru the congested areas of the city. Elevated highways cannot fail to eliminate the numerous accidents which occur at intersections and will have the additional advantage of expediting travel.

Progress toward the construction of a superhighway system has been painfully slow, and even if a start is made in 1940 another year or two must elapse before any of the projected roads is finished. Meanwhile other efforts to decrease the toll must be made. One year's adverse experience with drivers' licenses does not prove that benefits cannot be realized from the system. If police officials and judges will use to the limit the powers granted under the license law and thereby remove from the highways the drivers who have proved their incompetence the system may yet yield a dividend.

The police can help in another way by patroling the highways more frequently and more stringently. Every driver sees dangerous violations of the traffic rules every day. The police, moving with the traffic, could see them, too, stop the offender, teach him the rule of the road if he erred thru ignorance, and arrest him if he erred thru flagrant disregard of the safety code.

Finally, a more rigorous study of the circumstances of each accident might lead to removing the cause of many deaths. Some streets and some intersections are man killers. If the reasons for the prevalence of accidents at these places could be learned and corrected the death toll might be reduced. A good deal of progress has been achieved in Evanston and other communities by this means and there is reason to believe that similar benefits could be obtained in Chicago.

HOPE OF PEACE PERSISTS.

Premier Daladier, speaking to the French senate, said that France could not lay down arms without material and positive guarantees. He added that he distrusted grand Utopian conceptions but he conceived the need of a new European organization. From his remarks the impression was obtained that France is not committed to a war of no compromise. The door to a peace by arrangement and understanding is not barred until the will of the victor has been made supreme. Whether there be justification or not, it is generally true that hope continues at least to flicker and will not completely dismiss the idea that the dreaded slaughter of a full fledged war may be avoided.

Both the words and acts of all the belligerents are conspicuously cautious. It would seem that all flinch from the full collision of their armed strength. They are not freely using their instruments of destruction. While the dreaded moment is yet averted it is natural that people should explore the possibility of reaching a sensible agreement which would protect the rights of all those whose lives are at stake.

Humanity, intelligence, and common sense recoil from a settlement by force. There will only be remnants to save in such a settlement. Sanity seeks an agreement which would restore to the Poles, the Czechs, the Moravians, and other nationalities their independent countries with reasonable boundaries. It would be to Germany's permanent interest to grant independent domains to homogenous people. It would be in accord with Hitler's professions. He has frequently said he recognized these rights and that he did not want aliens in the German state.

Great Britain cannot afford to be a diehard for the old boundaries that were established by the treaty of Versailles. Her statesmen might be reminded that they were indorsing a rule which would give Northern Ireland to De Valera. The economic claims of the smaller nations could be satisfied without disturbing any one's political rights. Both the Czechs and the Poles could be given transportation facilities and commercial but not political rights in a Baltic port. The Czechs have as good a moral claim to this as the Poles. A just peace would eject the Mongols and their Red banner from the lands they have seized while the civilized people of Europe planned their own destruction instead of uniting to chase the barbarians back from their frontiers.

Armaments, war industries, and war activities without war already had brought most of Europe close to financial collapse and economic ruin. If Europe is to recover it must change its ideas that guns are more useful than butter. Disarmament in any hopeful peace this time must be real and it must be general. It cannot be imposed on one nation. It must be carried out with the good will and consent of all. It could be done under the observation of disinterested European nations, such nations as the ones which tried to prevent the war and have made numerous peace proposals.

Until the armies are unleashed in their full fighting strength to go the limit people will continue to believe that rationality can still save European civilization from the suffering and destruction it otherwise must undergo.

THE GERMAN RAILROADS.

Before the war started there was considerable comment on the deterioration of the German railroads. It was reported that the demands of the armament industries had drawn so heavily on German material resources that the railroads were suffering from obsolescence. The worn out equipment was not being replaced and the system was in bad shape.

Since the war started there have been a number of wrecks which, week by week, get worse, causing great loss of life. Over the holiday week-end 231 persons were killed and many more were injured. The evidence would seem to support the opinion that war industries have so monopolized the German resources that all other equipment in the country is suffering from lack of attention, lack of materials, and neglect of everything needed to sustain going concerns.

There may be a prevision in this of what will happen to the warring countries if they go on to exhaustion. Their internal structure is likely to be almost completely wrecked and there will be a prostration such as modern Europe never before knew.

Editorial of the Day

BENDER'S GEM.

[Indianapolis News.]

Most people are behind with their reading of the Congressional Record. Somebody is always writing a good biography or a naughty novel, and there are the newspapers to be read every day. As a rule the Record is dull reading, and more often than not one who starts out with the best intentions wades thru a few pages and quits. But the reading of all who make the good start perhaps adds up to totality, with the result that if something worth while appears, one person sees it and passes it along.

It was a member of the nation's staff who had the good fortune to find this year's gem. He deserves the thanks of all who missed an "extension of remarks" by Representative Bender of Missouri. Bender asked for and obtained unanimous consent to extend this remark. "Mr. Speaker, of every dollar spent by the federal government, 39 cents is borrowed money." That is the Congressional Record's record for brevity. Also for meat.

MR. PEPYS STAYS AT HOME.

2d Jan.—Did leave my place of work last Saturday and fare home with three good books under my arm, determined to avoid all riotous pleasures for welcoming the New Year, and then did remember it was my custom to attend a basketball game at Northwestern university on this night, and so did go there because it refreshes me to see such exhibitions where student spirit runs high. This place is not far from my habitation, so I did get home early, and said to myself, How many times I have traveled 15 miles back and forth to see football games at the University of Chicago, but now I am to be deprived of that amusement.

Lay in bed late on Sunday and then to the Tribune Tower for the New Year's reception of all workers, brain and brawn, and found dancing in one great hall and a concert in another, and all the wives and children in attendance, making a goodly company. Then I thought, now New Year's Eve is at hand, and I might go to my old club, the Cliff Dwellers, where they have the finest wassail bowl in town, all silver and carved curiously, and a great rout planned. But I did note that supper was to be served at 11, and breakfast at 3 o'clock in the morning, and I said, None of that nonsense for Mr. Pepys. So I went to my home and cast up my accounts for the year.

On New Year's Day, I did read my books and play with my little dog and rejoice that I was beginning a new decade without the suffering that is called katzenjammer in the High Dutch. Then I thought I will see how my ancestor, Samuel Pepys, spent his New Year's Eve in the year 1665, when there was, as now, war on the North sea; and behold, I discovered in his book that he had done exactly like myself, and had remained indoors, casting up his accounts!

OLD YEAR TO NEW.

The little newborn year stood forth
In robes of shining white;
With wistful tenderness he gazed
Across the frosty night.

"This world is very gay and blessed
With hallowed faith," he said,
"And kindliness." But as he spoke,
The old year shook his head.

"You hear the peal of silver bells,
And feel the welcoming glow;
But I've grown gray with this world's cares;
I thought as you—a year ago."

WHERE THE TREES GO.

"Do Christmas trees lie down and die for keeps
When people throw them out on rubbish heaps?"

Well, Judy, I once knew an old professor—
A scientific fellow, not a guesser—
Who made that very question his pursuit
For years and years. A learned institute
Endowed him, and he meant to write a book
With lots of footnotes, but his study took
So long that not a page of it was written;
He wound himself in words just as a kitten
Gets tangled up in yarn, and I was sorry,
But still, he told me something of the story
And this is it:

He found some Christmas elves,
About the size of you, who give themselves
The task of picking up discarded trees
And freighting them across the frozen seas
On flying tricycles, from lot and alley
Far northward to a sheltered polar valley
Beyond the ice blue peaks. And there they plant them
Deep in the sootless snow, and then enchant them,
So that the empty boughs again are splendid
With tiers of green, the ornaments, all mended,
Shining like red and blue and yellow planets,
Dancing with light like your own eyes or Janet's;
For this is the land where tinsel turns to gold,
And Christmas trees all live and don't grow old.

If we can find the place I think we'll see
(And this is a secret just for you and me),
The old professor taking notes on cones,
Dissecting needles, listing color tones;
And when he comes to meet us you may plant a
Nice kiss on his old cheek, because—he's Santa!

When Spaghetti Meant Romance.

Since Mme. Galli's restaurant has come to life in a new location [Chicago avenue east of Michigan], let's take a glance at its history.

The late Mme. Carmenlinda Galli opened her Italian table d'hôte at 18 East Illinois street in 1893. It became famous as a scene of the mild Bohemian life of the period; and many Chicagoans of the World's Fair generation first became acquainted there with the pleasures and perils of the wine popularly called "red ink," and sometimes "dago red." Thirty-odd years ago a Chicago attorney [Paul Harris] outlined to a friend [Sylvester Schiele] a plan of commercial idealism over a plate of spaghetti, and thus the Rotary clubs were born.

After Mme. Galli's death, her son and daughter-in-law carried on for years. Then they retired to California. But they wearied of sun kissed blessings and became homesick for Chicago and their old friends and the old life at Galli's. So here they are again, merry and bright!

TULAREMIA FROM WILD RABBITS.

No sooner is the way pointed for safeguarding our friends against some dread affliction than another comes along to take its place. We now have ways and means of protecting our children against diphtheria which formerly took thousands of lives. While we have robbed this ailment of most of its horror, there still remain a goodly number of disorders that are serious and menacing. But we can escape them if we know something of their source and how they are spread.

Tularemia—a plague which attacks rodents—was described less than thirty years ago by George W. McCoy. He discovered that ground squirrels in Tulare county, California, were affected and that their circulation contained an organism which he called "bacterium tularense." In all over twenty varieties of wild life were found to be stricken and the disease has been reported by practically every state in the Union. Instead of disappearing, we can safely say that at this time it is being scattered widely.

Among hunters—particularly those who pursue the bouncing cottontail and who prepare the carcasses for the table—many cases occur. Apparently the microbe is transmitted to these animals thru ticks, lice, or fleas. Insects sucking the blood of a sick squirrel, for example, may transfer the infection to a rabbit which later may find its way into the hunter's bag.

During the process of skinning and dressing—when bare hands are employed—the germs may be conveyed to human beings. They can enter thru a tiny wound, cut, scratch, hangnail, or even penetrate the normal skin.

Symptoms come on from one to ten days after exposure. At first, a reddish pimple appears at the site of inoculation. Within a week or so this is transformed into a punched out ulcer which is attended with considerable discharge. Lymph nodes [glands] are tender and painful and the fever may rise as high as 104 degrees Fahrenheit, with some fluctuations. This may continue for as long as a month, when the temperature usually subsides, leaving the patient profoundly prostrated and weak. Strength is regained slowly and incapacity may persist for some time. With certain individuals, severe bronchitis or even pneumonia may complicate the picture.

As a rule the diagnosis is not difficult as the patient's blood will agglutinate [clump] the organisms two weeks after the onset. Even earlier, a skin test may be made. If the victim gives a history of touching wild rabbits, little doubt need be entertained as to the nature of the illness.

A substantial aid to recovery is supplied by serum, manufactured according to the method developed by Lee Foshay. Both goats and horses have been immunized and the fluid portion of their circulating fluid furnishes neutralizing elements. With this aid the duration of the difficulty and the ensuing disability are cut in half. The blood of patients who have recovered is also utilized. Prompt treatment is, of course, imperative—which means that physicians must be on the alert especially during the hunting season.

It should be pointed out that ailing or dying animals found in the woods should put all nimrods on their guard. Remember that it is only thru handling the bodies with unprotected fingers that the bacteria can be introduced. Cooking destroys the germ.

Those who breed domestic rabbits for pets or for food have reported no instances of the malady, which indicates that it is the woods and field varieties, exposed to contact with other denizens of forest and brush, that are dangerous. Over 90 per cent of the cases have resulted from skinning and dismembering the carcasses.

Care must be taken to differentiate the condition from undulant fever and typhoid and, in this connection, the initial sore furnishes the identifying symptom.

DEMENTIA PRECOX.

C. M. writes:

1. What are the symptoms of dementia precox?
2. What causes this disease?
3. Can it be cured permanently?

REPLY.

1. A slow, steady deterioration of personality with an increasing withdrawal of interest in self and surroundings.
2. Unknown. One of life's tragedies.
3. Marked improvement follows insulin or metrazol treatment in some cases.

LIVER MAY HELP.

N. E. writes: I know that liver extract helps the blood count, but I wonder if it will improve the circulation? I suffer from cold hands and feet all of the time.

REPLY.

If your symptoms are due to anemia, liver will be of value. If the basis is a sluggish circulation, increased nutrition, exercise, and warm clothing are suggested.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Jan. 2, 1915.

[158th day of the world war; 124th day of the present war.]

LONDON—The British battleship Formidable, with 780 men aboard, was torpedoed in the English channel. Only 201 officers and men were rescued from the stormy sea. The vessel was built 16 years earlier at a cost of $5,000,000.

PARIS—Dunkirk, on the northern coast of France, was again bombarded by four German airplanes which did undetermined damage.

BERLIN—Official reports said 577,875 men and 8,138 officers captured from the allies were lodged in Germany, not including captives in transport. It was claimed that latest German attacks in the Argonne had made progress, with 400 prisoners taken.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark—A large cargo of copper, shipped to Denmark from the United States in an attempt to smuggle it into Germany by means of false bills of lading, was seized by the Danish authorities.

WASHINGTON—The first step toward the creation of a council of national defense was taken by the calling of a conference of high government officials to be held at an early date.

JAWN: AN APPRECIATION.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—It has been said that the name of John T. McCutcheon stands for cartoonist in America.

He believes in defying conventionalities. He has the ability to think quickly and form an opinion on topics of current politics and big world happenings almost before they come to the attention of the general public. He forms his opinions independently; that is, he does not become merely an echo of what others are thinking. He sincerely believes in being original. He is constantly giving his mind a mental drill. He makes it sweat, not now and then, but regularly. He observes what other people like and allows these observations to help him in his decisions.

To his mind there is nothing so good in a cartoon as humor. He says you must study to be funny. He thinks other kinds of cartoons are interesting and they have their places, but the humorous cartoon is the one that most people demand. He believes in getting all the dash and spirit that is possible into his work.

He illustrates familiar themes. He is country born and gets his inspiration from the folks that he knows rather than from the different types that he knows nothing about. He believes the reading public will always notice something new, and whether they like it at the start or not is not so important as the fact that it has been noticed. They, he thinks, will be more ready to watch a man's progress when they know he is endeavoring to think and draw along individual lines which other artists have not already exploited. He has created a pen style of his own by studying the best and most effective work of others.

This ends my brief word picture of John T. McCutcheon, the dean of Chicago cartoonists. I hope with all my heart that 1940—the beginning of a new decade—will be prosperous for him and, of course, you. LEON ARNOLD MULLER.

A NEGRO JUSTICE.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 29.—There was considerable speculation a while back about whom the President should appoint to take the place of the late Justice Pierce Butler in the Supreme court. Some say that he should be a Catholic because Justice Butler was of that faith. Some say that the new justice should be from west of the Mississippi.

Since there are 12 million Negroes in the United States what would be wrong with suggesting a Negro for the place? If the Catholics must have one or more of their people in the Supreme court and the Jews must have one or more of theirs in order to get justice, how are the Negroes to get justice when they have never had one of their number in the highest court? C. J. BUTLER.

SWINDLED FARMERS.

Paxton, Ill., Dec. 28.—Your editorial in today's TRIBUNE, entitled "Swindled Farmers," surely takes the cake.

Dear old TRIBUNE, don't you know that such editorials are purely amusing to the farmers? This writer and his family own quite a large tract of land in Champaign county, and are entirely satisfied with the administration's policy. I venture to say that a poll of the farmers of central Illinois would show that 99 per cent are in favor of the so-called New Deal farmer policy.

I am quite sure that the gentleman who wrote the editorial, "Swindled Farmers," would not know a cow from a horse. C. S. SCHNEIDER.

UNMARRIED MOTHERS.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Our thanks go to Maj. Esther Johnson and officers of the Salvation Army home and hospital for unwed mothers for the most beautiful Christmas party in Chicago.

There are about 80 young girls there who are waiting for their babies. The party was for the girls who have had their babies there in the last 20 years. Many have since married and are very happy, but can never forget what the home did for them.

We had a wonderful dinner. We sang and prayed and Santa arrived with gifts for our children and ourselves. It made our hearts warm and our eyes misty to be back again.

The girls who are there do not know what the future holds for them. They do know that they must love and keep their babies at every cost. Most of their families and friends have turned against them in their greatest time of need, but that is all erased from their minds as they enter into the home. There they help them and comfort them and make them strong and well to go out and face the world with their chins up.

We cannot thank God enough for this home and the officers who run it who are willing to give their lives to make the world a little better place to live in for the many lost sheep like myself.

I do hope you will print my letter, not only for myself but for all the girls who have had babies there. We all love the home and officers, but many of us are married and cannot thank them as much as we would like to. Please don't use my name because my friends and neighbors would be shocked if they knew my child was illegitimate. MARIE C.

STRANDED AMERICANS.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—From the press and radio we learn that the American embassy in Berlin is doing a tremendous and fine job in returning stranded French and English women and children to their homes, but why is nothing heard of stranded American women and children?

My wife is stranded in Poland and altho I have sent repeated pleas for help to Washington my wife is still, after four months of war, a stranded American.

Why must America insist on helping citizens of other countries while it shows such a lack of interest in its own?

CHRIS HANSEN.

TAX EXEMPT HOUSING.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—I wish to thank Ald. McDermott for his speech against tax-exempt federal housing at a meeting of the city council a few days ago. If these housing projects continue, the tax structure of our city will be torn down. The small property owners need a few more aldermen like Mr. McDermott. He is a Democrat, not a Socialist. K. L.

A WORD FOR THE REFEREE.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—The Municipal court of Chicago is currently receiving attention in your news columns and editorials.

As a lawyer I have had opportunity to observe the routine of the various branches of the court. Recently I attended the branch handling return day calls and citation proceedings, at room 1109 city hall, presided over by Referee Charles Schavone. I was favorably impressed by the orderly and quiet conduct of the business of the branch by Mr. Schavone and his unfailing courtesy and patience. He is unquestionably performing his duties with fidelity and a proper regard for the rights of those who are required to attend that branch.

Too extreme criticism can do injustice.

FREDERICK W. SNIDER.

LENGTH OF A HORSE'S MEMORY.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—A horse doesn't even recognize his own mother after being gone for six months, so how could he recognize your correspondent, Gertrude Charney, after one year?

JUDGMENT NOTE.

Chicago, Dec. 28 [Legal Friend of the People].—I hold a judgment note for $500.

[a] I would like to know if this note is collectible if the man should die.

[b] Is his insurance policy exempt?

[c] He owns property, but may have signed some over to his daughter and son-in-law with whom he lives. If he has done that would his heirs be exempt from collection?

[d] He holds a civil service position. Would his pension be exempt from collection for this note?

[e] Is it better to go and get judgment confessed at once and give him some time to make the payments afterward, as he has begged me for time and he promises to start paying in a few months, but always keeps asking for additional time? J. H.

[a] In general the note would be provable against his estate.

[b] If it is payable to a named beneficiary rather than to his estate, then it would be exempt from your claim if that is what you mean to ask.

[c] If the transfers were by way of gift they could be set aside as frauds on your right as a creditor.

[d] It probably would be, but of course there are various kinds of civil service positions.

[e] In general we would advise you to place it in the hands of an attorney for collection.

Front Views and Profiles

Visit in the Ozarks.

Even as we trooped up the road in the silver moonlight, with the dogs sniffing at rabbit tracks along the stake-an'-rider fence, and the Jedge pointing out to our guest the old stagecoach road and the Jesse James well, there was grave doubt in my mind. What would this young Evanstonian, serenely confident in his youth and good looks, his financial success, and cultured background, think of the Ozark cabin of Aunt Lizzie and Uncle John? Worst of all, would he offend those dear souls with a hint of snootiness?

Suddenly it was too late to turn back! Before us was the bobbing light of the lantern carried by Uncle John as he shut the calf in the barn lot. Immediately our two dogs and the Tamsett dog burst into a chorus of throaty curses, with every dog in the hills taking sides. I knew that ears were being cocked in a dozen cabins and more than one person was taking a pipe out of his (or her) mouth, and saying: "Sound like the Jedge's dawgs! Reckon that young city feller is a-bein' took up to the Tamsetts!" So functions the mountain wireless! Then above the tumult came Aunt Lizzie's gay welcoming call.

We skirted the stone well, with the windlass chain looped above the big oaken bucket, climbed the steep stone steps and were in the dark lean-to kitchen. We steered our guest around a tub of water, drawn for the next morning's wash, and entered the main room.

In the flurry of introductions, I saw our guest taking stock of the room . . . and I knew by his easy, friendly smile that all was well. Even an Evanstonian had to be impressed by the simple charm of that room, with its great double bed, worn into twin hollows, its square table with the big silver-clasped Bible lying beside stacks of quilt blocks, and two old-fashioned rockers. The whole room was bathed in the red-gold light of the great open fireplace, the glowing flames highlighting the Anglo-Saxon planes of Uncle John's face, the clean tea towel spread over the bread dough set to "riz" on the hearth, and the cord of wood stacked along the wall. The gaudy God Bless Our Home motto took on real meaning in a cabin so filled with warmth and cheer.

The two rockers, according to mountain custom, were promptly offered to (and accepted by) the men who came with me. Straight chairs were brought from the kitchen for the rest of us. And then we talked the simple gossip of the hills: The light burning at midnight at Bert McDowell's, Mrs. Moore's broken leg, the preachin' at Ferndale, and Wild Bill's latest spell! We told our guest the great Ozark mystery . . . the tale of the Old Indian chief who had returned to our neighborhood every year for a half century to seek a cave of silver buried there by his tribe when he was a little boy.

At my suggestion Aunt Lizzie showed our guest her newest quilts . . . the Fan, Double Wedding Ring, Cobblestone, Crazy Quilt, and many other familiar patterns . . . exquisite with tiny stitches and color harmony. Then, because our guest's sincere enthusiasm warmed her heart, Aunt Lizzie brought out from its secret hiding place the box of trinkets that she holds most dear, and went over them with him, one by one. Postal cards sent to her when Uncle John went to Indiany in 1911, a handkerchief from some one a way off in Chicago, and faded photographs that brought a wistful look to her blue eyes.

At long last, good-bys were said, and we were again in the silver moonlight.

"I wish Aunt Lizzie and Uncle John were not so poor," I remarked.

"POOR!" exclaimed our guest from Evanston. "They have the true riches of this earth."

1940 Footgear New in Design, Trim, and Color

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Fashion spotlights the first new footprints of 1940! With a footwear convention getting into swing, a new year starts with a bang.

There are new ideas in combinations of materials, new colors, the last word in easy to wear elasticized fabrics, street shoes still with open toes, new open heel effects, shoes that magically appear smaller and shorter than they really are, brand new ideas in shapes of heels and toes, comfort stressed without losing any swank or smoothness, American designs, American materials and American manufacture. The stage is set.

According to statistics, eight out of every 10 pairs of shoes are cut with open toes. That means, however, there are all kinds of closed models in new colors and styles, and that the present previews of the open toe styles feature small, neat and cleverly cut apertures.

Back views are the big excitement. Shoe makers copied the bustle and polonaise furore launched by the dress designers last fall. The results are tricky cutout formations, lattices, criss-crosses, precise ladder back effects and fancy cutouts at the heels. Back seams and back cutouts of the footwear will combine to accent the slenderness of smooth anklelines.

Materials used are numerous and flattering on the foot. Soft suedes in every imaginable color are dramatized with alligator, with smooth dull gabardine, with gleaming patent leather, or with kidskin. Trimming is something else that marks these new arrivals as something springlike and different. One patent leather beauty is laced with faille ribbon that can be tinted to match colored accessories. The same style comes in white buckskin for the resort wardrobes.

All shades of flattering beige are available in several materials, with a stunning real fawn shade rating plenty of approval. Ombre effects for trim include three graduated shades of gray or beige or blue used as accenting bands on shoes of black, navy blue, or brown.

Wedge soles and platform heels are still going strong, with the newest versions considerably smoother in eye appeal and still the most comfortable things you can slide your feet into. These come in street, lounging and play shoes in every style, color, and material.

Low heeled walking shoes have been perfected into models of extreme smartness. Square cut heel and toe combines of dull contrasting materials foreshorten even the larger sizes into amazingly small looking duets.

Princess Slip Fitted to Figure

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PRINCESS SLIP.

Tailored to fit the figure like skin itself, and styled in feminine fashion, is this costume slip to wear with your fitted daytime frocks. There is not an inch of excess fabric to bulge under the slender waistline or hipline of that new dress, yet the skirt is wide enough for walking comfort. You may make this slip as dressy or as tailored as you wish by omitting trimming entirely or taking your choice between ruffling, plaiting, and lace. The fabric may be pastel or dark, and either lingerie silk or cotton. If you want a model that is particularly dressy, use taffeta.

Style No. 3133 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

The vinegar and oil used in French dressings have a great deal to do with flavor. Herb flavored, spiced, and wine vinegars are choice. Olive oil of the finest quality is preferred by some families, while others who do not care for olive oil flavor choose one of the bland salad oils.

Vinegar, oil, and seasonings are all you need for a fine French dressing. Lemon juice is a good run-in for vinegar if the dressing is to be used for fruit salads.

Here is a basic French dressing which is excellent with tossed greens and raw vegetable salads. It may be varied in hundreds of ways by adding other seasonings and using different vinegars and oils.

French Dressing.

[1 cup]
¾ cup fine olive oil
¼ cup tarragon or wine vinegar
½ teaspoon salt [or suit your taste]
¼ teaspoon paprika

Beat or shake ingredients together thoroly before using. A whiff of garlic is a great improvement for some vegetable salads. Rub the bowl in which the dressing is beaten with a cut clove of garlic, or use vinegar which has stood for several days with a piece of garlic in it.

Some cooks like to mix the salad at the table and use oil and vinegar separately for the dressing. To do this rub a salad bowl with garlic [or not, as you prefer], fill with lettuce or lettuce and chicory or watercress. Add salt and paprika to vinegar. Pour oil first over the greens, toss lightly to coat, and then pour on the seasoned vinegar. Toss to blend.

VARIATIONS OF FRENCH DRESSING.

1. Add 2 tablespoons or more of sugar or honey for fruit salads and make the dressing with lemon juice.
2. Add half a teaspoon of dry mustard and a few grains of cayenne pepper for a peppier dressing.
3. Add a teaspoon of onion juice, a tablespoon or two of minced chives or a little onion salt to the ingredients.
4. Add a half teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and several drops of tabasco sauce.

There are countless ways to dress up a French dressing by adding some ingredient such as chili sauce, catsup, anchovy or sardine paste, sieved avocado, even mashed potato. Roquefort cheese, horseradish, minced cucumber, green pepper, or pimiento are other possibilities. Any of these or several of them together, in some cases, make a flavorful dressing for a bowlful of greens.

Elegant Crocheted Doily

The simple elegance of a crocheted doily made from an old English design never can be fully appreciated until one sees how handsome it is when completed and set with a table service. The medallions are made and joined as the work progresses. Ecru mercerized crochet cotton is a most effective medium on a dark table, while any shade in the rainbow may be used on painted furniture.

The George A. CarpentersQuit N. Side Mansion

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. George A. Carpenter return early this month from a holiday visit to their only daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Bermingham, and her husband and family at Midway, Ala., the Carpenters will go to their new home at 70 Scott street. The servants now are in the throes of moving from the mansion at Dearborn street and Walton place, where the Carpenters have lived for 45 years, to the apartment.

Mrs. Carpenter has lived in the gray stone house for more than 45 years, for she lived there as a girl. It was the residence of her parents, the late Dr. and Mrs. Ralph N. Isham, and it was there that the wedding of the then young George A. Carpenter and Harriet Isham took place.

It also was there in the same room in which her mother and father were married, that Katherine Carpenter and Ed Bermingham were married in 1917 in a military ceremony, for he then was an ensign in the United States navy. The Berminghams and their only daughter, Harriet, and their three sons, Edward J. Jr., George Carpenter, and John R., live in Lake Forest, but they are spending most of this winter at their Alabama plantation. Harriet, who probably will be a debutante next year, is at the Finch school in New York this winter.

Mr. Carpenter resigned as senior judge of the United States District court here in 1933 after 23 years on the federal bench.

Also starting the new year in a new home will be the junior Paul B. Magnusons and their little daughter and son. They are leaving today for Grand Rapids, Mich., where Mr. Magnuson's business interests will keep him for at least two or three years. Mrs. Magnuson, the former Marianne Stevenson, already has made a trip or two to Grand Rapids to find a house.

Pennsylvania Club Gives Show Tonight.

The holiday gayety will be continued today with a performance at the Civic Opera house tonight of "Great Guns," the 52d annual revue of the University of Pennsylvania's dramatic organization, the Mask and Wig club.

Mr. and Mrs. William O. Kurtz are entertaining at dinner in the Electric club for debutante Carolyn Mellinger and then taking their guests downstairs to the show.

The John W. Millers are giving a dinner at the Racquet club for their son, John Edward, a student at the North Shore Country Day school, and about 20 of his friends, all boys.

Miss Elizabeth Stover is giving a luncheon at home in Wilmette today for Miss Mellinger.

Arts Club Opens Two Exhibits Today.

Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Robert Orr, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Frederic Woodward, Mrs. Carey Orr, and Mrs. Potter Palmer are among those who will pour at a tea today at the Arts club. The party will open two exhibitions: retrospectives by Amedee Ozenfant, and sculpture by painters. Members of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will be especial guests.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zendt are giving a tea and cocktail party today from 5 to 7 o'clock in their apartment in the Seneca hotel.

Bryn Mawr alumnæ are planning a benefit for Feb. 20, a lecture by Mlle. Eva Curie, daughter of Mme. Curie, the discoverer of radium. Mlle. Curie will talk in the New Trier High school in Winnetka at 8 o'clock, and already many dinner parties have been arranged to precede the lecture.

The Bryn Mawr club has a benefit only every other year, raising its quota in the alternate years by appealing by letter to the alumnæ.

Mrs. Willard Boyden of Lake Forest is chairman of the committee that will choose four students to go to Bryn Mawr on scholarships next year.

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

Who's afraid of participating in winter sports?

Not the woman who knows how to keep her skin properly oiled or how to correct the wind-bitten condition if she's unlucky enough to suffer it.

First step is protection. Use soothing, softening body lotion after the daily bath. There was a time when these were hard to find, but no longer. There are several on the market, at a variety of prices, and almost all of them do a good job of lubricating and soothing without making the skin sticky. If you skate or ski use such a lotion generously before you go outdoors. And if, when you come in, you've reason to feel that your skin may become chapped and roughened from the cold and exposure, have a rubdown with the soothing lotion again.

Choose a rather heavy foundation for the face and neck—one that literally films the skin, providing it with an unobtrusive protective sheath. You can use makeup over such a foundation; in fact, you not only can, but you should if you want to look pretty while you cut snow capers.

Don't forget sun glasses to shield your eyes from the glare of snow.

Use a hand lotion or cream before you go out, too. And be sure after a session outdoors, particularly if your hands get wet, to spend 10 or 15 minutes working a good rich cream into them.

There's a lot of fun, health and vivacity to be obtained thru the medium of winter sports, but prevention and repair of complexion damage are vitally necessary.—ELEANOR NANGLE.

One of the most practical aids for the busy cook to make its bow this season is a fine big pair of flowered, quilted percale mitts. They are roomy and easy to slip on and off. They are designed to prevent those painful burns that happen so often when you go fishing about in an oven. Your hands won't feel the heat at all in these mitts.

A pretty little apron is made to match and is equipped with big pockets to hold the mitts when they're not in use. Get these items singly, or together in any one of four attractive colors. They are not a bit expensive. EDITH WEIGLE.

Good Morning!

From New York's "Dead End" to a Washington military academy is quite a leap, but the Dead End Kids accomplished it in their new release.

They're not seen en masse, as a gang, this time. Spotlight is turned on a young toughie, Slip Duncan, who entirely against his wishes, finds himself in a military training school where he meets other members of the "D. E. K." troop, as good citizens and prospective good soldiers.

Slip—the real name is Shirley, but try and call him that!—is the son of a soldier who had been best friend of Col. Reiker, head of the academy. When the elder Duncan passed on he had left his son as a legacy, to be reared into a worthy man, and the legacy had fallen to Reiker.

By foul means, so to speak, because Slip could not be lassoed by fair, the boy is taken away from unhealthful surroundings and evil companions and entered in the school. Here he is an unmanageable maverick until a tragic occurrence brought about by his own cussedness swings him around into step. . . . Yes, Slip reforms.

The picture is ably acted by all concerned and has quite a bit of interest to offer in the matter of school routine, army maneuvers, etc.

★ On the House ★

It will surprise you to discover how quickly the modern heating contractor can work miracles with that ailing heating system—and right in the dead middle of winter, too. Automatic firing can establish itself in your home in record time, a thermostat can control your house temperatures, an electric pump can force water to your most remote radiator, or forced fan heating can transform your old hot air system into a modern warm air heating plant. Heating manufacturers and contractors have changed the face of our indoor world for us in the last few decades. We no longer have to hover close to big fireplaces wrapped in heavy brocades and fur lined tippets like the "Knights and ladies" of old, nor do drafts agitate our curtains nor lift our carpets and rugs. Benjamin Franklin did a lot for us when he brought the stove into the picture, but the family went shivering to bed for a good many years after that, and rose reluctantly in unheated rooms. Now modern heaters are as streamlined as the fashions of the moment or the house, and the warmth of the one time open fire is spread over our entire house.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

John Ford, Director.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 1.—When Kate Cameron and her New York movie critics' circle selected "Stagecoach," directed by John Ford, as the top directorial effort of the 1939 Hollywood year, it occurred to this department that of all the top-flight directors of this town he has been most reluctant to talk. So I hied myself to Zanuckville-on-the-Pico and found him in his office on the second floor trying to find a match to light his pipe.

John Ford has been a successful film director for 25 years.

Ford has been directing pictures for 25 years. His first was "The Sky Pilot" for Universal, in 1915, and it is of biographical importance in Ford's career because it was almost his last. The 19 year old fledgling director was given Harry Carey as the star of the piece, Carey being tossed into it because he had only one more picture to go on his contract and the company wanted to rub him out. Ford asked Carey to help him, and they used to sit on the set and map out the detailed action of the two reeler "western." When they finished, they had a five reel picture. Ford was called in and fired. At that moment men from New York who had money in Universal arrived for an annual checkup and demanded to see some films.

Universal didn't have a single picture to show the bankers. In desperation, the elder Laemmle trotted out the five reeler and explained that the picture would be cut down to two reels in completed form. He added that the $35 a week director who had shot the flicker in 5,200 feet had been fired. "The picture is swell," said the bankers. "Let's release it as a five reeler." It became a terrific hit. Ford was rehired at $125 a week. Harry Carey, restored as a box office hit, held out for a new contract at $1,600 a week and got it.

Ford's 1939 "Stagecoach," which won top honors in the balloting of the critics, really was a streamlined version of the westerns he used to make with Harry Carey. "That scene where John Wayne shot it out with the desperadoes in Main street," said Ford, "and flung himself forward on the ground as he started shooting was just as effective when we did it 25 years ago. I always believed that the hero of a picture should be tossed into jail instead of having him thoroly refined. Heroes are more palatable when they are human beings, instead of clay statues. I think that is what made our early western pictures successful; all the other western heroes were very boring in their righteousness. I always managed to get my hero into trouble and the people liked him the better for it."

Ford is from Portland, Me., and was graduated from the University of Maine, altho, unlike Rudy Vallee, he does not sing the Maine stein song in public. When he was graduated from Portland High school he received a baseball scholarship offer from Holy Cross. He always has regretted that he didn't take it. Tall, husky, and bespectacled, he generally wears a tweed coat and gray flannel trousers.

Ford is intensely Irish, well versed in Ireland's political systems and aspirations, and an omniverous reader of Irish literature. He says that the main responsibility of a director is to obtain good actors and then get the very most out of them. For that reason he prefers to work with players who preferably are not stars. "Stars have their own ideas," he observed dryly, "and it takes some time to knock down that resistance."

His pet aversion is "overdirected" pictures, in which directors slow up the action of a piece to show off.

He believes that 1940 will be a great year for directors and that the day of the producer is nearing an end. He believes that the producer is a fungus growth on the body cinema.

INSTALMENT XLIV.

TROUBLE BREWING.

Suddenly Kent felt very lonely. If trouble were really coming, and if the news of it went abroad, there wasn't a soul to whom he could turn for help. It was a case of every man for himself. And, as he recalled the saying, he remembered that it had always been his motto. Was the rule which he had applied so cold-bloodedly going to bring him disaster?

But he was not among strange surroundings now, there were no terrifying cliffs enclosing him, no graves nor dead bodies here. His self-confidence returned as he looked about him at the familiar objects in the office and listened to the clicking of typewriter keys in the outer room.

It was not, he told himself, the first time that government cars had left Nogales, as a matter of fact, there was hardly a month went by in Golconda without a visitor from the sheriff's office, and it was natural that the news of the pay car holdup should bring a party of the Sonora constabulary to San Ilario. Even if there were a painstaking investigation, the only witness who could make any trouble was safely shut away inside a mountain, with a mass of rock as big as the room where Kent was sitting to keep him prisoner.

"Trouble with me," he told himself, "is that I'm tired out after last night."

He dismissed the matter from his mind, but no sooner had he done so than another, which was equally disturbing, took its place. He was wrestling with the puzzle which had confronted him before he left the Little Mesa of the Dead, trying to figure out who had freed Leonard from his bonds, when the Mexican stenographer's voice interrupted his thoughts.

"Mr. Kent is in his office," she was saying. "I do not think that he is busy." He scowled, he had told the girl a dozen times to come and consult him before she sent in a visitor. He was still scowling when the caller opened his door without knocking.

It was Anna. She was dressed, as usual, in spotless white, and except that she lacked a cap, she looked exactly like a graduate nurse in good standing. But the calmness of a trained nurse was not in evidence this morning, she was clenching her fingers and unclasping them, her eyes were frightened, there was an angry red blotch across her big, pale face. She came straight in without a word of greeting, and stood confronting him across the desk.

And the sight of her brought back another incident which he had all but forgotten.

"I was just going to drive over to have a talk with you and the doctor," he said.

"It's a pity you didn't come before." Her voice barely carried across the desk, it was as tight and hard as a stretched wire. "We've been trying to get hold of you all night."

The knowledge of impending calamity descended upon him, she looked like a pallid messenger of ill luck. But his voice remained smooth and thick, undisturbed, although his thoughts were racing.

"Something has happened?"

She told him the story in detail, omitting only two items: The overdose of opiate which the doctor had poured into the cup of chocolate, and a conference which the two of them had held before she came across the line to make his call. She might as well have recited this latter, in full, for he knew as well as if he had heard it from her lips that there had been such a discussion, he knew the nature of it: the pros and cons as to whether it would be wiser to make a try for immunity by betraying him to the authorities, or to seek his aid.

"You brought her there," she said at last. "You've got to take care of us now, or else——"

"Or else?" he murmured. "Or else what, Anna?" Apparently the implied threat had left him undisturbed. Only his eyes had changed. There was not a particle of light in them, they were like dead coals.

She was on the point of telling him what when they were interrupted by a loud crash, the Mexican stenographer uttered a dismal shriek. Kent rose deliberately from his chair, Anna was on her way to the front door when he reached the outer office. The wide windows gave them a perfect view of the street intersection where the collision between Pat's car and the truck had taken place. Several men were already running to the spot.

The stenographer was on her way to join them. Anna was standing before one of the windows, Kent remained in the background biting his lips, impatient at this interruption. Why, he was asking himself, couldn't women keep their heads? He was still fuming when his dusky secretary returned. It was the first automobile collision that she had ever witnessed and it had impressed her accordingly. Her brown hands were clutching her breasts. She said:

"It's the MacKenzie girl, she keeps the hotel in the Old Town. They are taking her to the company hospital. She is killed, I think." She was going on to describe the accident when Kent raised one fat hand.

"It is regrettable. Come, Anna."

He turned his back upon them and walked into his office. He was sitting behind his desk once more when Anna appeared. He had taken down the telephone and he did not even look at her until he had completed his call.

"I've arranged matters," he said. "You are a nurse, a friend of hers. You're looking after her."

She was breathing a little quicker than usual, otherwise she betrayed no sign of the relief which had come to her. She was listening intently as he went on:

"Get her out of there as soon as possible. Your car is here?" She bowed her head. "Take her to your place."

"Not to our place," she said firmly. He continued as if she had not spoken.

"I'll be there, waiting for you. I'll take charge of her." She started to remonstrate and he slapped his hand on the desk top.

"All right. Let her stay in the hospital. Let her talk." He was watching her narrowly and he saw her eyes waver. "I'll figure an out for all of us. But you've got to do as I tell you."

She stood there for some moments staring at him, then she departed without another word. Her car was waiting at the curb, a small cheap sedan. As she drove up the hill she was wondering whether she had been wise in acquiescing to Kent's program, whether she had been wise in coming here at all. During that discussion with the doctor she had advocated the more desperate course of action, she had maintained her stand with the stubbornness of a woman whose instincts have triumphed over colder reason. It was the doctor who had finally had his way.

"Remember," he had said, "if Kent doesn't deliver, we can still turn him up." Maybe he was right. And maybe this piece of good luck had put them back into control of the situation. Maybe it was going to work out very nicely after all, and if it did they held the whip hand over Kent. But everything depended on her now.

The company hospital was not an elaborate institution; there were two small wards and only four rooms, and the latter were seldom used. There was one day nurse on duty, and such doctors as attended maintained their own offices downtown, they came on call. When Anna arrived the nurse was standing by the desk in the nook off the entrance corridor where income patients were received, and she was talking with a little man. He had blue eyes and a wisp of blond mustache. He looked up at Anna and asked,

"You're Miss MacKenzie's nurse?" Anna nodded and said,

"If she's not too badly injured we want to take her home at once." The hospital nurse answered the implied question:

"A slight concussion and a scalp wound. This way." She led the way to the room. And when she had left Anna with the patient she went on about her business. She was coming down the corridor a few minutes later when the pseudo nurse intercepted her.

"I didn't bring my hypodermic with me," Anna explained. "There wasn't time to go after it when I got the call."

It was, as has been said, not a very elaborate institution, and routine was not strictly observed. When Anna returned to her patient she had a hypodermic needle and she had visited the closet where narcotics were supposed to be kept under lock and key.

There was no one in the corridor to see the strapping woman in white and the limp little form which she was carrying in her arms. There was no one outside to see her drive away.

GASOLINE ALLEY—JOURNEY'S END

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Notorious Notables

Personality, Disposition, Affect Work

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"People used to consider that you were just born with a certain disposition and you couldn't do anything about it. They said, 'O, she has her grandfather's temper' and that was all there was to it. Now we are inclined to believe the truth that grandfather simply set a bad example."

So said Mrs. Louise Brown, discussing "Your Job and Your Disposition" before a group.

"Fifty or even twenty-five years ago people didn't worry so much about their dispositions as related to people in work," continued Mrs. Brown, "but today there is greater strain and tension in the business world—noise to combat—and other things that consciously or unconsciously affect us. So dispositions are important!"

Mrs. Brown finds fault with many of the books telling what to do about your disposition because their formulae do not work.

Tension and worry require an outlet, in our authority's opinion. Every one needs a creative hobby. And instances of a psychiatrist friend who went in for quilt piecing, and of another busy woman who went in for making hooked rugs just to combat the modern drive of tension and worry were cited.

The most important and fundamental approach to the matter of relationships and dispositions, Mrs. Brown thinks, is to understand the basic needs that every one, you and others, has.

First is the need for a feeling of security or belongingness. We are all seeking a sense of being necessary. The lack of this feeling brings lack of self-confidence. Perhaps the boss may be domineering or "picky" to increase his sense of security by domineering others.

The need of recognition as a personality is another factor. Also, the need of variety to offset the monotonous jobs in this machine age.

"A sense of affection is a dominant need. Another's affection makes us better able to do the type of work we care for. The girl who spends too much of her spare time at the office, who is married to her job, is often substituting work for the affection that should be in a normal life," Mrs. Brown concludes.

How to Develop Leg Muscles.

Muggin: Try this exercise for developing your leg muscles. Feet together, hands on hips. One, rise on toes; two, keep feet together, sink to squatting position; three, up on toes again; four, feet flat on floor.

Brushing Is Help to the Hair.

Blanche B.: Since your hair is thinning, consult a reliable scalp specialist. Have you tried daily brushing of your hair with a stiff-bristled brush, and massaging the scalp with your fingertips?

Dry Scalp Causes Dandruff.

Miss H.: Dandruff usually is produced by a dry scalp. That's why a scalp greasing lotion is so beneficial. Vigorous brushing of your hair is good because it distributes the hair oil and stimulates scalp circulation.

The George A. Carpenters Quit N. Side Mansion

out to her Lake Forest home for the holidays, is planning to leave the middle of January for her usual winter stay at the Arizona Biltmore near Phoenix.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, who also are annual visitors at the Biltmore, will leave on Jan. 16.

House Parties at Lake Geneva.

Lake Geneva took on some of the aspects of summer over New Year's for many of the lake shore homes were opened. Casa del Sueno, the home of Mrs. Philip Starck, had many guests and so did the house of the junior Phil Starcks across the lake. At Jerseyhurst, the home of the A. F. Gartz, Augustus K. Maxwell, and Charles R. Crane families, the Gartzes and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vilas Jr., entertained a large party.

Another large house party was one given at the home of the Rawleigh Warners where friends of Mr. and Mrs. Warner mingled with friends of the four children of the family, Mary, Dorothy, Susan, and Rawleigh Jr.

At Oak Lodge, Daniel Peterkin's place, his son-in-law and daughter, the William O. Hunts, had guests. Dr. and Mrs. William P. Finney and their children, Miss Theodora, who is at home from Johns Hopkins where she is studying medicine; Bill Jr., Pamela, Ellen, and Samuel Wheeler, were at The Knoll with a number of guests.

The Henry H. Porters kept open house all day yesterday in their hospitable Lake Geneva home. Mrs. Clara G. Rehm and her daughter, Mrs. Louise Floyd, and the latter's children, Charles and Roxane LaRoche, will be at their estate on the lake until Jan. 8.

Kohler Family Holds Holiday House Parties.

A large group of Chicagoans went to Kohler, Wis., for the traditional big house party that various members of the large Kohler family have every New Year's. Some of those in the party were the Sidney S. Gorhams, the James Congers and the Eugene McVoys. Mrs. Gorham, Mrs. Conger, Mr. McVoy, and Mrs. Walter Kohler Jr., are sisters and brother.

Among other guests of the Kohlers were the Roger Quincy Whites and her brother, Walker Everett, the Charles Cutlers and the William Deknatels.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kohler came to Chicago to welcome the new year as guests of her mother, Mrs. Frederic DeYoung.

Back at home today after a gay week-end at French Lick Springs are the Edward Nicholsons, the Andrew Schillos, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Kochs, and the Ronald Browns. Mrs. Kochs is giving a luncheon for debutante Elise Petersen on Thursday at the Woman's Athletic club.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is merely banal to point out that overoptimistic bidding creates a demand for expertness in the play of the cards. It follows that a player's bidding must be largely colored by his own estimate of his playing ability. If his estimate is a true one, the contracts he reaches will be legitimate and productive of the greatest possible number of points, whether or not they are the proper contracts for a player of different caliber.

It must be admitted that today's hand was overbid in reaching a slam, but the nice selection, between two alternate lines of play, of the one that had a reasonable chance for success, turned an error into a triumph.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
3 spades	Pass	3 hearts	Double
4 clubs	Pass	4 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

North and South were playing a system that required ace showing over opening two bids, hence South's bid of three hearts instead of three diamonds. It is a close point as to whether South should have bid four diamonds rather than four spades over the four club bid. Had he done so North would have been warned and probably would have stopped at four spades.

East, in response to his partner's double of hearts, opened the top card in that suit. The declarer faced a forbidding prospect when he saw the dummy. At least one trump trick must be lost except against the slim possibility of the queen-jack being blank in either hand. The heart finesse, if successful, would take care of the losing heart but, in view of West's double of three hearts, and East's opening lead, that chance appeared even more remote than the trump "miracle." There was only one other possibility: that declarer could discard South's losing hearts on his long club suit and then ruff his remaining heart in the dummy. This plan developed on one hope: that the player who must trump the fourth club lead would be robbed of his trump trick in so doing.

The selection of this line of play was well taken. The ace of hearts won the first trick, and four rounds of clubs were played, on the last three of which dummy's three losing hearts were discarded. East ruffed the fourth club but was helpless to prevent a heart ruff, since he could remove only one of dummy's trumps. And after that all important ruff declarer drew the enemies' trumps without the loss of another trick, for the success of his slam contract.

Ballet Stars Injured, but They Carry On

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Last night's Auditorium theater audience had the unique experience of seeing two damaged persons dance the most popular single number in the whole Ballet Russe répertoire—the "Blue Danube" waltz in "Beau Danube." No one would have guessed that the performers were anything less than 100 per cent well, for the dancing was agile, imaginative, and rich in nuance.

The damaged persons were Alexandra Danilova and Leonide Massine. The former turned her ankle Sunday afternoon and withdrew from her scheduled part in the evening performance to rest up for last night. The latter was injured in last evening's "Petrouchka," when Andre Eglevsky, who was supposed to slice up Massine cymbolically, made a good start at slicing him up actually.

The Massine wrist was momentarily paralyzed, but it seemed to have regained all its expressive suppleness by the time the cue came for the "Blue Danube."

Curiously, the same man who gave Danilova first aid treatment Sunday—Dr. Maurice A. Bernstein—massaged and bound up Massine. Thus he had in "Beau Danube" an opportunity, which must be rare in the medical profession—the opportunity to see two of his patients dancing together.

Last night's bill opened with a performance of "Petrouchka" which delighted everybody but Massine. The second item was "Seventh Symphony."

THE CONCERT GOES ON

BY CECIL SMITH.

The tradition that the show must go on is as inviolable in the concert world as in the theater. At 8:15 last evening Izler Solomon was suffering from an attack of influenza and a fever of 102 degrees. No one else was available, however, to conduct the Illinois Symphony orchestra in its scheduled popular program in the Blackstone theater.

So Mr. Solomon went thru with his allotted task, altho he confessed in the intermission that he felt "pretty rocky." From the evidence of their applause after Dvorak's "New World" symphony, however, it was clear that the members of the audience had found nothing amiss with the music they heard. The orchestra players offered a token of appreciation to their conductor by refusing to stand at his signal to share in the applause.

Herman Ciebanoff, who became the orchestra's concertmaster at the beginning of the season, when Fritz Siegal left to join the Seattle Symponhy orchestra, played Saint-Saëns' "Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso." He is a capable violinist, with crisp, well controlled rhythm and a good feeling for lyric continuity.

Ugly Duckling Now Lovely; Here Is How

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

One of the loveliest young women to come our way for interviewing tells a tale in which we think there is a sermon in converting the ugly duckling into a dreamgirl.

This young person, a fairly recent recruit to the Hollywood ranks, Ilona Massey, tells of a childhood pitiably bereft of the ordinary food requirements for health, vitality, or looks. She tells of never knowing the taste of meat until, as a refugee, a Holland family took her in and fed her, at 9. She was a postwar Hungarian child victim. She tells that in order to get a loaf of bread her mother or other family member would have to stand in line from five in the morning until nine, and then the bread was practically appetite-repelling. She tells herself that, later on in school, she was voted the ugliest girl. "And I must have been," she conceded. "I was so thin and anemic my bones protruded. My hands and feet were always in the way. The clothes I had were terribly ugly!"

"Then," we asked, "how and when did you get the courage to go on and build yourself into what you are today?"

"You do that," she answered, "when you have to, to survive. You learn to help yourself. You learn to do your hair, your nails, take care of your skin. You learn to walk. You learn to do the things you can afford, which meant, in my case, things that cost no money."

Miss Massey's climb from a very young girl seamstress to saleswoman, to dress model, to chorus where the voice she was blessed with brought her, together with her developed looks, her movie chance.

Today, she stands a tall, exquisite blonde whose every movement and gesture is grace personified.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 1.—Somewhere there may be a greater college football player than John Kimbrough, 210 pound full back for Texas A. & M., but you never will be able to convince the 70,000 spectators who today saw him almost single handed defeat a gallant team from Tulane, 14 to 13.

Kimbrough, leading scorer of the Southwest conference, put his team ahead in the opening quarter of the sixth annual Sugar bowl game by battering away thru the center of the Tulane line for a touchdown. He gave additional evidence of his thoroughbred qualities by running over tacklers late in the fourth period to tie the score after it appeared that Tulane had clinched victory.

Between his touchdown efforts, Kimbrough thrilled the biggest crowd that ever has seen a sports event in the south by a superb demonstration of power reminiscent of the best days of Bronko Nagurski and Ernie Nevers. He has another year of eligibility at Texas A. and M., but he already has established himself as the greatest line plunger this section of the country has produced.

Kimbrough Plays Every Minute.

Kimbrough played the entire 60 minutes. While he dominated the Texans' play thruout, you couldn't escape the impression that you were watching one of football's greatest teams. It had sparkle and drive and spirit and eagerness. It tackled. It at times developed devastating blocking that seemed to spring up magically. It was so smart against passes that Tulane, whose forward passes dazzled Southeastern conference opponents in late season, was unable to complete a single aerial.

Only a truly great eleven could have beaten Tulane today. The Green Wave, outclassed in the first half, came back with an offensive spurt that had the Texans reeling for more than 10 minutes in the late stages of the third quarter and the opening minutes of the final period.

Kellogg Runs 67 Yards.

A brilliant 67 yard return of a punt by Bob Kellogg for a touchdown enabled the team that was defending its home premises to knot the score at 7 to 7. The sprint started after Derace Moser, Aggie half back, quick kicked on first down. Kellogg, Tulane's safety man, picked up the bounding ball on his 22 yard line, lunged away from the first enemy tackler, who was on the spot to grab him and streaked for the west side lines. He waited for a blocker to take out the second Aggie tackler and in no time at all he was thru the cross traffic and in the clear. He was escorted to the goal by three team mates. Jim Thibaut kicked the try for point, and the score was tied, 7 to 7.

Tulane's second touchdown was set up by some loose ball handling in the Aggies' back field. Moser made a wild pitch on an attempted lateral to Kimbrough and Tulane recovered the ball on the Texans' 38 yard line.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 1.—Those of you who have visited New Orleans at Mardi Gras time may think you have seen the height of civic gayety. . . . But unless you were among the thousands who jammed Canal street as 1940 dawned you haven't seen anything yet. . . . In good old Chicago loop jargon, the town went nuts. . . . The 15,000 Texans who are here for the Sugar bowl game between Texas A. & M. and Tulane didn't wait until midnight to start their celebrating. . . . They began at 8 o'clock. . . . The natives caught the spirit and from 8 p. m. until 3 a. m. there was such a din in the downtown area it was impossible to carry on a conversation with a fellow pedestrian. . . . Buildings in the world famous Vieux Carre, which have survived 200 years of history making events and rule by three different nations, looked down last night on one of the wildest scenes in their long existence. . . . Graying masters in the art of mixing drinks reported record demands for the Ramos gin fizz, the Sazerac cocktail, the Planter's punch, dripped frappes, and other drinks familiar to all New Orleans visitors. . . . The balmy weather matched the gala mood of the revelers. . . . It was 60 degrees in Canal street as electric clocks blinked the arrival of the new year.

Standing in the center of a dense throng at one of the principal intersections were George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, and Burt Ingwersen, line coach at Northwestern, who had to yell into each other's ears to get across the point that Louisiana State's Ken Kavanaugh, the outstanding end in the North-South game in Montgomery, Saturday, is ripe for professional football. . . . If Kavanaugh decides to play post-graduate football, he must join the Bears, because Halas picked him in the National league draft. . . . Ingwersen had just arrived in New Orleans with his boss, Lynn Waldorf, and Carl Snavely of Cornell. . . . Waldorf and Snavely had charge of the North team, which lost a spectacular game to the southern stars, 33 to 20. . . . Waldorf and Ingwersen will vacation in Florida before returning to Evanston. . . . Larry Mullins, who finds himself without a job now that Loyola has dropped football, returned from the coaches' convention in Los Angeles in time to attend the Sugar bowl game.

When Tulane and Texas A. & M. teams came out for their warming up drills at 12:30, 45 minutes before game time, the temperature was 65 degrees and a fairly brisk breeze was blowing across the stadium from the northwest. . . . The press box, perched atop the second deck of the newly enlarged plant, affords an excellent view of the downtown district, five miles away. . . . Horace Renegar, publicity director of the Sugar bowl program, estimated that 40,000 of the 70,000 spectators were from out of town. . . . The charm of New Orleans as much as the caliber of the football teams, has lured visitors from the east and middle west in ever increasing numbers. . . . About one-third of Texas A. & M.'s student body of 6,200 were in the stands. . . . The boys were attired in R. O. T. C. uniforms. . . . Roundy Coughlin, the sage of Madison, Wis., was among the early arrivals in the press box. . . . He was complaining that he had blistered his tongue on oysters Rockefeller at Antoine's last night. . . . As early as 11 a. m. it was something of a job to get taxi service to the Sugar bowl. . . . An hour before game time the stadium was half filled. . . . The city's transportation facilities are inadequate to handle a crowd of 70,000, unless the customers move early. . . . The fans got their first chance to cheer when a girls' band from Orange, Tex., attired in orange jackets and white skirts, united with an American Legion band from New Orleans in rendering the Star Spangled Banner. . . . The entire west section rose en masse when the girl tooters blared "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You."

There isn't a poor seat in the Sugar bowl. . . . The front rows of the end zone sections are less than 10 yards from the end lines. . . . It was rumored around hotel lobbies this morning that Hunk Anderson will replace Gus Henderson as head coach of the Detroit Lions next season if G. A. Richards retains ownership of the team. . . . Texans say they will elect at least half of today's starting lineup for the Aggies to the 1941 All-Star squad in Chicago. . . . There are 17 juniors on this year's team. . . . Five Tulane players are from Gary, Ind. . . . They are Charles Block, center; Capt. Paul Krueger, quarter back; Al Bodney, end; Tom O'Boyle, guard, and Martin Comer, end.

Ten Years Ago Today—Maj. Ralph Sasse succeeded Capt. Biff Jones as head football coach at the United States Military academy. . . . The White Sox booked 17 spring training games with the New York Giants.

Utah Quintet Deals Maroons 1st Defeat, 40-39, in Overtime

A one man race down the floor for a basket by Nick Watts gave the University of Utah a victory over Chicago in the last 10 seconds of the second overtime period in the Midway fieldhouse last night. The score, which changed hands repeatedly with neither side ever more than 2 points ahead, was 40 to 39. The defeat was Chicago's first of the season.

After the regulation 40 minutes ended with the two teams deadlocked, 30 to 30, a free throw by Capt. Dick Lounsbury for the Maroons and a basket by Lanky Joe Stampf were balanced when Watts counted a basket and a free throw for the Utes.

The second overtime, with the score 33 to 33, was all Watts. He scored three baskets and a free throw to better the performance of Stampf, who scored two goals, and Ralph Richardson, who got one.

Watts, who was high point man of the evening, with 19 points, scored first by outsprinting the entire Chicago team for his first tally. He then permitted Chicago 4 points and a 2 point lead before settling down to business. Stampf was first in the Chicago scoring, with 18 points.

Utah took the opening tipoff and opened the scoring on a field goal by Guard Bill Johnson. The score was 15 to 15 at the half. Chicago's defense held the quick-moving westerners thru the second half, but Watts, who had scored only four baskets in the regulation game time, got warmed up in the overtime periods, scoring 10 points in ten minutes. GEORGIA TECH BEATS MISSOURI IN ORANGE BOWL

Bosch Leads Southerners to 21-7 Victory.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 1.—Georgia Tech's tricky Yellow Jackets upheld the south's football prestige in the Orange bowl game today. The Atlantans opened their bag of tricks early in the contest to baffle Missouri's Tigers and triumph, 21 to 7, before 38,000 who sat in bright sunshine which sent the temperature to the 70's.

The Big Six conference champions threw a scare into Georgia Tech's southern supporters in the first 10 minutes of the game when they scored with the aid of two passes by the Tigers' famed pitching artist, Paul Christman. But the Yellow Jackets, after this brief period, began to employ their deceptive maneuvers and the outcome was never in doubt.

Christman Praises Tech.

Christman, seated in the dressing room after the game, admitted along with his coach, Don Faurot, that Georgia Tech possessed more deception than any eleven they have ever seen. The big half back attempted 24 tosses and completed eight for 76 yards. Christman also remarked that at times he didn't know who had the ball in Georgia Tech's backfield. He made 36 yards in nine attempts at carrying the ball.

Georgia Tech's outstanding magicians were Johnny Bosch, half pint left half back, whose passing exhibition rivaled Christman's; Howard Ector, whose short plunge gave the Yellow Jackets their first touchdown in the opening quarter; Bob Ison, left end, who sprinted fifty-nine yards for a touchdown in the second period, and Earl Wheby, right half, who traveled thirty-four yards in the third.

Bosch Completes 5 of 10.

Bosch, a sophomore, fired 10 passes and completed five for 61 yards. He carried the ball only four times and picked up 13 yards. Georgia Tech gained 210 yards and made 12 first downs. The Tigers compiled 14 first downs but gained only 151 yards.

The teams didn't waste any time bringing out their hocus-pocus offensive maneuvers and the half ended with the Yellow Jackets leading, 14 to 7. Each eleven scored in the opening period and Georgia Tech took its own touchdown advantage early in the second quarter. Each scored seven first downs in the two periods.

Missouri, with Christman's two brilliant passes, was the first to score. The drive started when Ector fumbled and Waldorf recovered for the Tigers on the Georgia Tech 45 yard line. Cunningham gained two yards in two plays and then Christman pitched a twenty yard pass to Currence.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP).—Banks McFadden turned the ball carrying chores over to a sophomore, Charley Timmons, but his punting and defensive work helped bring Clemson a 6 to 3 victory over Boston College today in the Cotton bowl.

Twenty thousand chilled fans saw the two teams do all their scoring in the second period. Boston College tallied first with a twenty-five yard field goal by Alex Lukachik, a substitute end. A little later Timmons led a Clemson drive that ended with his plunging over for a touchdown. Shad Bryant missed the point.

The game ended with Boston College threatening the Clemson goal line most of the final period. With three minutes to go, the Eagles drove to the Clemson 8 yard line but Bryant bobbed up to bat down Charley O'Rourke's long pass and McFadden took care of another that seemed headed for a score.

Runs Team Well.

McFadden, finishing a great college football career, ran the Clemson team faultlessly, sending up punts that drove Boston back time and again and playing one of the finest defensive games ever seen on the Cotton bowl gridiron.

Boston college scored on fourth down after the second period opened. First O'Rourke, 153 pounder, returned Bru Trexler's punt from the Clemson 30 to the 15. Frank Maznicki lost five in a line try and Bob Jauron did the same, but Frank Davis dived thru

Blackhawks Whip Detroit, 1-0; Gottselig Scores in 2d Period

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night declined part tenancy of the National Hockey league cellar by beating the Detroit Red Wings, 1 to 0. The outcome caused the Detroiters to replace the New York Americans in the cellar.

Paul Goodman, making his Chicago debut as Hawk goalie, scored the first Chicago shutout in the 20 games of the season to date.

A crowd of 10,187 saw a game that went thru a painfully mild first period, warmed up in the second period, and became furious in the final period.

Gottselig Gets Goal.

The game's only goal was a remarkably screwy solo counter by Johnny Gottselig in the final minute of the second period, and from then to the end the play was exciting. The third period doings included a fist fight, in which Earl Seibert was obliged to knock down Jimmy Orlando, Bill McDonald and several others before retiring with Orlando to serve a major penalty.

The victory was the eighth of the season for the Hawks and their third over the once proud Wings. Tho they had just given up 21 goals to lose four games on their recent road trip, the Hawks have won four of their last five games at home, which, perhaps, accounts for the continued ga-ga of the Chicago hockey bugs.

After the listless first period had staggered to an inconsequential conclusion the fans began to get their money's worth. The players skated harder and demonstrated their earnestness thru a couple of personal clashes, tho said clashes were not

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 1.—The unbeaten record of the University of Tennessee's mighty football team came to an end in the Rose bowl today, smashed by curly headed Ambrose Schindler, the forgotten man of Southern California.

Forced into surrendering its first touchdown of the year by the irrepressible charges of Schindler in the second quarter, the rugged southerners succumbed to the young man's artistry again in the fourth period and were whipped 14 to 0 before 92,000 in the 25th game of the historic Rose bowl series. It was Southern California's sixth consecutive victory in the bowl, where it never has been beaten.

As Amby Goes, So Goes Troy.

Schindler scored the first touchdown on a one yard plunge over Tennessee's All-American guard, Bob Suffridge, with one minute remaining in the second quarter. Bob Jones, an end, kicked the extra point. The second Southern California touchdown came with one and a half minutes to play in the fourth period on Schindler's one yard pass to Al Krueger, end and hero of the 7 to 3 last minute Rose bowl triumph over Duke a year ago today. Phil Gaspar, Trojan tackle, added the extra point.

Tennessee, unbeaten in 26 games and unscored on in the last 12 games, waged a gallant fight and except for a disappointing break in the last quarter, it might have tied the score at 7 to 7. Sparked by Johnny Butler, Tennessee, outplayed for three quarters, got under way in the last period and with a daring display of passes, fought its way to Southern California's 15 yard line.

With the goal ahead and the momentum of the attack in full power, Full Back Frank Newman fumbled as he was hit driving thru the line and the loose ball was recovered by Roy Engle, substitute Trojan end.

Trojans Strike Back.

The southerners never shook off the demoralizing effects of that jolt, and it was from the 15 yard line that Schindler and Jack Banta slashed their way to a touchdown in the closing minutes. Tennessee stiffened on its one yard line, and Schindler, on fourth down, faded back and looped a touchdown pass to Kreuger.

But the victory is a saga of Schindler, a San Diego boy, who was playing his last game for Southern California. He got into the game largely thru luck. Nave, in the second quarter, was injured on a twenty yard run that had taken the ball to Southern California's 37 yard line. Unable to send Grenville Lansdell, the starting quarter back, back into the game, the Trojans had to rely on Schindler.

From his own 37 yard line, Schindler lifted his club in a continuous march that advanced sixty-three yards to a touchdown. He carried the ball across to climax the drive and Jones converted.

Trojans are the Better.

In the fourth quarter, after Tennessee had committed that tragic fumble, Schindler again drove his team goalward on an eighty-five yard touchdown march climaxed by his looping pass to Kreuger. The two touchdown marches totaled 148 yards. Schindler indeed made this day a very unhappy New Year for Tennessee. When he trotted off the field for a last minute substitution the 92,000 gave him an ovation that pierced the leaden gray skies blotting out the Sierra Madres.

Southern California, as the game was played, was the much better team, rolling up eighteen first downs to Tennessee's nine. But remove Schindler and it might well have been a scoreless tie. When he was out of the lineup Southern California had a lot of drive in midfield, but could muster no scoring punch. That statistics can lie is

PETE LELLO AND BREESE FIGHT 10 ROUND DRAW

Commission Fines Latter $100 for Rough Tactics.

Fight Decisions

At Milwaukee, Wis.—Pete Lello and Quentin Breese drew [10]; Georgie Pace, bantamweight champion, beat Johnny Gaudes [10], nontitle; Tony Cianciola beat Leonard Bennett [10]; Gene Ward beat Frankie Gaudes [6]; Annunzio Ferraro beat Pete Ferrand [4].
At Scranton, Pa.—Eddie Dolan beat George Henry [10].
At Detroit, Mich.—Gus Lesnevich beat Dave Clark [10].

BY FRANK MASTRO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 1 [Special].—A 10 round bout between Pete Lello, No. 3 lightweight contender, and Quentin Breese of Milwaukee ended in a draw decision in the auditorium this afternoon. The verdict was popular with the 5,000 spectators despite the fact that Lello slowed down in the latter stages of the contest. The crowd booed Breese most of the way for his foul tactics and his holding in the clinches at every opportunity. Referee Ted Jamieson penalized Breese for his rough house fighting by taking several rounds away from him.

Net receipts were $7,009. Lello weighed 134½ pounds and Breese 136½.

Referee Warns Breese.

The boys boxed on even terms in the first round, but Lello found the range with a left to the body and several rights to the head in the next session. Pete continued the good work in the third and fourth. In the fifth, however, Breese punished his Gary opponent by hitting on the break. The referee warned Breese.

In the sixth Breese refused to heed the official's warning and continued to hit on the breaks. Breese hit Pete after the bell in the seventh and his performance in the ninth and tenth were criticized by the Wisconsin boxing commission.

After the match the commission—Chairman Ray Sheehy, and Commissioners Frank Rogacki, Ray Markey, and Harvey Buchanan—fined Breese $100 and suspended him for 30 days.

Pace Beats Gaudes.

Georgie Pace, recently named bantamweight champion by the National Boxing association, scored a victory over Johnny Gaudes, also of Milwaukee, in a 10 round secondary feature. It was a nontitle event. Pace, making his first appearance in this section, showed flashes of skill, but his exhibition failed to make a hit with the fans. Both fighters were booed when they left the ring, and the commission later fined Gaudes $50 and banned him for 30 days.

Tony Cianciola, Milwaukee welterweight, who has been campaigning in the east with success as Tony Martin, returned to beat Leonard Bennett of Detroit in a 10 round fight. Bennett started as if he meant to score a knockout, counting points with a swinging left hook to the body in the first three rounds. However, Cianciola solved his rugged foe's style in the fourth to forge to the front, where he remained for the balance of the encounter. In the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, and eighth Bennett walked into rights to the chin which shook him up from head to foot.

Ward Is Winner.

Gene Ward, Chicago 131 pounder, who was held to a draw in a previous meeting with Frankie Gaudes, brother of Johnny, conquered Frankie in a six round return engagement. Ward was too strong for his aggressive opponent.

In a four round opener Annunzio Ferraro, another Milwaukee product, whipped Pete Ferrand, South Chicago junior welterweight.

WHICHCEE WINS OVER KAYAK 2D IN $10,000 RACE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1 (AP).—Whichcee beat the favorite, but topweighted, Kayak II. by four lengths to win the $10,000 New Year handicap at Santa Anita park today. Heelfly was third.

A crowd of 45,000 saw Specify, the pace setter, falter in the stretch and wind up a badly beaten fifth. Jockey Basil James brought Whichcee in front in the stretch as Kayak II., carrying 128 pounds, 12 more than the Maj. A. C. Taylor bay gelding, made a game but futile challenge.

Whichcee, third choice in the betting, ran the mile in 1:35 2-5 and paid $13.20, $4.20 and $3.20. He added $8,300 to his earnings.

Whichcee, taken in hand when Specify, second choice in betting, took command, moved into the lead when urged and won under mild punishment. Kayak II., restrained but never far back, responded to pressure but could not cope with the winner. Heelfly, slow to get started, bettered his position gradually, closed gamely, but was not a serious threat. Can't Wait, Pernie and Journey On also ran.

SUPREME SIR WINS.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 1 (AP).—Supreme Sir, Mrs. E. L. Martin's 4 year old bay, captured the 22d running of the New Year's handicap at the Fair Grounds today.

Beautifully handled by Apprentice Pat Milligan, Supreme Sir kept behind the fast early pace set by Tow Rope and Waxwing, and came from fourth place at the top of the stretch to triumph by two and a half lengths over Jumping Jill, which had taken a temporary lead in the stretch.

Third in the mile and one sixteenth race was Uneasy.

Supreme Sir's victory, before 10,000 spectators, was his third straight.

The winner, top-weighted at 115 pounds, went to the post the favorite, and paid $6.40 to $2 in the mutuels. Jumping Jill paid $3.80 and $3.20.

GUS LESNEVICH BEATS CLARK; TO MEET BILLY CONN

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 1 (AP).—Gus Lesnevich of Cliffside Park, N. J., and Billy Conn, the light heavyweight champion, will meet here in a title bout next June, it was announced tonight.

The announcement followed Lesnevich's victory over Dave Clark, Detroit Negro, this afternoon at the state fairgrounds coliseum. Lesnevich won a close 10 round decision over Clark.

Lesnevich made a futile attempt to wrest the championship from Conn last November at Madison Square Garden. After that bout Lesnevich sought a rematch but the Mike Jacobs interests told him to dispose of Clark first. Today he did it.

Lew Diamond, associated with Mike Jacobs, announced the arrangements for the June bout here. The fight probably will be staged at Briggs stadium.

In the semi-final today Billy Beauhuld, Union City, N. J., won an eight round decision over Mickey Duris, Johnstown, Pa. They are 140 pounders.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 1 (AP).—All-Star college football players of the west routed the east, 28 to 11, on a muddy gridiron today. It was the west's ninth victory in the 15 years of the Shrine benefit games.

A torrential rain turned Kezar stadium into a quagmire in the second half and players soon became coated with mud. A crowd of 45,000 huddled under umbrellas, newspapers, and oilskins.

Remarkable passing and kicking characterized the contest. Big Bill Anahu, Santa Clara university end, ran 25 yards for the west's first touchdown midway in the first quarter after taking a 50 yard pass from Kay Eakin, University of Arkansas. Dick Favor, Oklahoma, converted.

East Scores on Pass.

In the same period George Stirnweiss, North Carolina half back, playing for the east, took a short pass from Herb McCarthy, Denver university quarter back, and squirmed thru the west's defense for a touchdown. Francis Stulgaitis, Columbia end, picked up a blocked kick by Ben Kish, Pittsburgh full back, and ran the ball over the goal line for the extra point.

Ollie Cordill, Rice institute right half back, took a shovel pass from Herb McCarthy, Denver university full back, and ran around end for West's second touchdown in the second quarter. Jack Sanders, Southern Methodist guard, converted to put the West ahead, 14 to 7.

Leroy Zimmerman, San José [Cal.] State half back, threw a series of three passes which took the ball thirty-six yards to the East 1 yard line in the same period, and Frank Emmons, Oregon full back, dived over for a touchdown. Sanders kicked to put the West ahead, 21 to 7.

East Scores 2 Safeties.

Midway in the third period, the East got two points on a safety when Stulgaitis grounded the ball as Eakin's kick from behind his own goal line was blocked.

The rain came down hard as the fourth period started. A drive by the East and a fifteen yard penalty for clipping brought the ball to the West's 1 yard line and Zimmerman grounded the ball for another safety to raise the East's score to 11.

A bad East pass from center went over the head of Dick Cassiano, Pittsburgh half back, and Lee Artoe, University of California tackle, grabbed it in the East end zone for a touchdown.

for six. Then Lukachik stepped back and booted the goal.

Clemson's touchdown came soon after. Getting the ball on their 43 following a punt exchange, the Tigers marched to the score. McFadden went around right end for thirteen. Bryant lost seven in two tries but McFadden pitched a pass to Wister Jackson for a first down on the Boston 20. Timmons hit right tackle for twelve, got six at the same place on his next try and then charged over for the touchdown. Bryant's try for point was wide.

The mighty punting of McFadden—a decisive factor in Clemson's victory—came out as an average of 42.6 yards. In ball carrying, Timmons ran 27 times and made 127 yards. McFadden ran but four times and gained 44 yards. Vito Ananis was the leading ground gainer for Boston college with forty-three yards in eleven tries while O'Rourke showed forty-one yard's in eight runs.

The game was marred by numerous penalties but most of them came from the bruising type of play.

After the game Coach Frank Leahy of Boston college grinned and said:

"Clemson had the best team out there today. Those boys deserved to win."

SCHINDLER AND U. S. C. WIN, 14-0, OVER TENNESSEE

proved by the summary which shows Banta and Nave were the best ground gainers for Southern California. Banta averaged 5.8 yards every time he packed the ball. Schindler averaged only four yards per carry, but Schindler made yards when they meant scores.

'Twas a Bitter Pill.

Defeat was made all the more bitter for Tennessee because lightning struck just at the moment when it appeared the southerners were riding high. It was in the second quarter. Tennessee, backed to its own goal line by an exchange of kicks, was extricated from a tough spot by Johnny Butler, who had won the Auburn game a few weeks ago. Butler propelled an enormous kick down the field. The ball carried and rolled seventy-two yards. Tennessee now had Southern California back on its 17 yard line.

This appeared to be a definite break and a rebel yell welled up from the stands where southern rooters were assembled. Butler was given an ovation.

Then, at this auspicious moment, lightning struck hard, fast, and sure. On the first running play, Nave broke thru the line and went twenty yards to the U. S. C. 37 yard line. Then Schindler came in. Tennessee had been able to check Lansdell and Nave. There were six minutes left to play in the first half. In five minutes Amby had led his team to a touchdown.

More Bad Luck.

Here again Tennessee had bad luck. As Schindler drove them into their own goal posts and with about one minute and a half to go, the Vols were guilty of rough play, and penalized to its own 1 yard line. It was a heartbreaking penalty. Tennessee braced and held Schindler to a half yard gain on his first drive. Suffridge, Tennessee's famous guard, reared up and personally checked him. On the next play, Southern California swept Suffridge out of the way and Schindler scored.

George Cafego, great star of the Tennessee team, played about 15 minutes of the game, but his bad knee reduced his effectiveness almost to nothing. It was Johnny Butler and Bob Foxx who were the stars of the Volunteer back field; Butler for his kicking and his all around play, Foxx for his magnificent forward passing at the start of the last quarter, an attack that could have scored had not it been stalled by that ghastly fumble.

Amby? He's Superb.

In the line, Jim Coleman and End Emil Hust and Suffridge and Ed Molinski, at the guards, turned in yeoman work. Up until Schindler appeared they had turned back the vaunted running attack of the Trojans and opened huge holes in the Trojan line for their own backs.

Southern California played hard, alert, heads up football. Banta, Lansdell, Bob Robertson, Nave, Bob de Lauer, Roy Engle, Bob Peoples were in there pitching the entire route, and Schindler of course was superb. He had one of those days when a player can do no wrong, and he did no wrong, except to Tennessee.

TEMPE, 0; CATHOLIC, 0

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 1 (AP).—Catholic university of Washington and Arizona State of Tempe fought to a scoreless tie in the Sun bowl today before a near capacity crowd estimated at 12,000. The westerners kept the heavier Cardinals from the national capital on their heels for a good half of the game.

It was Catholic eleven, however, which put on a thrilling finish. With seconds to go, it looked like Carmen Pirro's toe and the passes of Pete Sachon might turn the trick, but Tempe held the ball on its own 14 at the end.

Statistics gave the Arizonians an edge in yardage, Tempe gaining 11 first downs to Catholic's 4 and rolling up 205 yards from scrimmage to 182. However, Tempe had four fumbles marked against it.

Southern Backs Go on Bowl Rampages

Johnny Bosch, midget half back of the Georgi a Tech eleven, steps off a neat gain during the Yellow Jackets' 21 to 7 victory over Missouri in the Orange bowl game in Miami, Fla., yesterday. Bosch, whose passing later figured in a pair of Tech touchdowns, is about to be detained by three Missourians—Bud Orf (No. 29), Wetzel (42), and Waldorf (45). [Associated Press Photos.]

Georgia Tech Eleven Beats Missouri, 21-7

two yards and Starmer added two. Christman shot another pass to Currence for fifteen yards and first down on the Yellow Jackets' 5 yard line. Christman went thru right tackle for two yards and then Cunningham drove to the 1 foot line. Christman crashed over for the touchdown. Cunningham added the extra point. Georgia Tech, however, then went to work and tied the score in twelve plays. After the Missouri touchdown, Haas kicked to Ector, who returned thirty-seven yards to the Yellow Jackets' 37. Bosch passed to Sprayberry for fifteen yards and Bosch picked up four.

Pair dashed around end for ten yards and a first down on the Tigers' 33. Pair gained two yards and Bosch's pass was incomplete. Ison, on a tricky end-around play, ran to the 18 yard line. Pair picked up two more yards and Bosch passed to Ison for ten. Pair smashed thru for three yards and Ector added two more. Ector fumbled as he hit the line of scrimmage, but recovered and then went over for a touchdown on the next play. Goree's kick for the extra point was good.

Jackets Score Again.

In the second period, Georgia Tech began the march to another touchdown on its own 37 yard line. On the first play, Pair slipped thru left tackle for four yards. Bosch then tried a pass to Webb but it was broken up by Christman. Ison, on the same end-around maneuver which baffled Missouri in the opening quarter, then traveled fifty-nine yards down the north side lines for a touchdown. Goree again kicked the extra point.

Half way thru the third period Georgia Tech started on the way to its third touchdown. The Yellow Jackets were temporarily halted when they lost the ball on a fumble on the Missouri 1 yard line, but they scored a minute later. It was Bosch again who placed the southerners within scoring position on long, accurate passes.

The tiny left half back passed 17 yards to Ison to put the ball on Missouri's 32 yard line. Another pass barely went out of the hands of Pair, but on the next play Pair ran 12 yards. Bosch connected with a 15 yard pass to Ison and Ector gained five yards in two plays. Murphy then fumbled on Missouri's 1 yard line and Starmer recovered for the Tigers.

So it Becomes 21 to 7.

The Yellow Jackets got the touchdown in two plays. Currence immediately kicked out for the Tigers, Bosch receiving the kick on his own 47 and returning to his 34. A pass from Bosch to Ison was incomplete and then Wehby ran wide to the left and dashed down the field for the score. Goree kicked the extra point and the Yellow Jackets led, 21 to 7.

The Tigers threatened to score in the closing minutes of the game, but were turned back by the powerful Georgia Tech line on the 2 yard line. Two complete passes by Christman to Starmer put the ball on the Yellow Jackets' 12 yard line. Another toss of six yards to Starmer and a four yard run by Christman sent the Tigers to the 2 yard stripe, but Georgia Tech held and then punted out of danger.

CHICAGOAN 2D IN GOLF.

Hollywood Beach, Fla., Jan. 1 [Special].—Morris Norian of Chicago scored 322 to win second gross honors in the Hollywood Beach hotel 4 day 72 hole medal play tournament.

Banks McFadden, Clemson's great full back, makes a ten yard gain in the South Carolina school's Cotton bowl game against Boston college in Dallas, Tex., yesterday. Guard Charley Tisdale (No. 57) is running interference for the Clemson star. Clemson won the game, 6 to 3.

Texas Aggies Rally to Beat Tulane, 14-13

split the middle of the Aggies' line for nine yards and Harry Hays made it a first down on the 24. Butler hit inside his left tackle for four but was stopped at the scrimmage line on the next play by Pannell and Thomason. Fred Cassibry, half back, on a reverse play, bounded off one tackler after another until he reached the 9 yard line. On a reverse from Butler, Cassibry rushed to the 2 yard line. Hays was stopped a yard short of the goal by Kimbrough but on the next plunge Butler crashed thru his left guard for a touchdown.

Thibaut's place kick was blocked, which proved a disastrous development, because Tulane eventually lost by the margin of a point after touchdown.

Tulane, during its offensive spurt revealed itself as a bright, alert, heads up clique, operating without the service of outstanding individuals. In its second touchdown drive there seemed to be no stars, and still, maybe they were all stars. Individuality unquestionably was lost in the mass. Rather, there was smooth, team like precision that kept chewing away at the Aggie defense. Parts were replaced, yet so smooth was the gearing up that the tempo never slackened and the pressure never softened.

Now It's the Aggies' Turn.

Nobody became excited when the Texans returned Tulane's kickoff after its second touchdown to their own 31 yard line. They began to take notice, however, when Price flipped a pass to Smith for nine yards and repeated to Sterling for ten.

At this point Mr. Kimbrough went to work in earnest. Taking the ball on direct pass from center, he headed off his left tackle and by speed and terrific drive forced his way to Tulane's 27. He went wide to the left for two and a forward pass from Price to Hays was knocked down. Then came the play that broke Tulane hearts. Price passed to Smith, who lateralled to Kimbrough on the 15 yard line. Kimbrough, like Nagurski in his prime, ran straight into one tackler after another, but either left them sprawling on the ground or carried them with him until he had planted the ball behind the goal for the touchdown that tied the score at 13 to 13.

Price Kicks Winning Point.

Price kicked the point which meant victory for a team that wound up its schedule with a record of eleven straight triumphs.

The score was as close as a football victory can be, but the statistics give Texas A. and M. a wide edge. The Aggies made 17 first downs, 14 from scrimmage and three from passing, as compared with Tulane's eight. The figures follow:

	Tulane.	Texas A. & M.

AUSTIN BEATS WELLS, 30 TO 27, IN U. OF C. FINAL

Prep Tourney Winners Are Pressed Thruout.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Austin High school won the University of Chicago's interscholastic basketball tournament by beating Wells, 30 to 27, in the final round yesterday afternoon in the Midway fieldhouse.

A rally in the last 30 seconds of the game netted Wells one basket by Salvatore Somanelli, but failed to close the gap in the score. Austin, despite its height advantage, was never out of trouble.

Two Divide Scoring Honors.

Wells tied the score five times, and led on three occasions in the first half.

Scoring honors went to rangy George Felt of Austin and George Ruch of Wells, both of whom made 15 points. Both totals were made on six baskets and three free throws.

In the first quarter Felt's seven points kept Austin in a precarious lead. The final goal accounted for Austin's 9 to 7 lead at the gun.

Bob Lundy's one man scoring spree in which he scored six points in three minutes maintained the slim Austin lead in the second quarter, which ended with Austin leading Wells, 16 to 15.

Austin Increases Lead.

Baskets by Roland Komiss, Ben Navigato, and Chuck Bissell increased the Austin lead to 21 to 19 at the end of the third period.

Killian of Wells, one of the outstanding players in the tournament, missed two free throws with the score 26 to 25 and two minutes to play in the final period.

Two free throws by Felt and Navigato and a basket which Felt scored on a pass from Navigato ended Austin's scoring. Romanelli's basket in the final half minute was insufficient to overcome the lead.

Lane High school, defeated only by Wells in the tournament, clinched third place by defeating Calumet, 34 to 28. Lineup:

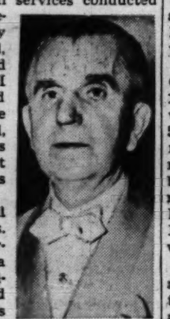
GREAT I AM DIES OF HEART ATTACK, BODY CREMATED

Wife Conducts Funeral Services on Coast.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 1 [Special].—Private funeral services conducted here today revealed that Guy W. Ballard, founder and head of the Great I Am cult, had been dead since Friday. Ballard, who was 60 years old, died of heart disease in his home here.



Guy Ballard.

After a funeral oration by Mrs. Ballard, the former Edna Anna Wheeler of Chicago, who served as high priestess of the cult, Ballard's body was cremated. Mrs. Ballard explained in the oration that The Great I Am had not died; he merely ascended into heaven, she said.

Ballard was born in Newton, Kas., and gave up paper hanging about 25 years ago to delve into mysticism. He started the Great I Am movement 10 years ago—after, he said, he had received a celestial message from St. Germain while he was standing atop Mount Shasta.

Lived Expensively.

Ballard attracted many followers here, in Chicago, Cleveland, and New York. He obtained large sums of money from his followers and lived expensively.

In Los Angeles, Ballard and his assistants occupied as offices a large suite of rooms in the most expensive hotel. He also had offices in Chicago, Cleveland, and New York. In his travels about the country, Ballard always had at his beck and call a fleet of bright yellow, high priced automobiles.

Ballard habitually dressed in white, which he said was the color of light, and wore a pink necktie because pink, to him, was the color of love.

Vague about his background, Ballard frequently said he was the reincarnation of George Washington and called his mysterious power K-17. He also let it be known that Mrs. Ballard was the reincarnation of Joan of Arc.

Veteran of Law Courts.

Ballard was a frequent visitor in Chicago and almost as frequently involved in court suits. Last September, Miss Mary Ingham, a former follower, sued him for $6,755 and interest at 7 per cent—a total of $10,906. Miss Ingham said she lent this money to Ballard in 1924-'26 to buy a lake in California.

Ballard told her, Miss Ingham charged in her suit, that he would pump gold out of the lake and all would become rich.

Because of his difficulties in Chicago, Ballard promised to send the cows, pigs, and sheep which have been slaughtered in the stockyards, to haunt the people.

Mrs. Ballard and her son, Doland, 21, plan to continue the cult.

BOLIVIANS FEAR VOTE WILL BRING NEW DICTATOR

Military Seek to Gain Lost Power.

BY ANTHONY PATRIC.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PORTO SAUREZ, Bolivia, Jan. 1.—Bolivia appears to be on the eve of another election crisis and many Bolivians fear the creation of another military dictatorship as a result of the balloting on March 10.

Gen. Enrique Penaranda.

Gen. Enrique Penaranda, who commanded the Chaco army in 1933, has been nominated for the presidency by a coalition of the three major parties, the Liberals, the Republicans, and the Democratic-Socialists. The odds favor his election without opposition.

While he is acknowledged to be a strong and honest man, as well as a brilliant soldier, it is feared that, if elected, he may not satisfy the army and that fresh disorders may break out.

Military Works for Power.

These disorders, it is said, probably would be initiated by high ranking officers who soared to power during the régime of the Dictator-President Lieutenant Colonel German Busch. These young militarists already are reported working secretly to regain the powers lost by them when Busch killed himself last Aug. 23. Many leaders fear they will start disorders to justify the intervention of armed forces and the materialization of another dictatorship.

It appears that they have already won one victory over both the provisional government of Acting President Gen. Carlos Quintanilla and the coalition. This was seen in the nomination of Gen. Penaranda, altho Republican leaders had insisted on nomination of a civilian candidate to nullify the possibility of another military rule.

Civilians Quit Field.

His nomination had an immediate result in the withdrawal of several civilian candidates, among them Bernardo Navajas Trigo, brother-in-law of President Quintanilla; Alberto Ostria Gutierrez, minister of foreign affairs, and David Alvestgui, Bolivian minister to Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Their withdrawal appears to have resulted from their determination to avert unrest and a military coup d'état.

The provisional government, which is backing the claims of the masses for a full democratic government and a guarantee of their constitutional rights, a few weeks ago decreed that Bolivia should have two vice presidents. Now it has canceled that decree and issued one that suppresses both offices as unnecessary.

Curb on Army Sought.

Today's situation suggests that the nomination of Gen. Penaranda amounts to a sort of compromise and will greatly restrict the election campaign. His election being considered almost assured, the coalition will limit its campaign to the election of senators and deputies seeking to obtain a majority in congress capable of checking any possible political activity of the army and any tendency of Gen. Penaranda to succumb to the spell of the military clique, which is reputed to have been responsible for the conditions that marked the so-called Bolivianista government of Busch.

If elected, Gen. Penaranda will have a hard job in keeping the country on a healthy democratic path and will have to face the opposition of a legion of young generals and colonels reluctant to part with the power they enjoyed during the dictatorships of Col. José Toro and Busch.

FRENCH JUBILEE MARKS NEW YEAR IN 2 OLD TOWNS

Prairie du Rocher, Ill., Jan. 1 (AP).—New Year celebrations in Prairie du Rocher and Ste. Genevieve, Mo., old French towns on opposite sides of the Mississippi river, reached a colorful climax tonight in the annual Grand Guignole ball.

A highlight of the evening was the crowning of Miss Eloise Blow as La Guignolee Mademoiselle for 1940.

The celebrations, which lasted two nights, were carried out as they have been for the 225 years since the towns were founded. La Guignole singers went about until daybreak today, receiving in return for their songs the hospitality of the townspeople.

Members of one group were dressed in castoff garments of an earlier day; those of another were in colonial costumes and uniforms of French officers. A third unit was composed of descendants of the early families.

MRS. SHERFESEE TO BE BURIED IN NEW YORK JAN. 21

Widow of Arthur Ryerson Died in Montevideo.

Funeral services for Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee, who died Dec. 30 in Montevideo, will be held Jan. 21 in the family home in Cooperstown, N. Y.

Mrs. Sherfesee, the former Emily Borie of Philadelphia, was for many years a distinguished member of Chicago society. She came to Chicago as the bride of Arthur Ryerson, who lost his life in the sinking of the Titanic in 1912, and resided here until 1927 when she married Sherfesee, at that time financial adviser to the Chinese government in Peking.

Renowned as Philanthropist.

She was renowned as a philanthropist, as a hostess, and as an indefatigable traveler. She maintained homes at various times at Majorca, Paris, Peking, Briskra, and on the Nile. More recently she and Mr. Sherfesee had lived in the south of France.

She, too, was on the Titanic when it sank. With Mr. Ryerson she was hurrying back to the United States to attend the funeral of a son, who had been killed in an automobile accident in Philadelphia.

After America's entrance into the world war, she worked diligently at relief work in Chicago for three years. She went to France to work in hospitals, later establishing an American hospital there.

Aided War Refugees.

At various times she espoused the cause of the French, Italian, Polish, and Russian refugees and orphaned children. In 1920 she visited Poland in the interests of the children's relief commission of the American Red Cross.

Both before and after her marriage to Mr. Sherfesee, whom she met in Peking, she traveled widely.

A son, John Borie Ryerson, and two daughters, Mrs. Beache Cooke of Cooperstown, N. Y., and Mrs. Victor Salvatore of New York, survive.

4 CHILDREN DIE FROM GAS FUMES IN 2D FLOOR FLAT

Perth Amboy, N. J., Jan. 1 (AP).—Four children ranging in age from 1 to 10 years died in a holiday tragedy today when illuminating gas, seeping thru their second floor flat, overcame a family of seven.

In a critical condition at Perth Amboy General hospital are Mr. and Mrs. John Guile and their daughter, Nancy, 4. Guile is a trouble shooter for the Perth Amboy Gas Light company.

Killed by the fumes were two girls and two boys: Theresa, 10 years old; Joan, 7; Frank, 3, and John, 1.

Thomas Maikos, 13 year old cousin of Mrs. Guile, discovered the bodies shortly after 1 p. m. Police Chief Frank Murray said his men found one jet open on a kitchen gas range. On the kitchen floor they found Guile. Apparently he had been awakened by the gas, Murray said, but collapsed before he could reach the range to shut off the flow.

FARMER INCOME HIGHER, DUE TO FEDERAL GRANTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1 [Special].—Increased government benefit payments to farmers raised their total income last year, more than offsetting a decline in their cash income from marketings. This was disclosed today in revised figures in Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's annual report.

The new figures placed cash income from marketings at $7,625,000,000, compared with $7,627,000,000 in 1938, a decline of $2,000,000. However, benefit payments last year were $675,000,000, compared with $482,000,000 in 1938, an increase of $193,000,000.

Secretary Wallace said the nation need not fear a timber shortage, as there are 77 million acres of idle forest lands. He also said the European war is reducing exports of American fruits.

BANKING PROFIT OF CONTINENTAL HIGHEST IN U. S.

Chicago Institution Earns 16½ Million.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.
[Financial Editor.]

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company earned $16,526,000 in 1939, Walter J. Cummings, chairman, announced yesterday. The earnings, it was indicated, exceeded that of any other bank in the United States. In the preceding year the bank's profit totaled $15,565,518.

Walter J. Cummings.

Other Chicago banks yesterday reported larger earnings for 1939 in year-end statements to stockholders. These included the Northern Trust company, Harris Trust and Savings bank, and the City National Bank and Trust company. The First National bank had reported earlier an increase in profits for the year.

Deposits Set Chicago Record.

The Continental's statement disclosed that deposits at the year-end reached a total of $1,324,095,000, the highest ever reported by a Chicago bank.

In addition to its earnings from banking operation and profits on the sale of securities the Continental bank realized $2,118,153 from recovery of values on assets previously charged off. This sum was not included in earnings, but was added to a general reserve for contingencies. The addition raised the total of the fund to $16,048,151, which Chairman Cummings said was a "free" general reserve.

The 1939 earnings were equal to $10.58 a share on the 1,500,000 shares of outstanding common stock after paying dividends on the preferred stock. This compared with $9.86 per common share in 1938. The last of the bank's preferred stock was retired Dec. 1.

Largest Profit for Third Year.

It was the third year in which the bank's profits have surpassed those of other large banks of the country, several of which have assets in excess of those of the Continental.

The increase in earnings over 1938 resulted entirely from larger profits realized on the sale of securities. Net profit of $6,882,388 was realized on securities sold as compared with $4,540,321 from that source in the preceding year.

Earnings from banking operations were smaller than in 1938. The net earnings from operations totaled $9,645,622, compared with $11,025,196 in the preceding year. The decline, Chairman Cummings said, resulted from lower average interest rates prevailing in 1939.

Deposits Gain 66½ Millions.

The new high level of deposits [$1,324,095,000] reached on Dec. 30 was a gain of $66,539,159 over a year earlier.

The following tabulation shows a comparison of the capital accounts:

	Dec. 30, 1939.	Dec. 31, 1938.
Common stock	$50,000,000	$50,000,000
Preferred stock	none	25,000,000
Surplus	30,000,000	20,000,000
Undivided profits	15,086,348	13,711,537
Reserve for contingencies	16,048,151	13,929,997

Chairman Cummings reviewed the operations of the bank since the recapitalization of 1933. Net earnings in the six years since the recapitalization have amounted to $103,883,348.

"These earnings," Cummings said, "have enable us to retire the preferred stock, to charge off items not provided for at the time of recapitalization, to increase surplus and undivided profits $32,235,712, to capitalize $25,000,000 of earnings and distribute the equivalent par amount of common stock in stock dividends. In the six year period deposits have increased from $629,944,034 to $1,324,095,000."

HARRIS TRUST AND SAVINGS

The Harris Trust and Savings bank reported 1939 net earnings of $1,235,128, equal to $20.55 a share, against 1938 earnings of $1,083,840, or $18.06 a share. The year's earnings were de-

Time Retires Old Leaders, Brings On New

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Time wrote a varied chronicle around the names of numerous leading business men in 1939. Success, defeat, riches, bankruptcy, hopeful beginnings of youth on the way up and the yielding by others marked for retirement or death went into the record in the year's unfolding of individual destinies.

With all its vagaries, the chronicle conformed to the homely American philosophy that the humblest may rise to the top. Farm boys and office boys made good once more, becoming corporation presidents after arduous years, in keeping with a tradition which men scoff at—and live by.

Death Takes Its Toll.

Death thinned the front rank of names long familiar: Charles M. Schwab, Henry L. Doherty, Carl R. Gray, Barron G. Collier, Samuel T. Bledsoe, Charles R. Walgreen, Sir Henri Deterding, Murry Guggenheim, James Simpson, Carl Laemmle, H. G. Dalton, Anthony Fokker, and others.

Voluntary resignations and retirements removed from high posts in business such names as Gerard Swope, Owen D. Young, Robert H. Cabell, H. E. Manville, Lessing J. Rosenwald, Edgar S. Bloom, John P. Oleson, and Fred W. Sargent. Some of these leaders gave up big jobs because of ill health or advanced age, and some put down their executive burdens while still in full vigor.

New Leaders Brought Forth.

Into these or other vacancies went: Gen. Robert E. Wood as chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., after retirement of Rosenwald; Thomas J. Carney, replacing Wood as Sears' president; George A. Eastwood, new president of Armour & Co., after retirement of Cabell; Edmund W. Wakelee, elected president of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, one of the nation's largest utilities.

Charles R. Walgreen Jr., new president of Walgreen company, drug store chain, succeeding his father, who became chairman and later died; Edward J. Engel, who became president of the Santa Fe railroad after Bledsoe's death; Francis J. Gavin, Great Northern railroad president after death of W. P. Kenney; Charles E. Denney, named president of the Northern Pacific railroad in place of Charles Donnelly, who died; Thomas B. Freeman, new president of Butler Brothers, succeeding Frank S. Cunningham, who became chairman.

Freeman Heads Edison.

Charles Y. Freeman, who became chairman of Commonwealth Edison company after the death of Simpson; Clarence G. Stoll, farmer's son who became president of Western Electric company as successor to Bloom, retired; Philip D. Reed, replacing Young as chairman of General Electric company upon Young's retirement; and Charles E. Wilson, General Electric president in place of Swope, who retired with Young. Manville became chairman of Johns-Manville corporation, then resigned later in the year after 49 years with the company his family founded.

Oleson is chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Chicago. After 53 years with the bank, he told the directors he will not be a candidate for reelection at the forthcoming annual meeting.

Others Among the Dead.

No successor to Schwab as chairman of Bethlehem Steel corporation has been chosen. Gray had retired to the vice chairmanship of the Union Pacific railroad in 1937, when he gave up the presidency.

Collier was the advertising executive who developed street car advertising. Deterding Dutch oil man, was known as the "Rockefeller of Europe." Guggenheim was a member of the copper mining family. Laemmle was a pioneer movie producer.

Doherty, president of Cities Service company, had been in the utility business for 57 years. Dalton was chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company and a veteran in the steel industry. Fokker, builder of planes for Germany in the world war, who later transferred his business and citizenship to America, was the first to make a million in aviation.

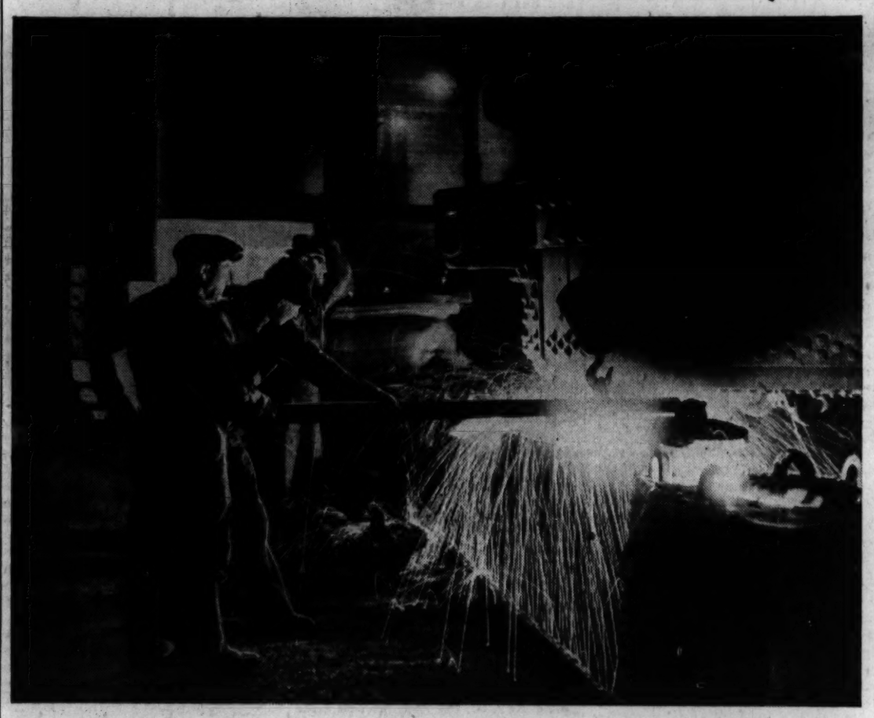
Bendix Adjudged Bankrupt.

Bankruptcy actions involved Vincent Bendix, developer of the self-starter for automobiles and head of Bendix Aviation corporation, and Edward A. Dato, onetime business associate of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick.

John R. Thompson Jr. was displaced by Paul Moore as president of John R. Thompson company, national restaurant chain, after differences developed among stockholders.

A widely known former broker, Stephen Paine, became entangled in an investment trust looting scandal because he arranged loans that allegedly enabled others to get control of the trusts' portfolio. Paine was convicted of mail fraud and conspiracy.

Chicago Makes Steel for a Nation's Needs



A step in the process by which iron ore from the Lake Superior district is converted into steel from which new automobiles and thousands of other products are made, this view shows molten metal being poured into molded forms. Photo was made at the South works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

Many Records Are Toppled in Business Year

Accomplishments in industry in 1939 included the following:

Electric power production was the highest in history.

More passenger automobiles were in use than ever before.

Air transport systems flew more miles and carried more passengers and more air express packages than in any previous year.

Rayon consumption broke all records.

The tobacco crop was the largest in history.

The nation's freight trains set a new average speed record.

America Garners Gold.

The United States piled up the largest gold hoard ever seen.

Canned fruit exports soared to a new peak.

Bank deposits climbed to new heights.

Chase National bank of New York became the world's largest bank.

More shoes were produced than ever before.

Motor fuel output established a record.

Telephone Record Set.

The Bell telephone system reported its hookup was the most extensive in history.

United States government bonds reached new record high prices.

Plastics production and consumption attained new high levels.

Consumption of chemicals in the final 1939 quarter was the fastest for any three months on record.

Camera enthusiasts used more miles of film than they ever did before.

INVEST MILLIONS AS CHICAGO AREA FACTORIES GROW

Chicago area industrial expansion in 1939 involved a total investment of $32,964,434 for new factory space, according to the annual report of the industrial department of the Chicago Association of Commerce. This included expansion by existing enterprises and the entry of new companies into the area.

The association reported that 176 companies expanded their plants, 104 manufacturing companies increased their space thru leases and 53 purchased new properties.

TRIBUNE'S INVESTORS' GUIDE ANSWERS 14,000 LETTERS IN LAST YEAR

The Investors' Guide department answered more than 14,000 inquiries about investments, securities and insurance during 1939. These questions from investors increased the total volume of mail received since the department was started in June, 1914, to 444,240 letters.

The war in Europe and business improvement at home dominated the interests of investors last year, the mailbag of the department revealed. The letters reflected the fears and disappointments of investors in the falling markets of March and early April, and the more hopeful optimism of the business revival in the late summer and early fall.

Letters in the last quarter showed abandonment of the chase for elusive war profits current in September. The interest was more in the basic performance of industrial corporations, especially of railroads, electric utilities, steel companies and the expanding aircraft industry.

Truck Industry Terms 1939 Its Most Profitable Year

Last year was the most profitable year in the history of the trucking industry, according to Ted V. Rodgers, president of the American Trucking association. "The increase in business generally gives promise that we may expect top truck loadings thru the spring months," Rodgers said.

Facilities for Financing

MEDIUM-SIZED CORPORATIONS

■ During the past years, we have successfully completed financings for a number of corporations by the flotation of common and preferred stock issues through a nation-wide group of representative investment securities houses.

■ Financial facilities of this character are no doubt required in this period of expanding business by a number of established growing corporations.

■ From corporations that have not as yet reached their full stature, but could be stimulated and strengthened with additional capital of approximately $500,000 to $2,000,000, we invite confidential inquiries from principals without obligation or cost.

12.1 Per Cent Rail Freight Rise Predicted

Shippers estimate that they will require a total of 5,123,227 freight cars to handle their business in the first quarter of 1940, the 13 shippers' advisory boards reported yesterday. This is an increase of 12.1 per cent over the 4,570,472 actually loaded in the first quarter of 1939.

The gain for the area served by the midwest shippers' advisory board, in which Chicago is located, is estimated at 12.9 per cent. In only one area—that served by the southwest board—is a decline predicted and that decline is only 0.2 per cent.

Gains in All Commodities.

The shippers predicted that there will be increases in all the 29 commodities which are used in forming their estimates. Among those showing the largest increases are:

Cotton, 73.8 per cent; iron and steel, 45.3; ore and concentrates, 40.8; machinery and boilers, 24.8; agricultural implements and vehicles, other

ROARING STEEL MILLS PACE '39 INDUSTRIAL RISE

Promise to Retain Lead This Year.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Steel set the pace for the big 1939 recovery. As 1940 opens it promises to hold its place far out in front of the industrial procession. All business and industry looks to steel—the nation's No. 1 heavy industry—for signs of what's ahead.

When ore and scrap are pouring into huge blast furnaces and giant machines roar in the steel mills, it means business generally is good. That is the situation as 1939 takes its place in history.

Floods of orders to the steel companies late in the summer touched off one of the sharpest business and industrial upturns in history. Mills were swamped, even tho they operated at virtually full capacity.

Quarter's Operations to Be High.

Backlogs of orders remain sufficiently large to keep the mills going at a high rate thru the first quarter of this year.

Altho business had been showing improvement early in the summer, it surged forward when the war sent steel users rushing to the mills with orders. Consumers were fearful the war might interfere with deliveries and that prices might rise. Since many consumers had been operating on a hand to mouth basis for years, their inventories were low.

Auguring well for the immediate future of their business, steel men assert the orders they are now receiving are highly diversified, with many types of industries buying instead of just a few. Also favorable is the fact that few purchasers appear to be building up excessive inventories which would have to be reduced later.

Good News for Stockholders.

For the army of steel corporation stockholders all the news is good news now. It is estimated that the industry as a whole had profits of $51,416,398 for the first nine months of 1939, whereas in the corresponding 1938 period there was an aggregate loss of $21,769,600. Profits in the last quarter of 1939 are expected to exceed $30,000,000.

The moderate upturn in steel production early in 1939 was caused principally by unexpectedly large purchases of rails, freight cars, and other railway equipment.

When 1939 opened the steel mills were running at about 52 per cent of theoretical capacity. This, however

Plan Direct Air Service to New England

Steps toward creating the first direct link by air between Chicago and New England were announced yesterday by W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, the leading air system of the country maintaining headquarters in Chicago.

The company's application to the Civil Aeronautics authority at Washington, D. C., for permission to operate the direct service was hailed by Chicago aviation leaders as strong support for the city's position as the aviation hub of the United States.

Asks Permit for Service.

Patterson disclosed United Air Lines has filed formal application with the government agency for authority to fly passengers, mail, and express between Boston, Mass., Hartford, Conn., and Cleveland, O., and from the latter point direct to Chicago.

United's initial service would provide two transcontinental flights daily from Boston on a direct east and west route plus a third schedule to Cleveland and Chicago, which is the air hub from which radiate eight lines to many cities east and west.

At present, passengers traveling by air between Chicago and Boston are routed thru New York City, since there is no direct Chicago-New England air service. United's plan would cut the Chicago-Boston trip by air to 5 hours and 10 minutes, and reduce the flight to 902 miles.

Boston Lacks Chicago Route.

Boston is the only important eastern seaboard city now without direct air service to Chicago. Travelers from New England who now transfer at New York have a choice of air lines for continuance of their flights westward.

Some of these flights are routed south of Chicago en route to the west coast. United would bring passengers thru this city.

United's plan for direct Chicago to Boston service is expected to strengthen the city's position in pushing for direct flights to connect with trans-Atlantic planes on the eastern seaboard.

RISE PREDICTED BY LEADERS IN ADMINISTRATION

New Deal May Try Compromise Tactics

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Business generally can expect to fare better in 1940 than it did last year, but it will be affected by two unusual influences—the national elections and the wars of Europe, administrative officials and other observers predicted today. These opinions were culled thru a series of interviews with top officials in the treasury, federal reserve system, Securities and Exchange commission, banking agencies, department of agriculture, and others.

They agreed that the first year of this new decade will be a "political year" and that congress will have one eye on the ballot box during the new session of congress which convenes Wednesday. The entire house and one-third of the senate must confront the voters in the fall elections. The administration might be expected to be more compromising than previously, it was said.

Business May Get "Breaks."

Business will be given the "breaks" in so far as they will contribute to recovery and make the public think that times are better, observers said. Government economists predict that there will not be as great an improvement in business in the first quarter as in the latter half of 1939 and that there probably

PROGRESS OF AIR TRANSPORT LINES BEST ON RECORD

Safety Increases, Profits Higher in 1939.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The air transportation industry in 1939 made the most remarkable advances in its 12 year history.

For the first time every operator of the 19 foreign and domestic lines has an opportunity to make a profit. All but one of the smaller lines are practically assured of making a small profit.

The industry continued the trend of 1938 by carrying more passengers, mail, and express each month during the year than at any time during similar periods in the past.

Winter Lull Fails to Develop.

And for the first time air travel has been unaffected—up to the present, at least—by the arrival of the winter season. Operators thruout the United States are maintaining schedules at summer frequencies.

The future of the industry appears even brighter than at the beginning of 1939. The safety record of flying nearly 600,000,000 passenger miles without injury to a single person still is being extended.

The year 1940 also will usher into service on the nation's domestic lines a new and ever safer type of airliner —the four-motored substratosphere ship. Transcontinental and Western Air—the line that got the jump on the industry by ordering the first DC-2s—will begin flying five Boeing 307 Stratoliners within the next five months.

United Orders DC-4s.

Meanwhile United Air Lines has ordered 10 Douglas "production type" DC-4 airliners for delivery in 1941. United's order probably will be followed soon by similar purchases by American Airlines, Eastern Airlines, and possibly the Royal Dutch Airlines, K. L. M.

Estimates of profits earned by the airlines are subject to year-end adjustments for insurance, depreciation, etc. Nevertheless it is safe to predict that American Airlines will lead the list of profit makers with earnings of about $1,000,000.

Eastern Airlines probably will be second with earnings of about $750,000.

United will be No. 3 of the "big four," with probable earnings of about $350,000. Despite this relatively poor showing, United is in a strong position. W. A. Patterson, president of United, has arranged the purchase of Western Air Express at a cost of about $700,000, and this deal is now being reviewed by the Civil Aeronautics authority.

T. W. A. Sets Record.

T. W. A. probably will have a struggle to break even, despite the fact that the company carried nearly 150,000 passengers during the year. Paul E. Richter, executive vice president, said the line flew nearly 100,000,000 passenger miles, an all time record for the company, during 1939.

T. W. A.'s position in 1940, in addition to being strengthened by the use of strato liners, may also be aided by a proposal now before the CAA for the purchase of Marquette Air Lines.

Of the smaller air lines the majority also flourished. Northwest Airlines, Braniff Airways, Chicago & Southern Airlines, and Pennsylvania Central Airlines all brought their equipment up to the standards of the big four during the year by buying DC-3 air liners.

INDUSTRIAL GAINS TRACED IN RISING INDEX NUMBERS

American business trends in 1939, as recorded by indices of industrial activity, departed from the customary seasonal pattern.

A failure to expand in the spring months, a rapid upturn in the usually slack period of late July and August, and a faster than normal September-November climb to the highest levels in a decade—all these variations in business marked 1939 as a nonconformist year.

The upward sweep of the business chart curve in the last three weeks of September and the first week of October was one seldom exceeded in steepness.

The Associated Press industrial index, which covers automobile production, steel mill activity, cotton textile manufacturing, electric power production, residential building and railroad freight loadings for each week and is adjusted for seasonal variations, provides a typical illustration of the year's trends. It is based on the 1929-'30 average as 100.

INSURANCE FIRMS READY TO RESIST FEDERAL INROAD

Wagner Annuity Scheme Viewed as Threat.

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

The insurance industry begins 1940 prepared to resist attempts to subject it to federal control or competition. Several developments last year served to put the industry on guard.

W. T. Grant tells of declining investment yield.

Raising the threat of government regulation and competition were [1] a proposal by Senator Robert F. Wagner that the post-office sell annuities providing benefits of not more than $100 a month at a cost 30 per cent below that of private companies; [2] the investigation of insurance firms by the congressional monopoly committee, and [3] the interest of the committee in a scheme to sell $250 burial policies thru a government agency.

Scheme Viewed as a Threat.

Altho there has been no legislation to place the insurance business under federal control or to put the government in the insurance business, the various spokesmen for the industry have said that the threat is implied in the Wagner annuity scheme and the monopoly investigation into industrial insurance costs.

Insurance men have contended that the federal government cannot provide insurance protection at costs lower than already provided by private companies. They assert that the hidden costs of government policies would be paid by taxpayers.

The protest against federal supervision came also from the National Association of Insurance Commissioners, representing heads of state insurance departments. Spokesmen for this group denounced efforts to supplant state supervision by centralized federal control.

Money Policy Criticized.

The administration's easy money policy was described as a more subtle form of federal competition. Insurance men have been among the severest critics of the government policy of keeping interest rates low. W. T. Grant, president of the American Life convention, estimated that the declining investment yield on savings caused a loss of more than 400 million dollars a year to 65 million policyholders.

If there were adverse effects from the government antitrust investigation of insurance companies in 1939, the records of the industry for the year do not reveal them. Americans at the end of last year held the largest amount of life insurance in history—$113,800,000,000—according to an estimate by the Association of Life Insurance Presidents. This compared with $111,055,000,000 in outstanding policies at the end of 1938.

Total life insurance written in 1939 increased to $12,600,000,000 from $12,289,000,000 in 1938, it was estimated.

Cut Commercial Vehicle Insurance Rate in New York

New York, Jan. 1 [Special].—Reductions of rates on bodily injury and property damage insurance for owners of commercial vehicles in most sections in New York state were announced today by Louis H. Pink, state insurance superintendent. He said the cuts will total $1,025,000 in 1940. They average about 9 per cent.

LEVINGER TO MANAGE WESTERN ELECTRIC'S HAWTHORNE WORKS

David Levinger will become manager of the Western Electric company's big Hawthorne works on Jan. 10, it was announced yesterday. He began his service with the company on March 21, 1910, and has been assistant manager of the telephone manufacturing works since last March.

David Levinger.

Levinger, who has been a director of the company since 1931, will fill a vacancy left by the retirement of Charles Leslie Rice as vice president and Hawthorne works manager.

During the next several days Rice will be the guest at several luncheons and dinners being given by the Union League club and by employé and supervisory groups of the company which he has served for 38 years. Rice is a former president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and has been active in many civic undertakings.

FEDERAL SAVING LOAN GETS MORE PRIVATE CAPITAL

Increase Is More than 50 Pct. in 11 Months.

Private capital invested in federal savings and loan associations in Chicago and Cook county increased more than 50 per cent in the 11 months ended Nov. 30, the Savings and Loan Council of Illinois reported yesterday. Abel De Haan, president of the council, issued the report.

Cook county has 50 of these privately organized mutual associations. De Haan said at the end of November the amount of funds invested in the institutions by persons who are members had risen to $34,895,305, from $22,009,907 11 months earlier.

Use Mostly Private Capital.

These funds—called private share capital—constitute most of the association's capital, but some additional capital is derived from investments on the same basis by the Home Owners Loan corporation and the federal treasury. The associations also are empowered to borrow money from the home loan bank system to lend on mortgages.

Most of the associations' funds are invested in home mortgages, but a small percentage may, under the law, be invested in mortgages on certain types of commercial property. In lending on home mortgages to enable individuals to buy, build or repair homes, the associations invest in a field which is considered unadapted to the needs of banks.

Members May Withdraw Funds.

The associations permit their members to withdraw investments in cash, but reserve the right to require advance notice, if directors consider such notice advisable.

Investing members receive dividends twice a year equivalent in most cases to an annual return of 3 to 4 per cent.

REALTY MARKET TERMED BEST IN SEVERAL YEARS

Review of '39 Shows Gain in Buying, Building.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicago's 1939 real estate market was the best in several years, with a slow but substantial improvement made in nearly every branch of the business.

More building, increased investment buying, firmer rental conditions, higher occupancy in apartment and office space, fewer foreclosures, and more general optimism among brokers developed during the year. All these comprise a foundation for a still better realty market during 1940, brokers declare.

Home building, in both multiple unit structures and in single family residences, was probably the most conspicuous and active development of the year.

Suburbs Lead Home Building.

Most of the construction of homes has been in the suburbs, which easily outdistanced Chicago in that type of building. Real estate men say residential building is going on outside the Chicago limits on a scale which the average Chicagoan does not realize.

In a few of the outlying neighborhoods of Chicago there also has been lively home building. This is noticeable especially in Beverly Hills, Sauganash and Edgebrook.

After several years of almost complete inactivity, construction is under way on several big privately financed apartment projects. The largest of these is the three and a half million dollar Chatham Park development at Cottage Grove and 83d street, where work is being rushed at a rate never before seen in a federal housing project.

$850,000 Building Completed.

The $1,500,000 Marine Drive apartments on the north side are practically completed and partly occupied. The $850,000 Wolcott apartments, on Wolcott between Ainslie and Argyle, were completed during the year.

Ground was recently broken for another big multiple unit project, the $745,000 River Forest Garden apartments. Another large suburban apartment project, the Isabella, in Evanston, with a reported investment of $600,000, was completed.

Labor troubles bogged down work for some time on the Chicago Housing authority federal housing project for colored families on the south side. Construction is now reported to be at normal with completion set for late in 1940.

AMERICAN COMPANIES' DIVIDENDS IN 11 MOS. SET AT 2.9 BILLIONS

Directors of American corporations declared a total of $2,969,794,000 in dividends in the period from Jan. 1 to Dec. 1, 1939, according to the New York Journal of Commerce. It said that in the corresponding 1938 period dividends of $2,718,959,000 were ordered.

In the full year 1938 American investors received a total of $2,807,205,000 in dividend payments. Altho the December, 1939, total was unavailable, observers marked it as a record month for the year because of large extra and year-end payments.

Dividends paid by major Canadian corporations, however, did not equal the record total of 1938. A total of $282,774,237 was paid Canadian shareholders in 1939, according to Hugh Mackay & Co., Montreal brokerage firm, against $313,108,335 in 1938.

Keeping Production Costs Down
CHEMICALS FERTILIZERS
For more than a generation, International chemists and technicians have worked untiringly to provide better materials—better processes—better methods—for use in agriculture in industry and in the home.
They search unremittingly for new methods of lowering the cost of producing things to eat—things to wear—things to use. And they measure the results of their efforts in terms of lower costs for the producer and reduced prices for the user.
Now, more than ever before, these improved materials and better services are vitally important to economies in farm production, in factory operation and in home management. Through its twenty-six fertilizer and chemical plants and sixteen divisional sales offices in the principal agricultural and manufacturing districts east of the Mississippi River, International serves an increasingly large number of customers on the farm, in the factory and in the home.

RAILS EXPECT FURTHER GAIN; PREPARE FOR IT

Declare More Traffic Would Be Big Aid.

Railroads begin 1940 with the prospect that the year will bring further improvement in their finances, physical properties, and services. Freight tonnage in the first quarter is expected to exceed that of the first three months of 1939. Carriers are purchasing new equipment and rehabilitating their properties to handle the prospective increases in traffic.

Rail executives declare that more traffic will solve their more pressing problems. The upturn in traffic that started last summer resulted in a heavy freight movement thru most of the autumn. Altho there was a seasonal decline in December, the number of cars handled in the first quarter of this year is expected to run substantially ahead of last year.

Volume Fell in December.

It is estimated that when the railroads as a whole are handling about 750,000 freight cars a week they are making a small profit. The autumn freight rush reached a peak of 861,000 cars—a nine year top—in October, but thru December the volume again fell below 700,000.

Railroad equipment manufacturers begin 1940 with substantial orders for equipment on their books. Production of 500 light weight freight cars is under way at the Michigan City plant of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company for the Pere Marquette, Nickle Plate, and Wheeling and Lake Erie railroads. The use of lighter weight freight cars is one of the ways by which the railroads hope to get on a more profitable basis. The light weight cars permit the roads to haul greater pay loads with less motive power than is required for standard equipment.

Big Annual Savings.

The new cars make possible a weight saving of 4½ tons per car. It is estimated that the per year cost of hauling one ton is $18. With the installation of 35,000 new freight cars annually to replace old equipment, which it is estimated the roads should do, the annual savings by use of this number of lighter weight cars would be $2,835,000.

One of the largest passenger car orders on the books for delivery during 1940 is that of the Pullman company. Pullman is having built in the Chicago shops of Pullman-Standard 100 light weight streamlined cars of which 50 will be assigned for use on the New York Central and 50 for use on the Pennsylvania. Delivery is to be from May to July.

W. M. Jeffers, president of the Union Pacific railroad, describes what the trains of tomorrow will be.

Trains of Tomorrow.

"Passenger trains of tomorrow will show additional advancement in air conditioning, further development in light conditioning, more improvement in riding qualities, greater reduction in train noises, and the application of new refinements in appointments and comfort facilities," he says.

"Freight trains of tomorrow will incorporate new discoveries in design and materials, will have better riding qualities resulting in greater protection of commodities being transported, will operate at higher average speeds with heavier pay loads over improved track structures."

Figures for 1939.

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, gives some preliminary statistics on 1939 operations. It is expected the roads will show aggregate net income—after provision for bond interest and fixed charges—of $95,000,000, compared with a net deficit of $123,471,074 in 1938.

The roads purchased some 51,000 new freight cars in 1939. During the year they placed in service 94 new steam locomotives and 216 Diesel and Diesel-electric locomotives.

Gross revenues totaled about $4,020,000,000, an increase of 12.7 per cent over 1938. Operating expenses approximated $2,929,000,000, an increase of 7.4 per cent. Freight car loadings totaled about 34,100,000 cars.

Streamliners Boost Business

Railroads have taken long strides toward winning patronage back to the rails by offering increased speed and comfort. Here is one of the latest of many streamliners—the Chicago and North Western's "400," which went into service last September between Chicago and Minneapolis-St. Paul, pulling out of Chicago. The "400" is a Chicago product. Its coaches were manufactured by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company and its Diesel-electric locomotive by the Electro-Motive corporation.

1940 SHOWDOWN IS FORECAST FOR TRACTION TANGLE

BY LAURENCE BURD.

Chicago's 13 year traction tangle will be brought to a showdown in 1940, in the opinion of transit experts. According to their predictions, either the pending plans for unifying the surface lines and the elevated lines will be carried out or the whole idea of a merger will be abandoned and the lines will be reorganized separately. Both systems are in reorganization proceedings in the federal court.

A plan for merging the two systems, including a proposed distribution of securities in a new unified company, was accepted early in 1939 by all securities holders groups of the present companies. But the merger plan is dependent upon one further step—the obtaining by representatives of the proposed company of a franchise from the city. Franchise negotiations between the lines and the city began last May, but the two groups are still in disagreement.

What Plan Provides.

Merger plans call for a franchise grant to one system, consisting of the surface and elevated lines, which subsequently would acquire outright the bus company—thus putting all Chicago transit facilities under one management.

It is proposed that the unified company also operate the 8 mile subway system now being built by the city and that it spend $100,000,000 for modernizing and extending the transit lines. On these provisions the city and the companies are agreed.

Two main obstacles appear, however, to stand in the way of a settlement. The first is disagreement on rates of fare to be charged by the new company, and the second is how enough cash will be raised to finance the proposed plan.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson has emphasized that unless the lines can obtain a unified franchise from the city within a few weeks he will order separate reorganizations of the two systems. The street car lines have been in receivership since 1926 and the elevated went into bankruptcy proceedings in 1932.

City Demands 7 Cent Fare.

The city has insisted thruout eight months of negotiations that the new company should start business with a 7 cent street car fare—the present rate—and has suggested that the company be bound by the franchise to keep this rate for three years. The lines contend that they need an 8 cent fare to support the new system and that they have a right to petition to the local transit [rate making] commission for the increase at any time.

To carry out the $100,000,000 improvement program the only funds immediately available are $30,000,000 in cash held by the surface lines. Tentative plans call for borrowing about $48,000,000 for new cars and buses, pledging the equipment as security under the equipment trust plan. The remaining cash needed, amounting to about $20,000,000, is still unaccounted for.

CHICAGO UPTURN IN 1939 IS ONE OF BEST ON RECORD

Chicago experienced one of the sharpest business upturns in its history during the first 11 months of 1939, according to a survey issued yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The gains extended to all but three of the city's key lines of business—real estate transactions, street car passenger traffic, and live stock processing. In each of these, however, advances were shown in the closing months of the year.

Backed by a campaign chest of nearly $500,000 and with additional directing personnel, the association enters 1940 determined to hold the gains recorded last year and to add new accomplishments, officials said. Added stimulus will be given to fulfilment of the Greater Chicago plan of the association. New industries, increased pay rolls, expanded domestic and foreign trade, and a heavy convention schedule are among the association's goals for the new year.

Propose Civic Festival.

Establishment of a civic festival or sports event similar to the New Orleans Mardi Gras or the Pasadena tournament of roses is one of the major points in the plan.

One of the most significant advances cited by the association in its 11 month survey consisted of a jump of 67 million dollars in new building contracts awarded in Cook county, compared with the corresponding period of the preceding year. Building permits increased 22 million dollars at the same time.

Between Jan. 1 and Dec. 1 freight loadings were up more than 300,000 cars from the corresponding 1938 level. The total of 1,874,866 compared with 1,542,630 in the first 11 months of 1938. Postal receipts rose $2,993,255 to $51,844,404. Pig iron production in the Chicago steel mill area increased by 2,210,000 tons.

Store Sales Increase.

Department store sales and factory pay rolls showed an 11 month average well ahead of 1938. The association's department store sales index climbed to 80.0 at the end of November, compared with 77.5 as of Nov. 30, 1938.

Bank clearings were $808,217,341 higher. Registration of new automobiles showed a gain of 29,069.

Real estate transactions showed the only pronounced backward step. While the number of sales increased by 629, values involved dropped more than 23 million dollars.

1940 WHEAT CROP MAY FALL SHORT OF NORMAL NEED

War, Drouth Send Prices Up Late in 1939.

The total United States wheat crop this year may be only 600,000,000 bushels, about 100,000,000 bushels less than normal requirements, grain men estimated as they turned the 1939 grain trade over to statisticians and historians.

Cash wheat prices at Chicago, meanwhile, had almost doubled the low levels of 1939 and were hovering around $1.12 per bushel. In midyear cash wheat could be purchased for 59 cents a bushel. Other grains also swept upward in the latter half of the year, and December prices in many cases were the highest in two years.

Wheat Gains 30¾ to 35 Cents.

Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade at the end of the year were 30¾ to 35 cents higher than a year ago. The May future finished at $1.04¼, the highest yearly close since 1936.

Corn futures were 4¾ to 5¾ cents higher; oats gained 4½ to 9¾ cents, and rye was 24¼ to 28¾ cents higher.

Soy beans were 35¼ to 37¾ cents higher than a year ago, despite a record breaking crop.

Two big factors lay behind the startling advance in grain values—the drouth and the war. Autumn in the great plains states, where the largest part of the nation's wheat is grown, brought the severest fall drouth in history.

Much of Wheat Destroyed.

The drouth destroyed much of the wheat which was planted for the 1940 harvest, causing winter wheat crop estimates to sink almost to record low points. In addition, the drouth menaces the spring crop, which will need moisture when it is planted. Rain has fallen at scattered points, but a large moisture deficiency remains.

The opening of hostilities in Europe sent grains soaring in September, and futures prices were restrained only by daily fluctuation limits. However, the war influence waned as it became apparent that European nations would not immediately require large supplies of American grain. Moderate purchases late in the year aided the December price advance but crop news remained the prime market factor.

The current wheat price in the United States, for example is considered to be far above a parity with prices asked by Canada and Argentina, two other big exporters.

World Supply May Dwindle.

There was some fear that higher American prices might bring in a flood of Canadian wheat, on which the premium had narrowed considerably. But grain men were more interested in Argentina, where a crop only half as large as last year's seemed to indicate the record world supplies of wheat would be scaled down during coming months.

An export subsidy ranging as high as 35 cents a bushel was withdrawn by the department of agriculture late in the season following development of the drouth in the west.

Farmers pledged more than 165,000,000 bushels of wheat harvested last fall for government loans at about 61 cents a bushel, and it is estimated 250,000,000 bushels of corn will be sealed in cribs as security for loans at 57 cents a bushel. In the case of the latter grain the figure compares with 257,000,000 bushels of corn sealed in the preceding year, of which more than 100,000,000 bushels were believed to have been turned over to the government when farmers defaulted. The rest was resealed.

Per Acre Yield Sets Record.

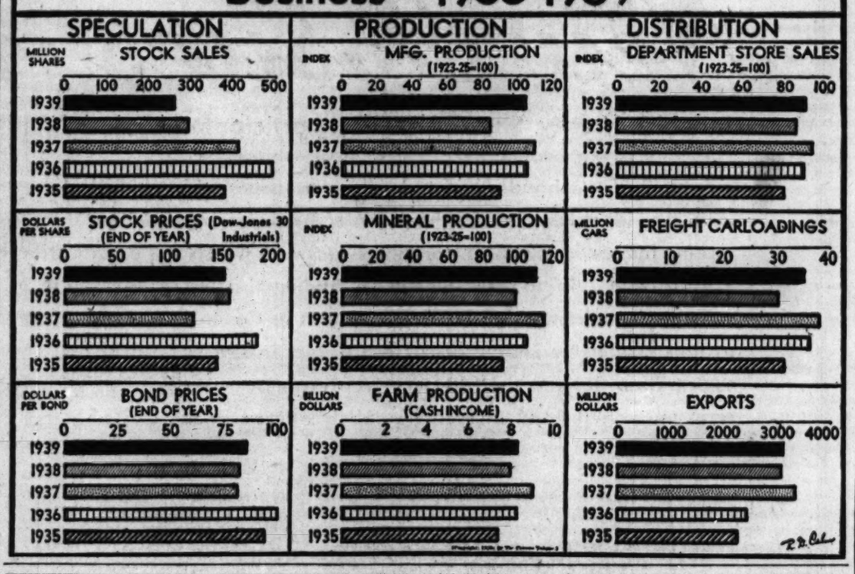
Curtailment of the acreage planted to corn has not resulted in any marked decline in production, official estimates on the 1939 harvest indicated. The yield per acre, offsetting smaller plantings, was at a new all-time high mark in the five leading commercial corn states, and ranged as high as 52 bushels. Extensive use of hybrid corn accounted for the big yields, experts said.

At no time last year did cash corn in the open market rise to a price equivalent to the government loan level of 57 cents a bushel on the farm, altho a top of 71 cents a bushel for white corn was recorded on the Chicago Board of Trade. The low for cash corn at Chicago was 40 cents in 1939.

The first half of the year probably established a record for slack trading activity in the Chicago market, center of the world's grain trade.

A slight spurt on a "crop scare" in May advanced prices somewhat, but they quickly sank to lower levels than before. After the boom in September, two months of quiet trading were recorded. Then again, in December, prices moved upward sharply on crop and war news.

A Statistical Summary of the Nation's Business—1935-1939



War Dominates Commodities Late in Year; Prices Pushed Up

BY MORRIS GREEN.

One major influence—the war—dominated commodity markets during 1939 and boosted prices an average of 20 per cent. The war still rules the markets. And, depending on the direction of the war in 1940, commodity traders have ventured to predict the movement of prices this year.

If the war ends suddenly, say the traders, prices probably will go down, and if it goes on, draining the supplies of belligerent nations and forcing them to turn to America for raw materials and finished products, prices may go up. Other factors might change the course of the markets, they add quickly, knowing that any such prediction is a gamble.

History Provides Clews.

Commodity prices have soared to abnormal heights during every long war period in United States history, and in no case have attained comparable levels during peacetime. In the world war it took a year, or until 1915, for many staples to begin the upward move. When it came, however, it was abrupt, and carried prices to a level not reached since the revolutionary war.

Using prices in 1910-1914 as 100, the Commodity Research bureau found the average commodity price at the peak of the world war boom was above 220. Prices topped 180 in the war of 1812, and nearly reached 190 in the civil war. The highest peacetime level was about 145 in the last decade of the 18th century.

There were few important developments in the commodity markets in the early part of 1939.

Prices Spurt in September.

With September came the war, and the major part of the 20 per cent increase in prices took place during the first few days of that month. On a single day, Sept. 5, when the markets reopened after Labor day to find the German-Polish conflict spreading to include Britain and France, prices might have made a more sensational rise than actually occurred had not trading rules restricted daily market fluctuations.

Copper, sugar, cottonseed oil, silk, cocoa, and rubber futures all soared the permissible limits immediately and could not be purchased at all. Cash prices climbed two and three times as much as futures, and some cash commodities were not for sale at any price. Traders termed the markets the wildest ever seen, altho in some markets there actually was very little trading because no one was willing to sell.

In the days immediately following, many staples continued to hit the roof. Then gradually those commodities not directly affected by the war dropped out of the advance. Sugar crashed almost as spectacularly on Sept. 12, after President Roosevelt lifted the marketing quotas, as it had spurted during the preceding week. Lifting of the quotas permitted the dealers to sell about 500,000 tons of stored refined sugar to grocers whose shelves were swept bare by panicky housewives fearing world war prices.

After a few weeks, when the markets had adjusted themselves to the war, prices of commodities weakened slightly and sank below the peaks reached on the boom. A record business had been done by many producers and sellers of cash commodities, however.

Comparative Figures.

The following table compares the prices of several major commodities at the end of 1938, just before the war began last Sept. 1, at the peak of the war boom movement, and at the end of 1939:

	Cash price on— Dec. 31, 1938.	Aug. 31, 1939.	*War boom peak.	Dec. 29, 1939.

*Date varies for different commodities. All prices are New York, except lead and zinc at East St. Louis.

As the table indicates, the decline which set in during late September and lasted until December did not reduce prices anywhere near the lows of the first half of the year. In mid-spring quotations on several commodities had even neared the depression low points of 1932 and 1933.

During the first half of December, another buying wave pushed prices upward again. It was less spectacular, but more consistent, than the September buying. Silk climbed across the $4 per pound mark without looking back and more than doubled its 1939 low by reaching a new nine year peak. Most staples, however, failed to reach again their September highs.

Cuban Agreement Made.

In mid-December the upward movement again was halted. Sugar markets, for three months blown by conflicting winds from Washington, responded with a yawn to the announcement of a Cuban agreement restoring marketing quotas. Traders had desired restoration of the quotas to avoid a flood of imports.

The sole exception to the 1939 advance among important commodities was coffee. Here, too, the war was the primary reason—for warring nations buy coffee sparingly and conserve foreign exchange credit for essential war needs such as copper and oil.

The following table gives the 1939 closing prices and the 1939, 1938, and 10 year ranges of principal commodities:

represented a substantial gain over the low rate at which they were operated during much of 1938.

Operating Rates Tabulated.

The approximate operating rates in percentages of capacity during the first week of each month of 1939 follow:

Jan.	52.5	*July	40
Feb.	53.5	Aug.	60
March	55.5	*Sept.	59
April	54.5	Oct.	87.5
May	49	Nov.	93
June	52	Dec.	94

Altho the war caused the sharp autumn gain in operations, steel company executives declare that little of their business is going to fill war needs. However, some business is created by orders for airplanes and engines and tool machines which are being purchased by the empires in quantity.

Steel company executives believe the war gives them an opportunity to get a foothold in Latin American markets formerly dominated by the European nations.

Prices Altered but Little.

Altho labor costs and raw material prices have risen, the industry announced late in 1939 that it would make but few changes in prices for delivery during the first quarter of 1940. A few increases were made. Steel scrap, one of the principal raw materials, sold as high as $24 a ton.

Steel ingot production in 1939 is placed at 46,800,000 tons compared with an early estimate of 40,000,000 tons. The average number of persons now employed in the industry is 545,000 compared with 482,000 in 1929.

As one of the world's largest steel making centers the Chicago area has felt the effect of the industry's expansion in all lines of trade.

Many Firms in This Area.

Steel companies carrying on extensive operations in the Chicago area include Carnegie-Illinois [United States Steel subsidiary]; Inland Steel; Youngstown Sheet & Tube; Republic Steel and Wisconsin Steel [controled by International Harvester].

The Gary and South works of Carnegie-Illinois are the largest steel mills in the country. In normal times about 53,000 persons are employed in Chicago area mills.

LIVE STOCK RECEIPTS

Altho the number of animals slaughtered over the entire country in 1939 was the largest in five years, the volume handled in the Chicago stockyards was smaller than in 1938 and second smallest since 1884. The following table shows the comparative receipts and shipments for 1938 and 1939:

STOCK RAISERS, MEAT PACKERS GAIN CONFIDENCE

Position Termed Soundest in Recent Years.

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

The deflation of meat and live stock prices that started late in 1937 and continued thru all of 1938, as a result of consumer resistance to high prices, was less pronounced in 1939. Prices held, however, to a level that kept meat moving freely into retail channnels as meat production increased.

Most leaders in the trade agree that the live stock raising and meat packing industries as a whole are entering the new year in the soundest position in recent years, as a result of the readjustment of prices and increased production.

The largest meat output for any recent year is expected in 1940. Nearly all packers reported profits on their 1939 operations, as against losses in the preceding year when large inventories were moved out of cold storage on breaking markets.

Feed Supply Ample.

Farmers are supplied with sufficient feed to fatten up the large number of animals they are carrying into 1940. This is said to assure packers of a large supply from farms. This heavier production will keep the per unit labor cost low for farmers and packers alike. It is said packers may face a problem in finding an outlet for this great meat tonnage at a price level that will return farmers a profit, especially in the case of pork and lard, but the task of moving the supply is expected to be made easier by broad domestic demand, war orders and high quality of meats.

Leaders in the industry predict that the country will consume possibly 10 per cent more meat this year than in 1939, when the per-capita consumption was the second highest since 1929. The greatest increase is expected to be in pork and lard, which showed the greatest gain in 1939. Meat experts say meat will continue to sell within the reach of the average family budget.

Prices Below 1937 Level.

Production of live stock and meats has climbed steadily since 1937, while prices as a whole have declined. Present estimates are that prices in 1940 will be little different than in 1939, averaging possibly a bit lower than last year during the next six months, but higher in the last half of 1940.

It was estimated that more than 67 million hogs were butchered last year, the largest total since 1934. This was an increase of over 8 million head, or 14 per cent compared with 1938.

Government corn loans are recognized as a possible check on pork and lard production. Students of the packing business say that the record breaking upswing in hog raising may find the agricultural adjustment administration program a stumbling block, particularly at times when farmers find hogs returning less for the grain than they can get from the government, which was the case late in the year. The control of pork puroduction is believed to be the ultimate goal of the AAA in advancing loans on corn.

Live Costs Compared.

Packers paid more in 1939 than in 1938 for cattle and lambs, and less for hogs. The 1939 steer price at $9.80 was up 3 per cent. Hogs averaged $6.60, off 19 per cent, while lambs at $9.25 were up 9 per cent.

With the exception of hogs, all meat animals at the beginning of the new year are making substantial profits for farmers. Hog raising is on the line between profit and loss, returning about the market price for the grain used as feed.

Hog raisers say they are now doing little better than changing dollar for dollar by feeding the grain to hogs instead of selling it or sealing it on government loans.

LIVE STOCK PRICES

Fluctuation of prices for most cattle and lambs in 1939 were smaller than during 1938. Hogs showed a wider price range.

The following table gives range of prices paid for various meat animals and the months in which the high and low prices were reached for the last two years:

1939.	Low	mo.	High	mo.
Hogs	Aug.	$3.80	to $9.40	Sept.

Beef steers, Jan.-Feb.		5.75	to 13.65	Dec.

ELECTIONS, WAR TO SHAPE TRADE TRENDS FOR 1940

New Deal Is Expected to Woo Business.

will be a turndown of moderate proportions from recent high levels.

This will be due to an accumulation of inventories, they said, but by the end of the quarter a rise is expected to begin, continuing thru the year. In no event is the federal reserve index on industrial production expected to go below 115 or 120 per cent, they say. The latest estimate for November showed it at 124 per cent of the 1923-'25 average.

The trend shown in spring elections may have a decided effect, depending on whether the direction is to the right or the left. A cessation of hostilities in Europe might bring a temporary halt to the business uptrend, altho war orders have not been very heavy, it was said.

More War Orders Possible.

On the other hand, any determined drive in the spring by either Germany or the empires might cause sufficient loss of man power to make them more reliant upon American supplies.

Because it is a political year, even treasury officials are doubtful about getting increased taxes. The best available opinion is that there will be much talk about taxes but not much done. Nor can much economy in government be expected despite the advance talk of drastic slashing in departmental appropriations under the 1941 budget.

The administration is expected to seek an increase in the debt limit above the 45 billion dollar limit set by law. No specific amount is expected to be recommended. The administration could dangle the following alternatives before congress: [1] new and larger taxes; [2] use of the 1 billion 200 million dollars of gold in the stabilization fund; [3] monetize silver holdings, and [4] reduce the general fund balance, which now amounts to about 1 billion 800 million.

May Continue Debt Policy.

The treasury also can be expected to continue its policy of evading the public debt limitation by having government agencies issue their own obligations. Such contingent liabilities of the treasury now amount to more than 5 billion dollars in addition to the direct public debt of close to 42 billions.

The administration could get along without raising the debt limit by using those extraordinary measures. As previously indicated, the budget will remain unbalanced. More emphasis is expected to be placed on national defense expenditures and less on relief, public works, etc., altho national defense money could be used for many purposes. There has been an inkling that President Roosevelt may offer a separate budget for national defense, just as he has contended that public works had no place in the regular budget. This would serve to split the spending ledger and make it appear less.

View on Sales Taxes.

Some treasury officials say that sales taxes are the only good source of revenue that remain, but they are a consumer tax, which is likely to meet strong opposition. The department of agriculture will try hard to enact its certificate plan for financing parity payments. This would force processors to give farmers parity payments and pass the burden to consumers. Most observers are doubtful that it can be enacted. Secretary Wallace also wishes to push soil conservation. Rising farm prices may obviate the need of parity payments. Also the short winter wheat crop may force the administration to lift restrictions on spring planting.

Some relief from labor legislation appears certain. Widespread opposition to the operations of the National Labor Relations board, it is believed, will force either a board shakeup or amendment of the act.

Treaties to Get Lashing.

The administration's reciprocal trade treaties will be subjected to a lashing, as congress must consider extension of the President's authority to negotiate such treaties. This authority expires on June 12. But extension of the act is expected, altho not in its present form. At least senate approval of each treaty will be required, it is believed.

The Securities and Exchange commission will have only one major legislative request, according to present plans. That will consist of recommendations early in the session for regulation of investment trusts and investing companies.

GRAIN FUTURES TRADING IN 1939 AT 20 YEAR LOW

Half of 1937 Volume; but Soy Beans Set Peak.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain future transactions on the Chicago Board of Trade in 1939 were the smallest in more than 20 years. They totaled about half a billion bushels less than in 1938, and were only half of the volume recorded in 1937.

The total of trades during the year was slightly more than 7 billion bushels, and 15 per cent of this business was done in December. The 1938 total had been the previous low mark.

Soy Beans Trade Sets Record.

Despite last year's small total volume, a record amount of soy bean future trades was handled. The board reported transactions of 79,938,000 bushels. A total of 23,478,000 bushels of bean futures was sold in 1938 and 27,318,000 bushels in 1937. Trading in the beans started in October, 1936.

Active trading in futures in 1940 is predicted by board members. They base the forecast on the war in Europe and the prospect of a short domestic wheat crop this summer. The crop is expected to be below normal domestic needs.

Comparative Figures.

Sales of grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade for the last 10 years, as reported by the Commodity Exchange administration, follow [last six ciphers omitted]:

There Is No Substitute for INSURANCE

Since the very early days of Chicago, insurance as an institution has been a factor in the city's development. It is well to remember that this wonderful growth would not have been possible without its aid. Man builds solidly by indemnifying himself against the ravaging of his primal enemies, the elements, accident and chance.

DOMINANT NOTE IN STOCK TRADE IS UNCERTAINTY

War and Election Factors in 1940 Outlook.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 1.—The dominant note in the annual flow of ideas and guesses as to what the new year holds for the stock market is uncertainty. Two major factors lend to this uncertainty. First, in Wall street opinion, is what turns the war in Europe will take and what the result will be in the American economy. The other is the presidential election.

The generally drifting character of the market during the last three months has been attributed by some observers in large part to failure of foreign orders—both from neutral and belligerent nations—to materialize in the quantities that had been expected.

Prices Dip After War Boom.

A second factor in the somewhat lower trend in stock prices since the brief but frenzied war boom spurt in September has been predictions of a reaction in domestic business in the early part of this year.

Few observers, however, expect any sharp business reaction to plague the market.

Tradition dating from the nineteenth century has it that presidential election years bring poor business. This was based on the tariff being a major issue, with a halt in business activity entirely possible. However, only three of the ten election years during the last 40 years have found business bad. These were 1908, 1920, and 1932—when there were other factors than politics to be blamed.

The stock market's year 1939 was distinguished principally by Wall street's almost complete absorption with affairs in Europe. One other feature, if it can be termed that, was that volume of trading was the smallest since 1923. Only 262,015,799 shares were traded, compared with 297,385,659 last year.

The Tribune's average of 50 representative stocks moved in the comparatively small range of 30 points, and prices ended remarkably near the level at which they said good-by to 1938. The average closed at 110, compared with 108.51 Dec. 31, 1938.

After drifting generally lower for two months, the market rose modestly on new reports that the government wished to coöperate with business. This mild show of life was snuffed out abruptly with the Nazi grab of Czecho-Slovakia.

Improvement in steel operations and the congressional tax revision program were given major credit, in the absence of European developments of note, for a recovery in prices during the latter half of May. But weakness set in again late in June, as the German demand for Danzig appeared to be nearing a head.

Domestic Affairs Suppliant War.

It was only in July, when congress broke out in full rebellion against major items in President Roosevelt's program, that European affairs were shoved backstage. The market ran up more than 10 points as the administration's $800,000,000 housing bill was killed and the $2,800,000,000 spend-lend proposal cut in half.

Stock prices then turned highly erratic in August on European news. With the actual arrival of war, however, stocks boomed.

The market moved in an exceptionally narrow range during October, with generally dull trading continuing thru the rest of the year.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE TELLS PLANS FOR 1940

1939 Is Termed Fair Year as Trading Expands.

BY FRANK TOOLEY.

Continued improvement of facilities, higher trading volume on the basis of an expected extension of the general business upturn, and new listings constitute the aims of the Chicago Stock exchange for the new year.

Last year was a fair one for the exchange. Volume of trading, measured in dollar value, increased 72 per cent over the 1938 level. Share volume stepped up 12.5 per cent. Officials declared this showing, on the basis of latest figures of the Securities and Exchange commission, contrasted with a gain of 2.3 per cent in dollar value and a decrease of 9 per cent in share volume on all exchanges.

Administrative Changes Made.

While trading showed improvement, officials still were able to effect administrative and technical changes designed to broaden the scope of the Chicago exchange. These changes, extending a reorganization program started in 1938, included the election of the first salaried president, new listings led by United States Steel shares, an advertising campaign, and perfection and expansion of the exchange's odd lot system.

War in Europe brought a turnover of 136,000 shares on Sept. 5, the largest volume for any day since Oct. 20, 1937. September trading totaled 1,265,000 shares. This was more than double the volume for August or for the corresponding month of 1938. For all of 1939 trading amounted to 8,386,000 shares, exclusive of 904,050 rights, against 7,707,000 shares and 3,240,000 rights in 1938.

Dollar Volume Near 1937.

Dollar volume last year made a fairly close approach to the 1937 level. With September again proving the big month, the exchange had sales amounting to $163,919,115 during the first 11 months of the year. This compared with $111,139,230 the year before and $190,000,000 in 1937.

BANKING PROFIT OF CONTINENTAL HIGHEST IN U. S.

Chicago Institution Earns 16½ Million in 1939.

Deposits at the close of the year totaled $270,291,607, against $234,271,166 at the end of 1938, representing an increase of 15.38 per cent, Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board, announced.

"During the last ten years business has encountered many difficulties, of which the banking business has experienced its full share," Harris told shareholders. "However, at no time have our capital, surplus, and undivided profits been impaired, and our deposits during this period have increased from $90,000,000 to $270,000,000, and more than $4,000,000 has been added to surplus and undivided profits."

NORTHERN TRUST EARNINGS

The Northern Trust company announced its 1939 net earnings were $906,914, equal to $30.23 a share, compared with the 1938 figure of $900,207, or $30.01 a share.

Total deposits rose to $369,946,356 as of Dec. 31, 1939, from $339,997,000 a year earlier, with savings deposits increasing to $80,001,286 from $76,321,000.

Investments in United States government securities were reduced to $103,238,348 as of the close of 1939, from $108,643,000 the year before. Loans and discounts of $38,284,682 compared with $32,881,000 at the end of 1938.

CITY NATIONAL BANK

The City National Bank and Trust company reported 1939 earnings of 364,078, equal to $9.10 a share, compared with $290,130, or $7.25 a share in 1938.

Philip R. Clarke.

Philip R. Clarke, president, and Charles G. Dawes chairman, said that the bank has confined its investment in government obligations to short term securities. Earnings would have been double the amount reported if it had been considered expedient to invest in longer term governments, the report said.

Policy on Federal Bonds.

Defining the policy toward government obligations, the bank executives said:

"Two distinct policies seem gradually to have developed among bankers and, in greater or lesser degree, to have divided their opinions and practices.

"The one—that surplus loanable funds be invested, in whole or in substantial part, in long term bonds, including government issues, notwithstanding the prevailing high range of prices. If our bank had pursued this policy, the rate of net earnings for 1939 on capital stock would be more than doubled.

Avoid Long Term Issues.

"The other—that a bank refrain, no matter how excessive its surplus cash and no matter the diminution in current income, from the purchase of long term bonds at any such price levels as presently exist and thus avoid the risk of severe loss that might be sustained thru later price recessions.

"This second policy has been the one thus far followed by us, and despite low rate of return that it yields, in the present unsettled condition of both domestic and foreign affairs we see no reason for changing it. Hence our holdings in United States government securities have been confined thruout the year to short term obligations and, as of Dec. 31, 1939, had an average maturity of less than two years."

The City National's investments in government securities totaled $40,532,454 as of Dec. 31, 1939, compared with $33,991,000 a year earlier.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK

The American National Bank and Trust company in a statement of condition as of Dec. 31, 1939, showed total resources of $73,855,969, against $61,110,571 at the close of 1938. Deposits increased during the year from $57,253,578 to $69,611,148, and total loans advanced from $11,776,843 to $16,957,052.

Laurance Armour, president, said the bank's earnings would be announced at the stockholders' annual meeting on Jan. 9. The current statement showed undivided profits of $554,030, against $368,000 at the close of 1938.

BANK OF AMERICA INDICATED PROFIT IS LOWER FOR 1939

Indicated net earnings of the Bank of America National Trust and Savings association, San Francisco, were $12,387,240 for 1939, equal to $3.10 a share, according to a year-end statement made public yesterday. Indicated net earnings for 1938 were $14,555,000, or $3.64 a share.

L. M. Giannini, president, said the banking chain's deposits reached $1,482,791,675 as of Dec. 31, a new high level for the organization, comparing with $1,437,027,491 a year earlier.

The company set aside $4,381,000 for reserves against depreciation and $5,000,000 to reduce the carrying value of loans and investments. Dividends were continued at $2.40 a share, involving a total of $9,600,000. In addition $1,206,000 was allotted to employés under a profit sharing bonus plan.
